OBITUARIES.

Newark Conference.

William Day was born November 10, 1827, in Larkfield, County of Kent, England, and was converted on his seventeenth birthday in the Wesleyan chapel at East Malling, Maidstone Circuit. Very soon he was employed as exhorter and local preacher on the circuit, and passed the entrance examination at the Richmond Theological Institute, but was unable to complete the full course because of ill health. In March, 1850, he came to the United States, was admitted on trial by the New Jersey Conference in 1851, and was appointed to Milford, Pa. His succeeding charges were: Succasunna Plains, Bernardsville and Basking Ridge, New Vernon and Basking Ridge, West Broad Street Chapel, Newark (the beginning of St. Luke's Church); Hedding Church, Jersey City; First Church, Rahway; Halsey Street Church, Newark; Hedding Church, Jersey City, again; Washington, N. J.; Plainfield; First Church, Orange; Passaic, Simpson Church, Jersey City; Plainfield again, Nyack, Hoboken, Fulton Street Church, Elizabeth; Trinity Church, Newark; Dover, Rutherford. He was married November 18, 1857, his widow, with their son and daughter, still surviving. Some months before his death the Editor of The Christian Advocate wrote a portraiture of an ideal minister for an editorial, having William Day in mind as the model minister. His life was rounded out in a constant obedience to the injunction, "Take heed unto thyself, and unto the doctrine; continue in them: for in doing this thou shalt both save thyself, and them that hear thee." He was, in a genuine sense, God's exponent of an experience of the divine fullness or perfect love. The observer was charmed with that magnetic influence which a soul that has found the rest of faith always exerts over other souls—a rest that defied in his case the thickest darkness or the fiercest storm. Ungenerous criticisms of others found no place in his heart; charity was its dominant impulse. On Sunday, July 21, 1895, just as the services in the Rutherford Church were closing, the lips which two Sabbaths before had spoken the last faithful Gospel message grew silent in the parsonage near by, and the freed spirit of this devoted servant of the Lord passed to the fruition of the upper sanctuary. We tenderly and gratefully say of him, "An honored life, a peaceful death, and heaven to crown it all."

Charles Howland Bassett was born in Great Hill, Conn., December 10, 1864, and died at Paterson, N. J., August 8, 1895. He gave his heart to the Lord when but eleven years of age, his conversion taking place at his father's hearthstone. His mother died when he was five years old, his father when he was sixteen. Two of his brothers were burned to death in 1882. His early years were spent on his father's farm. He graduated from Cazenovia in 1886, and from Syracuse University in 1890. During his college course he was stationed at Constantia, N. Y., in the Northern New York Conference, where he did noble work. He joined the Northern New York Conference in 1890, and married in June of the same year Kate A. Adams, of North Manlius, N. Y. He was appointed to Cleveland, N. Y., in 1891, and again in 1892, but during that year was transferred to the Newark Conference, was appointed to Branchville, N. J., and began a course in Drew Seminary. The people at Branchville and the faculty and students at Drew knew him as an earnest Christian. In June, 1895, he was appointed assistant pastor of Market Street Church, in Paterson. After a few weeks of faithful service typhoid fever prostrated him, twelve days of intense suffering followed, and his sanctified spirit entered the heavens. To him the ministry was in no sense an isolated priesthood. He was buoyant and jovial in manner, a good singer, a delightful companion, a firm friend. He had a passion for saving souls. In the delirium of the fatal fever he began praying for Paterson, and seemed to be in agony lest some one would be lost. Later he prayed for fifty souls, and his last words were, "O Lord, save—O Lord—" He is cut off in the morning of his manhood; his memory shall be a sacred treasure until we clasp hands in the great fraternity of heaven.

John Ogden Winner was the son of Rev. Isaac Winner, D.D., of the New Jersey Conference, and was born in Sussex County, N. J., May 29, 1826. His father was one of the heroic figures of New Jersey Methodism, a man of solid convictions and clear intellect. He gave his son, John Ogden, the best advantages of education at Pennington Seminary and Dickinson College. He entered the latter institution in the junior class, and graduated with honor in 1848. He married in 1850 Sarah J. Taylor, of Palisades, N. Y. He entered the New Jersey Conference in 1848, and when the Newark Conference was organized became a member of that body. In April, 1895, he received a supernumerary relation. He was attacked with illness September 25, 1895, and on March 4, 1896, he entered upon his heavenly reward. He was a man of culture. There was nothing about him of ostentation or parade. His convictions of duty were strong, and he never flinched in their performance. He was religious without pretension, quiet, gentle, and courteous to all, and a Christian gentleman. His preaching was instructive and calculated to build up believers in the faith. Among the charges he filled were: Dover, Eighth Avenue, Newark; Plainfield, St. James, Elizabeth; Prospect Street, Paterson; Simpson, Jersey City; Hoboken, and Trinity and Woodrow, S. I. His influence will abide in the hearts of thousands to whom he had ministered. One very near him writes: "He never complained. He was easily made happy. The common things of life seemed to speak to him in a language of their own. He loved little children and dumb animals. I doubt if he ever passed a little child without speaking, and they loved him. He preached a series of sermons once on the destiny of the brute creation, and trusted that death did not end all for these devoted friends and helpers of man. . . . He belonged to the old order of Methodist ministers who accepted the disadvantages as well as the advantages of the itinerancy, and did his duty cheerfully and faithfully wherever he was sent. During his last illness he seemed to have an especial tenderness for his friends and his fellow-workers in the ministry, and could hardly speak of any of them without tears." His wife, with five children, among them Mrs. Henry Wade Rogers, wife of President Rogers, of the Northwestern University, still survives. When the reapers shall return to give an account to the Lord of the harvest he will come forth with joy, "bringing his sheaves with him."

Cyrenius A. Wombough began his Christian life in his early youth, and his ministry in 1854. For half a century he walked in the ways of the Lord, and for thirty years in the itinerant ministry, traversing the following charges: Verona, Mariner's Harbor, Rockaway, First Church, Hackensack; Mechanicsville, N. Y.; Springfield, Stanhope, West Town, N. Y.; Blairstown, Mendham, Buttzville, Suffern, Sparta, Mount Horeb, Basking Ridge, and Kingwood. In 1884 he retired to the supernumerary ranks, in which he spent the remnant of his life. A few years ago he was stricken with paralysis, which made his articulation difficult, and a few days before his departure another blow made it impossible. But when one spoke to him about Jesus and his salvation and the home to which he was going tears of joy would roll down his cheeks, while his whole frame would quiver with heavenly joy. He will be remembered because of his sweet Christian spirit, his true Christian character, his abundant and self-sacrificing labors, and his fidelity as a friend.

Charles Ridgeway Snyder was born in Allamuchy, N. J., February 3, 1837; he spent his boyhood partly in Paterson and partly in Newark; he was converted at fourteen, and was educated in Pennington Seminary, Wesleyan University, and Dickinson College. Admitted to the Newark Conference on trial in 1860, he was appointed to Millstone and Kingsley. He married, March 3, 1863, Rebecca B. Porter, and was appointed to Irvington, Belvidere, and Bound Brook. Poor health compelling him to take a supernumerary relation, he taught at Hackettstown several years, and then went to Minnesota. With improved health he resumed ministerial work, inspired a schoolhouse congregation to build the Franklin Avenue Church, Minneapolis, also influenced the people of Wadena and Verndale to build. Returning East, after ten years' absence, he was appointed in his own Conference to the following charges: Palisades and Piermont, Blairstown, Cokesbury and Califon, Mount Hope, Broadway, and Denville and Rockaway Valley. At Denville he built a new church. In April, 1895, broken health forced him once more to ask a supernumerary relation. In June, while reading the Greek Testament, he had a development of religious experience which seemed the climax of his life. He wonderfully apprehended Christ's nearness and helpfulness, and was exalted to a height of spiritual blessedness, where he remained until the end. From June to September various misfortunes encircled him, but he was strangely buoyant. In this period, when he was tarrying in the Saint Barnabas Hospital, Newark, anticipating an operation he had only one chance in ten of surviving, he testified, "All my conceptions of the possibilities of the Christian life have been surpassed. God has surprised me as a sufficiency, stay, and joy." He said at another time, "I had not thought it possible for one to have such absolute assurance for reaching heaven. . . . I have been unworthy, have questioned and doubted, have had many intellectual misgivings, but all these have gone like winter's snowbanks before spring sunshine." These words were especially significant, coming from his lips; for through years he had been greatly tried by doubts as to a future life, and at times was tempted to withdraw from the ministry. His strength failed, the contemplated operation could not be performed, and he died in the hospital on Sunday, September 8, 1895. He was an unusual man, remarkable in mechanical skill, and as a naturalist. He know the various denizens of forest, field, and stream as most men knew their friends. He saw in grasses, ferns, and flowers what most of us are too blind to see. The greatest thing in the world to him was duty, and, although often perplexed, he was unflinchingly loyal to it. His final sense of victory he always craved. It crowned his career with glory, made him superior to death, and was a foretaste of heaven.

Henry Littz was born in Sandy Stone, N. J., September 25, 1824, and died in Susquehanna, N. Y., January 31, 1896. He was blessed with a Christian mother, noted for her piety, from whom he inherited that loving disposition which won for him friends wherever he went. When about eighteen he was born again by the Spirit, and soon after felt called to preach. After proving faithful as an exhorter, he was licensed as a local preacher and supplied a number of charges. He was admitted to this Conference in 1860. His appointments were: Forestburg, Barryville, Bloomingdale, Middle Smithfield, Columbia and Hainesburg, Hope, Buttzville, Stillwater, Centerville and Greenville, Barryville again, Vernon, Newfoundland, Montvale and Saddle River. Till he took a supernumerary relation in 1894 he usually preached three times on Sunday, conducted one or two Sunday schools, traveled from ten to twenty miles, and lived on an almost invisible salary. After his retirement from active work he preached in schoolhouses Sunday evenings till his death. His sermons were biblical and interesting, and were often attended with moving pathos and power. He was a man of power in prayer. On nearly all his charges he was blessed with revivals. He was beloved in every community where he lived. He married Margaret Rich March 13, 1852, who, with two sons and one daughter, survives him. He grew old sweetly and beautifully. He had a premonition that he would not live long after retiring from active work. Oftentimes in the prayer meeting he would say, "I shall soon be with Christ." About January 1, 1896, he went to visit his son in Susquehanna, N. Y. On Sunday evening, January 19, he preached in the Methodist church. On the following Saturday he was taken ill with pneumonia, and died on Friday, January 31. Death to him was but the minister of God to draw aside the curtains of the invisible and enter him into the beatitudes of the blessed.

Lewis Goodwin Griffith was born in Rock Hill, Pa., October 9, 1863. His mother died when he was twelve, and he was thrown upon his own resources. At nineteen he was converted during a gracious revival at "Old Asbury," in Philadelphia. Entering Dickinson College in 1885 he supplied Paxton. In 1887 he left Carlisle, went to Madison, and joined the class of '91 at Drew Seminary, from which he graduated. While at Drew he served as supply at Parsippany, N. J., for two years. In 1891 he was received on probation in the Newark Conference, and was appointed to Port Murray, Anderson, and Mount Bethel Charge. On April 29, 1891, he married Maggie B. Linn, of Philadelphia. In 1892 he was appointed to Harmony Charge, and gave unfaltering devotion to his work. In 1893 he was returned to the charge, having been received into full connection in the Conference; but after a few months of faithful service he was stricken down with typhoid fever, which wrecked the physical man. Every loving care bestowed upon him was all of no avail. Consumption finally developed, and on February 5, 1896, he was not, for God took him.

Nelson Alexander Macnichol was born in Philadelphia, Pa., August 2, 1852, and died in Paterson, N. J., September 16, 1895. His ancestry, Scotch-Irish, gave to his character both strength and brightness. His mother was a direct descendant of Lord Nelson. He was educated in the schools of his native city and at Dickinson Seminary, Williamsport, Pa. At seventeen he was converted on the street, after seeking peace publicly in the church for successive nights. He joined the Eleventh Street Church, in Philadelphia, and at twenty was called to preach. On March 30, 1874, he married Hattie F. Smith, of Philadelphia, who, with two daughters and two sons, survive him. In 1876 he joined the New Jersey Conference. His first appointment was Delano, N. J., and his last Market Street Church, Paterson, N. J. Cedarville, Merchantville, Long Branch, and Red Bank are among the prominent charges he served in the New Jersey Conference. From the latter place he was called to Halsey Street Church, Newark, where he labored successfully for five years. His preaching was solidly spiritual, not speculative, not ethical, nor philosophical. His interpretations of Scripture, especially in the parables and biography, were often unique. He had rare gifts of textual illumination and of uttering constantly simple Gospel truth, intensely practical, and peculiarly adapted to the everyday needs of his fellow-men. He was meek and lowly and went about in a quiet way doing good. To his view death is only an incident in the endless Christian life. In his own favorite phrase, "He has crossed the bridge of sunshine into the eternal day."

Washington Conference.

James Thomas was born in Calvert County, Md., December 25, 1819. In his eighteenth year he embraced religion, but was compelled by his owners to attend the Episcopal church. By the assistance of some white friends he learned to read and write. The Bible and the speller being his only books, he gave himself to them, and committed whole chapters of the Bible to memory. In 1836 he was carried to Washington by his owners and hired out in the navy yard, being given the privilege of buying his own freedom. After working for eighteen years he managed by industry and the assistance of friends to raise the required amount of six hundred dollars. In 1836 he joined Asbury Church, and was soon after appointed class leader. In 1855 he was licensed to preach. On December 6, 1843, he married Miss Letitia Ambush. At the organization of the Washington Conference in 1864 he was admitted on trial and sent to Roberts Chapel, Alexandria, Va. He afterward served the following charges with great acceptability: Union Chapel, Cincinnati; Wheeling, Asbury, Baltimore; Asbury, Washington (where he was once a member and that sent him out to preach). In 1877 he was Presiding Elder of Alexandria District. He then served Orchard Street, Baltimore (now Metropolitan); Frederick City, Hagerstown, Saint Paul, Baltimore; Waugh Chapel, Baltimore; Simpson Chapel, Washington. In 1892 he was granted a superannuated relation, which he sustained until death. As a man, he was eminent in goodness. As a preacher, he was a "faithful expounder of the truth as it is in Jesus." As an administrator, he was very judicious. He was ever forbearing, and as he advanced in age the more loving he was. Several months before his death he was greatly afflicted; but he contemplated death calmly and said, "It is all bright with me. The Lord's will is mine." He died in great peace at his residence in Washington, D. C., March 21, 1895.

Samuel George Griffin was born in Baltimore, Md., July 15, 1852. In his fifteenth year he was converted and joined the Sharp Street Church, Baltimore, where he was for many years Sunday school secretary and teacher. In his early years he attended the private schools of Baltimore. He was licensed to preach in 1870, and joined the Washington Conference on trial in 1872, being sent to Washington Court House. By the formation of Lexington Conference out of the Washington Conference in 1872 his lot fell in the former, and he served the churches in Lexington and Georgetown, Ky. In 1879 he was transferred back to the Washington Conference and sent to Gunpowder Circuit and Frederick City. In 1881–85 he was Presiding Elder of Staunton District. He then served Asbury, Baltimore; Sharp Street, Baltimore; and Lynchburg. At the Conference of 1895 he was sent to Alexandria, Va., where in the midst of success he was stricken. His illness was short and his death unexpected. As the end drew near he heard the song of the angels and exclaimed, "O, can't they sing!" And then he sang, "My latest sun is sinking fast." Thus he continued to rejoice until Sunday, August 4, 1895, when he became unconscious, and quietly passed away. His piety and usefulness constitute an example worthy of imitation. His Conference has lost one of its most efficient ministers.

Lewis B. Skinner was born in Warren County, Va., March 28, 1843. At the Washington Conference of 1886 he was received as an elder from the Colored Methodist Episcopal Church of America. His first appointment was Norfolk and Princess Anne. He afterward served Northern Neck and Fincastle. He had been in failing health for several months, and at the Conference of 1895 took a superannuated relation. His sufferings were very great, but were cheerfully borne. On the day of his death his faith was strong and his soul absorbed in things above. He said to his wife, "Be of good cheer. I am ready, just waiting the will of my Father." He finished his course with joy October 15, 1895.

Frederick F. Sawyer was born in Calvert County, Md., June 21, 1841. He was admitted on trial in the Washington Conference in 1876. His first charge was Spring Creek, Va., where he served three years. He afterward served with great success Union, White Hall, Bowie Circuit, White Plains Circuit, Motley's Circuit, New Market, and Bengies Circuit. Prior to his death he was in failing health for several months, but kept at the work as long as he could, and was engaged in holding a camp meeting on his circuit within a few days of his death. When he could work no longer he said to one of his local preachers, "I shall soon go home to rest, but carry on the work." He died September 14, 1895. A few hours before his death he said that he was ready and was waiting the will of his heavenly Father. "Say ye to the righteous, that it shall be well with him."

Missouri Conference.

William Hartel was born in Clay County, Mo., June 15, 1858. His boyhood was spent on a farm. His parents were German Methodists, and he was early led to unite with the church, but at times doubted his acceptance with God. In 1873, after having sought earnestly for months, the clear light broke into his soul and he received a most gracious baptism of the Spirit. About this time he felt called to preach, and commenced to prepare. In 1874 he entered Central Wesleyan College, graduating in 1879. In 1882 he entered the theological department of Boston University, where he studied for two years. In September, 1885, he was admitted on trial in the Saint Louis German Conference and appointed to Moberly. In 1886 he served New Wells, and in 1887 Cape Girardeau. In 1889 he resumed his studies at Garrett Biblical Institute, where he graduated in 1890. The same spring he was transferred to the Missouri Conference and stationed at Canton, where he remained three years. In 1893 he served the Maitland Charge. In 1894 he was appointed to Wyaconda, to which he was returned in 1895. He was taken with la grippe at Conference, and with much effort reached home. His last testimony was, "Tell my brethren I died trusting in Jesus. All is well."

James M. Parker was born in Fairmount, W. Va., November 5, 1833. He was converted and joined the church at sixteen. He acquired a common school education in his native town. At twenty-one he entered the academy at Paris, Ill., and after finishing the course returned to West Virginia. In the spring of 1865 he joined the Missouri Conference. His first appointment was Shelbyville. After this he served Keytesville, Cameron, Laclede, Kirksville, Hannibal, Trenton, Marysville, Memphis, Princeton, and Plattsburg. One year he was presiding elder. In 1879 his wife died at Trenton, Mo., and in 1887 he married Miss Bertha Ridgeway. On Friday, March 28, 1896, he fell asleep in Jesus after a life of faithful and honorable service. He was always regarded as an able minister of the Gospel, and leaves his record behind him in the hearts and memory of the best people of the Church.

Samuel N. Warner was born in Dutchess County, N. Y., February 23, 1820, and died in Savannah, Mo., June 14, 1895. In early manhood he settled in the Oil Creek country of Pennsylvania. In 1844 he married Miss Levancia Kelly, who died July 31, 1851. Through a godly grandmother he was converted when about fifteen, and joined the Presbyterian church. After a time he grew cold, but years later was reclaimed, and for doctrinal reasons united with the Methodist Episcopal church. A license to exhort, given in 1843, was yearly renewed until he was licensed to preach in 1851. From the grave of his wife he went to serve as junior preacher on the Brookville Circuit, Erie Conference. Received on trial at the next session he was appointed to Wattsburg Circuit. On May 17, 1853, he married Miss Mary E. Johnson, who, with her children, Professor A. B. Warner, of Harlan, Ia., and Rev. C. J. Warner, of Missouri Conference, yet survive. He was appointed to Ashville in 1853. His succeeding appointments were: Youngsville, Villanova, Perrysburg, Ashville again, Columbus, Pine Grove, Leon, and Ellington. In 1865 he located and moved to Bowling Green, Mo., where he became the pastor's assistant. He also supplied Clarksville for a time. In the spring of 1868 he was admitted to the Missouri Conference and appointed to New London. He served Truxton two years and Princeton District four years. Here, as elsewhere, he did heroic service. The country was new, the streams bridgeless, and the people poor. He went to Edinburg in 1875; in 1876 he took a supernumerary relation. In 1879 he returned to the effective ranks, and was successively sent to Ridgely (now Edgerton) Circuit, King City, Skidmore, Burlington Junction, Hopkins, and Savannah. In 1890 he became superannuated, and so continued until his death. During this interval he supplied Savannah Circuit and Barnard. Possessed of great physical strength he had an equally vigorous mind, and both were directed by a hopeful and determined spirit. He was a builder in Zion, and his monuments in the form of self-supporting churches are seen in all parts of our Conference. His sermons were analytical in style, clear and forceful. He was mighty in prayer. A studious man to the last, his latest sermons were his best. Sick but a few days, his last hours were full of triumph. Just before he passed away his son asked, "How is it now, father?" Raising his hands he said in ecstasy, "It is grand, it is grand; no other word can express it." Then with eyes resting on his wife their light gradually faded out and he was not.

New England Conference.

William Wirt Colburn was born in Wilton, Me., July 16, 1834, and died in Waltham, Mass., April 13, 1895. His parentage was humble, and in his early childhood he was left without home or near relatives. Through the kindness of a friend he was brought to West Boyleston, Mass., and was employed in a shoe shop for several years. It was his good fortune during this period to hear John B. Gough in one of his impassioned lectures. He was aroused to prepare for a useful life, and accordingly availed himself of the best educational privileges the town afforded. He then attended Wilbraham Academy, and during his academic course received the evidence of sins forgiven. He left Wilbraham with the conviction that he ought to enter the ministry, and in further preparation for this work spent two years in the Concord Biblical Institute. He received his exhorter's license in 1859, and joined the New England Conference in 1860. He was ordained deacon by Bishop Janes in 1862, and elder by Bishop Ames in 1864. His appointments were as follows: Berlin, Shrewsbury, Cherry Valley, Hudson twice, Marlboro, East Hampton, Fitchburg, Waltham, Warren Street, Boston; Center, Provincetown; Lowell Highlands, Sudbury, and Rockbottom. As a preacher, he was instructive, experimental, and spiritual. Churches were blessed under his administration and sinners were converted. He loved the work of the ministry, and was strongly attached to his brethren. He served as chaplain of the Massachusetts State Prison three years with great acceptability. On June 28, 1860, he married Miss Laura A. Chamberlain, of Clinton, who, with a son and a daughter, survives. His character was a constellation of Christian graces. His sickness was lingering and often distressing, but through it all grace wonderfully triumphed. The frail tenement fell; the soul rose victorious to its Father and its God.

Charles A. Merrill began life April 20, 1826, in Woodstock, Me., and finished his earthly course January 9, 1896, in Sprinfield, Mass. He was educated in the public schools and in the theological institute at Concord, N. H., where he graduated in 1855. His eyes were opened to the larger life in Christ, when he was about seventeen years of age, in Winthrop, Me. He was twice married. His appointments were: Globe Village (Fall River), Middletown, Millville, Little Compton, Mystic and Hazardville, Central, Springfield; Ipswich, Rockport, Woburn, Holyoke, Easthampton, Monson, Winchendon, Oakdale, Tapleyville, and Maynard. The vigorous churches at Middletown, Fall River, and Grace, Springfield, were begun by him, the first of these being organized with only four members, one of whom was his wife. His people were invariably led into a sturdy Christian experience, while in many cases great revivals were the fruit of his labors. The little church of four members at Middletown was soon in a revival blaze in midsummer, and farmers left their hay in the field to attend to the interests of their souls. He was choice of speech and of spirit. A more tender-hearted man has seldom lived. In his last sickness he was heard murmuring in the night, and when questioned if he wanted anything replied, "O no, I was only thanking Him." His faith triumphed in death. When asked if he was afraid to go his characteristic reply was, "No, I shall not go shouting, but I shall go trusting." And yet his kindled eye and glowing countenance would indicate that he saw a vision of wondrous beauty before his eyes closed forever.

William Gordon was born in Windham, N. H., June 13, 1810, and died in Worcester, Mass., October 23, 1895. His parents were worthy members of the church with which he united at the age of seventeen. Furnished with a public school education he entered business in Lowell, but was strangely attracted by religious work, and in 1834 joined the New England Conference. His successive appointments were: Pelham and Greenwich, Buckland, Worthington and Ashfield, Brookfield, Belchertown, Wales, Gill and Leydon, Oakham, Hubbardstown, Winchendon, Barre and Petersham, Adelphi Street, Newburyport; Danvers, Shrewsbury, Oxford, Springfield District, New Worcester, Ware, Belchertown again, South Worthington, Chester, West Parish, Westfield; Palmer, Greenfield, Holyoke, Oakdale, North Grafton, Oxford again, and Wales again. He then became superannuated. Entering the Conference during the pioneer period, he had his full share of difficult work. At his first station there was no church, no parsonage, no furniture, yet he had a successful year. In 1836 he was stationed in Ashfield, a mountain town, which had already begun to lose its population by emigration. The meeting-house was but an extension of the schoolhouse, and in the winter he was the popular village teacher. Having done a noble work, the preacher was remembered as the good minister who was passing rich on a hundred-dollar salary. He was a tried and trusted man, devoted to one work; he was plain, sensible, and eminently devout; he was a son of New England without pretense. Unlike most men he grew young and enthusiastic as he advanced in life. At seventy-five he was a better preacher and worker than at twenty-five. He was never known to complain of his appointments. When assigned to the Springfield District he shed tears. But in this he was singular, being the only man in our knowledge who has wept at being appointed to a district. He was twice married. His second wife and three children survive.

George Hewes was born of Quaker ancestry in Foxboro, Mass., July 2, 1818. As he grew to manhood he desired an education that he might fit himself for a teacher, and attended Holliston Academy. In his youth he became interested in religion, but it was not until the great revival of 1857 that he was converted. He was a resident of Webster at the time, and united with the church. The impression coming to him that it was his duty to enter the ministry he joined the New England Conference in 1860. For seventeen years, until 1877, he labored faithfully; the eighteen subsequent years were marked by much physical infirmity, during which time he was superannuated. He served the following charges: Fiskdale, South Belchertown, Chester, Northampton, Cherry Valley, North Brookfield, Wales, Pelham, Enfield, South Wilbraham, Blandford, and Southwick. At Enfield, South Wilbraham, and North Brookfield his labors were blessed with revivals. He was quick in forming his opinions and fearless in expressing them. His tastes were refined; he was fond of music and flowers. He was of studious habits. As a preacher, he excelled. In his prayer-meeting talks his careful arrangement of thought and clear presentation of his subject impressed the listener to a remarkable degree. The last years of his life were marked by gradually failing health. Toward the end he grew very anxious to hear the summons home. After weary months of waiting it came on the morning of May 23, 1895, and peacefully he passed away. He is survived by his devoted wife and a son and daughter.

Kansas Conference.

Nathan Taylor was born July 21, 1816, in Stark County, O., and died in Pleasant Hill, La., July 11, 1895. At sixteen he was converted and joined the church, soon after which he entered Norwalk Seminary. Among his classmates the late Bishop Harris was his most intimate friend, and continued such during the life of the bishop. On May 26, 1835, he married Miss Esther Powell. In 1841, feeling it his duty to preach, he volunteered to go as a missionary to the Arkansas Conference, where he served Mount Prairie, Greenville, Blue Bayou, Eldorado, Pine Bluff, and Clarksville Circuits. He joined the North Ohio Conference in 1848, and in 1857 he was transferred to the Kansas Conference, in which he labored until 1888. As pastor, presiding elder, and financial agent of Baker University he served the Church during thirty years, with the exception of 1869–71 and 1881–87, when he held a supernumerary relation. In 1882 he moved to Louisiana and engaged in the lumber business. He never ceased, however, to work for Christ. He loved children, and at the time of his death was superintendent of the Sunday school. He often preached for the colored people, and gave largely toward building them a church in Pleasant Hill, La., which they named Taylor Chapel. His ministerial labors in Arkansas and Kansas were attended with many hardships and privations, but were borne uncomplainingly. During his last sickness his friends said to him, "You can look back upon a long and useful life." His reply was, "I am only a poor sinner saved by grace." His last words were, "It is all bright."

Central Pennsylvania Conference.

John Alexander Woodcock was born at Nichumstown, Pa., June 13, 1841, and died in Bellefonte, Pa., December 4, 1895. At twenty years of age he enlisted in the army for three months, but returning home he taught and went to school until the fall of 1864, when he again enlisted. At twenty-two he entered Williamsport Dickinson Seminary for study. In 1867 he joined the East Baltimore Conference, and was appointed to Martinsburg Circuit. On the division of the Conference he became a member of the Central Pennsylvania Conference, in which he filled the following appointments: Manor Hill, Logan Valley, Greencastle, Mifflinburg, Watsontown, Price Chapel, Williamsport, Osceola, Milesburg, Mechanicsburg, and Bellefonte. In 1883, his health failing him, he took a supernumerary relation, and, after spending one year in Bedford, located in Bellefonte. For about one year before his death his health gradually failed. The night before he died he talked freely with his wife and, among other things, said, "It would be far better for me to go, but this is my battle and the Lord wants me to live just as long as I can. I am not afraid to die. I come to Jesus now as I first came, trusting alone in God for salvation, and it is all right." His goodness of heart and purity of spirit were known and appreciated in many places. After a devoted and useful life he sleeps well.

William H. Keith was born in Cecil County, Md., in 1829. In 1855 he was admitted on trial in the Baltimore Conference. Afterward he became a member of the East Baltimore, and then of the Central Pennsylvania Conference. At the breaking out of the war he was stationed at Havre de Grace, Md., where he recruited Company I of the First Maryland Regiment of Union Volunteers, receiving a commission as captain. Soon after he was elected chaplain of the Seventh Maryland Regiment, and so served during the war. His devotion, bravery, and kind attentions to the wants of the soldiers not only won him the respect and love of officers and men, but have since received grateful recognition from survivors in all parts of the Union. Broken down by overwork and exposure he became the victim of disease, but at the conclusion of the war resumed the work of the ministry. He was twice married. His appointments were as follows: Concord Circuit, Newport, New Bloomfield, North Baltimore, Mount Holly Springs, Havre de Grace, Emmittsburg; Emory, Carlisle; Newville and Rehoboth, Hanover and New Oxford; Fifth Street, Harrisburg; Duncannon, Waynesboro, Newberry; Fifth Street, Harrisburg again; Shickshinny, and Gettysburg. At the close of his three years' service at Gettysburg he reluctantly retired from active work, increased bodily suffering rendering such a step necessary. He gradually succumbed to the effects of disease contracted during the war, and on February 4, 1896, peacefully passed away.

Joshua Pierce Bobb was born near Mechanicsburg, Pa., November 23, 1846. He early developed a taste for books, and while but a boy was installed as teacher of a public school. He graduated with first honors from Dickinson College in 1870, and was admitted to the Central Pennsylvania Conference the same year. After a year on Salladasburg Charge he was for five years professor in Pennington Seminary. Failing health compelled him to resign this position. After traveling through Europe and the Holy Land he accepted a position in High Forest Seminary, High Forest, Minn. Here he married Miss Agnes M. Crumb. He received the degree of Ph.D. from Illinois Wesleyan University and that of LL.D. from the National University of Chicago. Ill health again compelled him to abandon literary work, and for several years he lived on a farm near Maywood, Neb., where his death occurred August 30, 1895.

Franklin Moore Welsh was born August 17, 1859, in Frederica, Del., and was born again at the age of sixteen in the old Ebenezer Church, in Philadelphia. He was a remarkable student, graduating from the public schools of Philadelphia at thirteen. He entered Dickinson College at the age of twenty-five and graduated in 1888. One who knew him best said, "It seemed his greatest delight was in studying his books." His brief ministerial work was everywhere acceptable and fruitful. His appointments were as follows; Chester, Easton; Eighth Avenue, Altoona; Roaring Springs, Second Church, Tyrone; Princess Street, York; and Trevorton. While serving Roaring Springs he married Minnie M. Hedding, of Bedford, Pa. He preached his last sermon on the evening of May 12 from Paul's words, "For to me to live is Christ, to die is gain," delivering his discourse with earnestness and power. He died June 1, 1895, and was laid to rest near the place of his birth in glorious hope of eternal life.

Joseph Reeder King was born in Dunnstown, Pa., March 2, 1832. He was converted at a camp meeting on the Jersey Shore Circuit in August, 1848, and united with the church in Newberry. His education was that of the common schools, but he was a close student of the Bible, of Methodism, and of history. In 1859 he was admitted to the East Baltimore Conference, and in 1861 was ordained deacon by Bishop Simpson. His successive charges were: Caledonia, Karthus, Shippen, Beaver Meadow, Concord, McConnellsburg, Milroy, Pine Creek, Congress Hill, Port Matilda, Trevorton, Milroy again, Ray's Hill, Manor Hill, Beach Haven, and Benton. In 1866 he organized the Crystal Springs Camp Meeting Association. His ministry was often blessed with revivals. In 1867, on the McConnellsburg Circuit, he conducted a great and precious work that many will remember for years. In his personal experience he had many and great victories. As a preacher, he was forcible and sometimes eloquent in presenting the Gospel. He was a man of deep convictions and uncompromising in their defense. Socially he was a most genial and helpful companion. His religious experience was rich in the witness of the Holy Spirit. His stronghold was the throne of grace; here he had power with God and with men. People testify to great blessings through his prayers. In the morning of April 5, 1895, he was preparing an Easter sermon. About eight o'clock he was attacked by a severe pain in the head. His wife and others watched with him until near noon, when he suddenly vanished out of their sight. We will not eulogize a glorified soul. Let him shine on forever.

John Whitstone Feight was born at Friend's Cove, Bedford County, Pa., August 18, 1837. His parents were Germans, and members of the Lutheran church. At about nineteen he went to Bedford and learned the carpenter's trade. Here he came under Methodist influence, and shortly after was converted at a camp meeting. After attending school at Shrewsbury Academy, and later at Rainsburg Seminary, he was licensed to preach November 4, 1864. Closing his school, which he was teaching at the breaking out of the late rebellion, he led in the organization of Company F, One Hundred and Thirty-eighth Regiment, Pennsylvania Volunteers, and was mustered into service August 29, 1862. He was appointed captain January 24, 1863. At Opequan, September 19, 1864, he was wounded, and after his return from the hospital to his regiment, because of physical disability he was appointed chaplain February 21, 1865. He exerted a strong influence upon his regiment. He frequently held prayer meetings in the camp, and often preached. Soon after the close of the war he was appointed to the Carlisle Circuit for the balance of the year. His subsequent appointments were York Springs, Carlisle Circuit again, Mount Alto, Mercersburg, Liverpool, Trevorton, Newville and Rehoboth, Liverpool, supernumerary, Mercersburg again, Montandon, Hyner, and Salladasburg. At Manheim camp meeting in 1869 he received the blessing of entire sanctification. Those who knew him best testify that he was a good preacher, a faithful pastor, and a pure and holy man of God. He was twice married. He never recovered from the exposures of his army life, and was a constant sufferer. In October, 1895, he moved to his own home in New Cumberland, Pa., where he died February 27, 1896.

Philadelphia Conference.

John Augustus Watson was born September 19, 1816, in Harford County, Md. At the age of fourteen he left his home and became an apprentice to a coach builder of West Chester, Pa, where he was converted, joined the church, and two years afterward was licensed to preach. The next spring he was admitted into the Philadelphia Conference, at that time covering the territory of the New Jersey Conferences, part of the Central Pennsylvania, the Wilmington, and the present Philadelphia. As a preacher, he was not brilliant, but clear, profound, and convincing. He was naturally a logician, and grasped the great things of God as if born to them. His early ministry was spent in the saddle, and his library hung on the flanks of his horse; his text-books—Watson, Fletcher, Wesley, and the like—were mastered to the letter. His circuits sometimes contained as many as twenty-seven appointments, and covered leagues of distance. In later years he was remarkable in his scholarly habits, pursuing methodically courses of specific and general reading, so that he amassed a great fund of accurate and critical information. His religious experience was of a very high order, sufficient and soul-satisfying. He was rather diffident in manner, but his sweetness of temper, gentleness of habit, and childlike sincerity won for him hosts of friends. He was a truly good man, and great in his goodness, and the world and the Church are poorer in his passing away. His long-suffering seemed to intensify his religious experience, but as well to shatter his already naturally weak frame, and he "fell on sleep" March 19, 1895.

Jeremiah Pastorfield was born at Royal Oak, Md., April 12, 1825, and died suddenly April 3, 1896. He was converted in his eighteenth year, and joined the Methodist Episcopal church. Called to preach, he was received on trial in 1848 in the Philadelphia Conference. In 1885 his health began to fail, and he thought a milder climate might restore him, and he was transferred to the Florida Conference. In 1894, by request of the Philadelphia Conference, he was transferred back to his old Conference home and appointed to Harmer Hill, where he labored and suffered for one year. On April 3, 1895, he was taken to his heavenly home. He was a good man, a good and successful preacher, and a faithful pastor. His record is on high. We knew him long and well and prized him for his worth and works. One of his last utterances was, "Saved up to date."

James Hepburn Hargis was born in Fairmount, Md., May 2, 1847, and died at his home in Germantown, Philadelphia, August 8, 1895. During the war he was acting captain of a company of volunteers in Missouri, but he soon returned and entered Dickinson College, from whence he graduated in 1871 with oratorical honors. On his return from college he was elected principal of the Georgetown Academy, Delaware. In 1871 he accepted the position of Superintendent of Public Schools of Hazelton, Pa., and became a member of the Mauch Chunk Methodist Episcopal Church. He was received in the Philadelphia Conference in 1872, and appointed to East Allentown and Redington. His subsequent appointments were: Park Avenue and Fifth Street, Philadelphia; Paul Street, Frankford; Haines Street, Germantown. At the expiration of his term in the latter charge he was transferred to the Newark Conference and stationed at Hedding Church, Jersey City. In 1884 he was transferred to the Italy Conference, and appointed assistant superintendent of our work in that field, where he displayed energy and untiring missionary zeal. He returned to the United States in 1885, and again became a member of the Philadelphia Conference, supplying Asbury Church, Philadelphia; Haines Street, Germantown; and at the end of his fourth year he was appointed Presiding Elder of the West District. At the time of his death he was completing the sixth year of his incumbency. The positions he held in the Church witness to his activity and the wide range of his usefulness. He was a member of the following organizations: A trustee of the Methodist Episcopal Hospital in Philadelphia, a manager of the Board of Church Extension, a manager of the Board of Education of the Philadelphia Conference, a manager of the City Mission and Church Extension Society, a manager of the Philadelphia Conference Tract Society, and a member of the Board of Control of the Fourth General Conference District. He was also a member of the Institute of Christian Philosophy and of the American Academy of Political and Social Science. He was elected to the General Conference of 1892. The degree of Doctor of Divinity was conferred upon him by Dickinson College, and that of Doctor of Philosophy by Grant University. He was a very methodical man. His work was arranged in all its details before beginning, and consequently when done was well done. The marked feature of his preaching was its scriptural character. His sermons are full of scriptural allusions, of scriptural quotations. He sought first the mind of the Spirit in Scripture and then to guide into all truth. His death, how like a blow in the dark it seemed to us! Those bright August days when he went out into the vast unknown, but for the revelation of the book, were gloom shrouded to the inner eyes. Our friend, genial, witty, humorous, but never foolish; quaint, but not queer; one who could weep with the weeping and rejoice with those that rejoice; a true friend, a sincere Christian, has passed away from earth to heaven.

Joseph Carlile was born in Wigton, England, June 9, 1804, and died in Media, Pa., August 25, 1895. He was converted early in life and united with the Wesleyan Church in England, where he received license to preach. He came to the United States in 1832, and united with the Philadelphia Conference in 1835. He was an effective minister for twenty-eight years, and held a supernumerary or superannuated relation for thirty-two years, thus having a connection with the Conference for sixty years, and was the oldest member of that body. From the spring of 1864 until his death he resided in Media, Pa., and was identified with the Methodist Episcopal Church in that borough. He rendered valuable aid to his brethren in the pastorate, to the church to which he sustained the relation of the faithful and devoted leader of the Sunday morning's class, and to the community as necessity required. His life was pure, faith strong, and prayers fervent and powerful. The great cardinal doctrines of the Gospel were his stay and support. His faith in them was implicit, and his soul was inspired with the hope of eternal life. On Saturday night he retired to bed as well as he had been for some time, and on Sabbath morning, soon after sunrise, "the weary wheels of life stood still," and the ransomed soul departed to spend the Sabbath in the vast temple of God.

George Cummins was born in Portadown, Ireland, March 17, 1834. He was born into the kingdom of God in the year 1850 at Blackwoodtown, N. J., and was licensed to preach in 1853. He was admitted on trial in the Philadelphia Annual Conference at the session of 1857, and continued a faithful laborer until his death, September 24, 1895. His ministerial appointments were as follows: Strasburg, Quantico, Accomac, Salisbury, Cherry Valley, Bridesburg, Philadelphia; Bethlehem, Waynesburg, Oak Street, Norristown; Saint John's, Philadelphia; Salem, Philadelphia; West Chester, Presiding Elder of Susquehanna District, Mariner's Bethel, Philadelphia; City Missions, Philadelphia; East Montgomery Avenue, Philadelphia; Ebenezer, Philadelphia; and Oxford. On April 16, 1861, he was united in marriage to Miss S. J. Parks. George Cummins was no ordinary man. His robust frame was the fitting embodiment of a robust intellect and a pure and noble soul. He was a diligent student, a profound theologian, and an earnest laborer for Christ. As a preacher, he ranked far above mediocrity, and often rose to the plane of eloquence, especially when addressing the multitudes on the camp ground. He was deeply interested in all the aggressive and progressive work of the Church of God, especially in the war against the drink evil. His tongue was never silent when a word needed to be spoken for the cause of total abstinence. His death came as a surprise to most of his ministerial brethren, who believed that there were yet before him years of useful service to the Church, and to the people of his last charge, who expected great results from his work among them. It came too soon for the completion of the work of earth, but not too soon for the rewards of heaven.

A. L. Hood was born in Pleasant Grove, Pa., June 18, 1845, and fell asleep in West Chester, Pa., October 30, 1895. In his youth he enjoyed the privileges of public and select schools. He joined the Bethel Church, Fulton Circuit, Pa., and was licensed to exhort at sixteen. In 1868 he was admitted to the Philadelphia Conference. His first appointment was to Zion Circuit. When the Conference divided he became a probationary member of the newly organized Wilmington Conference in 1869, and in 1870 he was appointed to Claymont, Del. In 1874 he was readmitted into the Philadelphia Conference. His subsequent appointments were: Kedron (now Morton), Fernwood, Hamburg, Port Clinton, Union, Delaware County, Chapman's, Newtown, Mount Joy and Springfield. He was married July 26, 1881, to Miss Irene Wagner, of Hamburg, Pa. He was of a very retiring disposition, hence was not widely known, but to those who knew him most conspicuously did the excellency of his character and the fineness of his mental qualities shine forth. His piety was most pronounced. He enjoyed a rich experience, professing the higher life. Nowhere did this beautiful Christlike spirit manifest itself more than within the precincts of home. As a preacher, he was an eminently original thinker. He had a keen mind, a deep insight into truth, a comprehensive grasp of the subject in hand, was fluent of speech, and persuasive in appeal. Possessing sterling qualities of heart and mind, he won and held the affections of his people. Thus for nearly thirty years our brother's ministry was faithfully and well done. Brother Hood's soul was tabernacled in a frail body, and for many months he battled against the destroyer. He was returned to Springfield, Chester County, for the second year, but became so enfeebled that he had to relinquish his work. He removed with his family to West Chester, Pa., in the early fall. Here he lingered until his death, October 30, 1895. He was a great sufferer, yet, amid the severest paroxysms, he would exclaim, "I stay in the furnace as long as the Lord stays with me!" It was when he was almost on the verge of Time's shores that he was asked if Christ was with him. Quickly he replied, "Yes;" and "I will fear no evil, for Thou art with me." In fullness of assurance he said, "I have no fear."

JOSEPH SYLVESTER LANE, for more than forty years identified with the Philadelphia Conference, passed from scenes of strife and toil to a reward in heaven, Sabbath morning, December 15, 1895. In his early ministry he was assigned to border territory, where he rapidly developed an antagonism to slavery, which became speedily apparent in Pictures of Slavery, as seen on his own circuit, and communicated to Zion's Herald, of Boston, Mass., in the form of "Junius" letters. The Civil War breaking out soon afterward he entered the army as chaplain of the Ninety-third Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteers, served three years, reenlisted, and was finally mustered out at the close of the conflict with honors. With such a record for an opening ministry it is no matter of surprise that he became known to us as a warm and consistent advocate of the most radical measures and movements which gave any sort of substantial promise of the speedy and permanent overthrow of the liquor traffic. A pastor of the evangelistic type, wherever he labored he left an abiding impression for good. It was a habit with him to visit literally from house to house, tract in hand, singing a hymn and offering prayer, extending courteous counsel and admonition. In his pulpit ministrations, embracing a wide range of "those things which are surely believed among us," it was abundantly proven that he was possessed of an honest conviction that "all Scripture was given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness." In social life and the household it was clear that he was a thoroughly good man, serious and playful, frank and reticent by turns, the young and old gathered around him with confidence. The transmitted power of his personality will live for a long time to come. To those who knew him death was not necessary for disclosure of such a character, since the steady testimony of a consistent life afforded constant manifestation. It is not surprising that, when dissolution was imminent a few weeks previous to his departure, he remarked in characteristic phrase to his physician, "I am packed up to date." He was born in Philadelphia, Pa, September 17, 1832; given licence to exhort June 24, 1851; to preach May 14, 1852; admitted on trial into the Conference of 1853; into full connection in the spring of 1855. His charges were as follows: Radnor, Dauphin, New Castle, Cambridge, Snow Hill; Pitman, Philadelphia; Middletown; chaplaincy in the army; Second Street, Philadelphia; Springfield; Asbury, Siloam, Fitzwater Street, Paschalville, and Eighteenth Street, Philadelphia; Waynesburg; Haddington, Philadelphia; Cornwall, Royersford and Tamaqua. After a few months spent at this last charge he became unable to preach, and was relieved of pulpit labor. Instead of securing by complete rest a renewal of vigor for future ministerial labor he gradually declined, suffering acutely at times, until as a crowned conqueror he "passed into the heavens."

WILLIAM JAMES STEVENSON was born in Philadelphia June 10, 1839, and departed this life December 6, 1895. He was a graduate of Dickinson College, from which institution he received his degree of Doctor of Divinity. Converted in early life he dedicated himself to the ministry, and was received into the Philadelphia Conference in 1859. He commenced his work as a traveling preacher at Doylestown. His second appointment was to Thirty-eighth Street, Philadelphia, and ever afterward the cities claimed his services. During his ministry of thirty-seven years he occupied prominent churches in Wilmington, Del.; Harrisburg, Pa.; Baltimore, Md.; Troy, N. Y.; Reading, Pa.; and Philadelphia. As a man, Dr. Stevenson possessed the choicest qualities of mind and heart. Spirituality was the foundation element in his character. From the hour of his conversion to the close of his life he maintained the most intimate fellowship with Christ. Conscientiousness was strongly developed. He was a conspicuous illustration of what is meant by being "faithful in that which is least." Unselfishness was stamped upon his character. All who knew him recognized that there was nothing of self-seeking or unholy ambition in any of his actions. While dignified and sedate, he was ever cheerful and gladsome. His character was harmonious and symmetrical, but if there was one quality that predominated over the rest it was his tender sympathy. As a minister of the Gospel, he was called to serve some of the most important charges in the Church, and in all of them he was regarded as a model minister. As a preacher, he determined to know nothing among men "save Jesus Christ and him crucified." No developments of "science falsely so called" swerved him a hair's breadth from his purpose. His preaching was marked by simplicity, directness, fervor, and unction. He was remarkable for his fidelity to pastoral duties, and made himself as much at home and as welcome in the abodes of poverty as in the mansions of the wealthy. Costly churches in Wilmington, Harrisburg, Philadelphia, and Reading will for years stand as the monuments of his untiring energy and undaunted faith. He justly merited the title of "church builder," but his distinguishing claim to the title is not found in the stone edifices which he erected, but in the "living temples" which he reared. His end came suddenly. Stricken with apoplexy in his pulpit on Sunday, December 1, 1895, he lingered in an unconscious condition until December 6, when "he was not, for God took him."

SOLOMON M. COOPER was born in Easton, Md., September 30, 1818, and died January 15, 1896. His effective service in the Conference extended to twenty-eight years, during which time he filled the following appointments: Salisbury, Princess Anne, Georgetown, Laurel, Snow Hill, Denton, Church Hill and Sudlersville, Frederica and Smyrna Circuit, Kent and North East, Strasburg, Millington and Princess Anne. In 1865 he was appointed Presiding Elder of Snow Hill District, but in less than two years his health broke down. Removing to the city of Philadelphia, after a period of rest, he became superintendent of City Missions, and remained in this office until he had established several Sunday schools and preaching places, which afterward became self-sustaining and important churches. He was married March 9, 1848, to Miss S. V. Dixon, of Church Creek, Md. Brother Cooper possessed powers of mind of an unusual order. He was a deep and careful thinker, a very interesting preacher, successful at camp meetings and in revival work, and faithful as a pastor. The closing years of his checkered life were marked by intense suffering, and his faith and endurance were tried as by fire. Through years of depression and pain he felt the need of human sympathy, always appreciating the visits of his ministerial brethren, to whom he freely communicated his firm faith in God and hope of final victory in Christ Jesus.

Delaware Conference.

HARRISON T. RICH, who joined the Delaware Conference in the year 1866, fell at his post of duty May 11, 1895. The greater part of his work was performed in the southern part of Maryland. He built many churches, and did much mission work. He now rests from his labor.

WILLIAM MARTIN WEBB joined the Delaware Conference in 1875 at Snow Hill, Md., and served with credit the following appointments: Odessa, Middletown, Chester, Dover, Salem, East New Market, Orange, Kent Island, Centerville, Newport. He suffered intensely for many months, but bravely met the sad issue. A few days before he died he said, "Hallelujah, I am in a hurry to get home. . . . My suffering is almost over; I shall awake in his likeness by and by. Tell the brethren of the Delaware Conference I went sweeping through the gates." In the early morning of July 12, 1895, he calmly passed away to his reward.

W. B. GREEN was born in Caroline County, Md., in 1822. He joined the Delaware Conference in 1867, and filled the following charges: Greensboro, Kent Island, Newcastle, Fairmount, Fruitland, Vienna, Middletown, Stockton, Bridgeville, Berlin, and Nassau. For eight years he was superannuated, and was in feeble health. Finally, two weeks before Christmas, 1895, the heavenly Father sent for him to enjoy his long-awaited rest.

HOOPER JOLLY was born of Christian parents in Vienna, Md., April 20, 1831. He was converted at ten. In 1865 he was licensed to exhort, and in 1866 to preach; in 1867 he entered the Delaware Conference, and was assigned by Bishop Janes to Fairmount, Md., where he spent three years. He then served Zoar, Philadelphia; and Ezion, Wilmington; and was Presiding Elder of the Smyrna District for four years. He was then transferred to the Newark Conference, and served one year at Newark. Returning to the Delaware Conference, he was stationed at Saint Michaels; New Market; Bainbridge Street, Philadelphia; Germantown, Philadelphia; Cambridge, Crisfield, and Vienna, where he died at the close of his second year. He met with singular success in every charge. He was a delegate to the General Conference at Baltimore in 1876. In his last sickness he said, "Sing a song of triumph, one that my mother sang. . . . All is well." On Sunday before his death he at one time exclaimed, "Lift up, ye gates, and let them in! O what a triumphant host is going in! See them as they enter in!" and sang, assisted by his wife, "When Jesus comes to reward his servants." In his death Methodism has lost a strong champion.

South Kansas Conference.

JOSIAH B. SIESS died in Kansas City, Mo., November 20, 1895. He was born in Pennsylvania in 1840. He entered the army and served through the entire war. He was first lieutenant of Company A, One Hundred and Fourth Ohio Infantry. With his regiment he was present at the surrender of Lee at Appomattox. He married Aurelia De Wolf in 1871. He was converted and joined the church in early life. He entered the ministry in 1873 and served the following charges in the South Kansas Conference: Twin Springs, Osawatomie, Louisburg, Beulah, Uniontown, Greeley, Cecil, Melvern, Fall River, Moran, Colony, and Blue Mound. He was a faithful minister. He did his work well, and hundreds were converted through his ministry. A useful man has fallen.

Arkansas Conference.

CHARLES H. KIRKLAND was born in Louisville, Ky., in 1861. He was converted and joined the church at Norwood. He attended the Little Rock University for over two years, during which time he served the Argenta Charge. He was admitted on trial in the Arkansas Conference in 1886, and successively served the following appointments: Cross Plains, Charleston, Argenta, Rogers, Norwood, and Eureka Springs. His whole being was absorbed in his work. He was loved by preachers and people as is one's lot to be. Being compelled to give up his work at Eureka from failing health, he went to New Mexico, hoping to recover his strength. Finding the altitude too great for his lungs he removed to Colorado, but in vain. He continued to decline until on January 31, 1896, he fell asleep in Jesus.

New York Conference.

GILBERT DORLAND TOWNSEND was born in Lagrange, N. Y., March 15, 1817. His parents were orthodox Friends. His early educational advantages were limited, but he made such good use of his opportunities that he became famous as a teacher and successfully filled the office of superintendent of schools in his native town for several years. He was also a civil magistrate, being continuously elected from term to term, and resigning only when he entered the ministry. On May 14, 1843, he married Mary A. Dearin, of New Hamburg. A few years later he was soundly converted in the old Trinity Church, on the Dutchess Circuit. This wondrous inward change soon developed into earnest Christian effort for the spiritual welfare of others. His labors at meetings in schoolhouses, private residences, and churches were so blessed of God as to impress him and others that he was called to consecrate his life to the work of saving souls. In 1854 he was presented to the New York Conference. His appointments were as follows: Amenia, Cortland, Pine's Bridge, Sheffield twice, Falls Village, Glenham and Low Point, West Point, Pine Plains, Great Barrington, Claverack and Philmont, East Chatham and Red Rock, and Chatham Village. He was always sensible and earnest as a preacher. His perceptions of truth were clear, and pervaded by such a sense of conscientiousness and honesty of purpose as to secure a cordial hearing. His sermons appealed to the reason rather than the passions, hence his revivals—which, by the blessing of God, were numerous—were genuine and permanent. He possessed a large measure of native talent, and his store of common sense supplied in a good degree his lack of early literary culture. He had strong faith in God and in the sufficiency of Gospel truth to save men. He was a true patriot, and nobly stood for the defense of his country in its hour of peril. He was modest in his pretensions, unassuming in manners, retiring in disposition. His nature was possessed of a large vein of humor; his quick and witty responses in conversation made his company entertaining and agreeable. Failing health compelled him, in 1884, to take a superannuated relation and retire from the active work. The sudden departure of his beloved companion in 1889 was a great shock, from which he never fully rallied. His last years were spent in quiet retirement on the farm where he was born. In March, 1895, he was taken seriously ill. The fatal nature of his sickness was announced to him, but caused him no alarm. Through riches of grace in Christ Jesus he was ready for his departure. When asked if there was anything that he wished to have done he replied, "O, no; everything is done; I owe no man anything but love. I am all packed up, and only waiting for the Lord to take me home. If you see any of my brothers in the ministry tell them that I love them all, and that all is well with me. When I am dead I don't care to have much said about me or any fuss made." This last expression was in perfect accord with his life and character. Soon after God sent the chariot. Servant of God, well done!

MARVIN R. LENT, of pious and gifted ancestry, was born in New York September 21, 1819. He received the educational advantages offered by the public schools and village academy at Peekskill, an excellent and unusual opportunity to a young man in that day. When about seventeen he was soundly converted. With the clear evidence of pardon came the conviction that he must preach the Gospel.

After two or three years spent in securing a more thorough equipment he joined the Methodist Protestant Conference in 1840. His first appointment was Bedford Station, N. Y. In the second year of this pastorate he was married to Miss Hannah Lazada, of Brooklyn, which union was blessed with five children, three of whom survive. From Bedford he was sent to Moriches, L. I., where a powerful revival broke out in which scores were converted to God. Here, at the close of his pastorate, he made known his determination to leave the Methodist Protestant denomination and join the Methodist Episcopal Church. To his surprise the converts, almost to a man, followed his example, and, as a result of the revival and his decision, two societies, known as Fire Place and Bellport, were organized and have continued unto this day. He was received in the New York Conference in 1844, and stationed as junior preacher at Smithtown, L. I. From Smithtown he was sent as preacher-in-charge to Cutchogue and Southold, where his labors resulted in another great religious awakening and the division of the work into two stations, to one of which, Southold, he was appointed for the next and succeeding year. From Long Island he was sent to Amenia as a colleague of L. H. King, D.D. Gilbert Haven was principal of the seminary at the time, and between the two young men a warm friendship sprang up, Bishop Haven often making mention of his great interest in Brother Lent's ministry and society. After two years in Amenia he moved to Pine Plains, and from there to Copake. Here he never rested until the beautiful edifice in which the people still worship was erected. From Copake he went to Hillsdale, an adjoining charge, thence to Lee, to Spencertown and Chatham, and to Falls Village. While pastor there he selected the site and held the first religious meeting on Pine Grove camp ground; an enterprise with which he was identified from its inception and to which he was devotedly attached, bringing his family year by year to enjoy its rest and hallowed associations. In 1861 he was sent to Pleasant Valley, from there to East Chatham and Red Rock, then back again to Copake, to enjoy the fruits of his sacrifice and devotion. His next appointment wss North Canaan, a stronghold of Congregationalism, but a growing railroad center, where the small but loyal band of Methodists worshiped in a public hall. Diligently he wrought, amid many discouragements, until the present commodious church building was erected. His subsequent appointments were New Fairfield, Purdy's Station, Millerton, West Point, New Hamburg, Dover Plains, Modena, Highland Mills. At Highland Mills occurred the great trial of his life. Here the wife of his youth grew weary with the journey and sought the untroubled rest of the tomb. In April, 1895, broken in health, he came to the Conference which more than half a century before had received him and requested a superannuate relation. As soon as the weather would permit he was taken to Nova Scotia, where he had spent the heated period two years before. For the first few weeks he gained rapidly in strength and spirits. With returning health came the impulse of his ruling passion, and he mistakenly consented—as his friends thought—to preach in the Presbyterian church, speaking from his favorite text, "The Master is come and calleth for thee!" Whatever meaning the words may have had for others, certainly to him they contained a direct and peremptory, yet welcome and loving, command. From that day he began to fail. At the close of a long and ofttimes weary pilgrimage, worn by toil and footsore with the wide wanderings of fifty-one itinerant years, but with peaceful frame and joyous heart, he entered the rest and enjoyment of those "many mansions" on the 15th day of August, 1895. He was possessed of many admirable qualities. One of his most striking characteristics was an unfeigned friendliness. In the minor diplomacies, by which the minister of Christ holds clashing and conflicting spirits and interests in an even balance, he was a master. The work of righteousness in his heart and life was peace. Yet was he no weakling. Patiently, persistently, faithfully, he pushed many a seemingly overmatched enterprise to a successful completion. As a preacher, he was clear in statement, rich in pathos, and gifted with a peculiar power. He was a sweet singer, also, and at times overwhelming in exhortation; qualities which in his earlier ministry bore fruit in sweeping revivals. His life and work, lived and wrought in our midst, reveal his devotion and loyalty. A character molded in a ministry of the half century past, with its privations and limitations, has in it much to respect and admire, and bids a great Conference pause to make mention of his virtues and his toils.

James P. Burgar was born October 29, 1836, in Woodstock, N. Y., and died August 23, 1895, at Perch Lake, N. Y. His early life was marked by the struggles incident to self-support and self-education. In after years he deeply regretted his lack of early advantages, and yet this yoke of his youth doubtless furnished the occasion for developing in him the carefulness, self-reliance, and practical wisdom which were features of his character and contributed much to his success in the work of the Christian ministry. He was converted at seventeen. Three years later he was licensed to preach, and for the next four years, most of the time on a charge, he served in the capacity of a local preacher. In 1860 he joined the New York Conference, and from that time through an unbroken term of over thirty-five years he served in the itinerant ministry with unswerving loyalty. The successive fields of labor to which he was assigned were: Dormansville, East Jewett, High Hill and Medway, Oak Hill, Jefferson, Prattsville, Durham, Coeymans Hollow, Roxbury, Windham, Hunter, Andes and Pleasant Valley, and Port Ewen, where he was in the fourth year of his work at the time of his death. His pulpit ministrations were characterized by directness and earnestness in presenting the familiar themes of the Gospel. He cared little for speculative theology. Hundreds were converted under his ministry. This result was the crown of his rejoicing, though he served with gladness to advance every interest of the cause of Christ. In social life he was genial and open-hearted. This made acquaintance with him easy and a constant delight, and largely accounted for his characteristic efficiency in pastoral work. In no place, however, did the warmth and cheer of his nature find a happier expression than in the social life of his home. He was twice married. His first wife was Mary C. Lindsley. She died in 1887. In June, 1889, he married S. Emma Austin, of Windham, N. Y., who survives him. Immediately after his last sermon our brother was prostrated with his fatal illness. All through it he suffered greatly, and was conscious of the imminence of death, yet his soul was stayed on God and kept in perfect peace. When he heard the Master's call to dwell on high he answered, "It is all right," and God took him. The burial was in Wyltwick Cemetery, Kingston. And so we number one less of the Lord's anointed on earth. He has fallen; he has risen.

John Albert Edmonds was born in London, England, January 25, 1813. He was injured September 2 by a railroad accident, died September 14 at Arlington, N. J., and was buried at Rondout September 17, 1895. His educational advantages were very limited, but by dint of application he fitted himself for the position of school-teacher. His heroic effort was a true indication of the persistency of his purpose evinced in the various tasks imposed upon him in his career. He was converted at eighteen, and united with the Wesleyan church. On coming to this country he engaged in business in Newark, N. J., where he connected himself with the Franklin Street Church. Here he received his license as a local preacher. Removing soon afterward to Brooklyn he connected himself with the old Sands Street Church. While here, in the winter of 1839–40, he was called to supply the pulpit in Patchogue, which he did with such efficiency that a gracious revival resulted, in which eighty or more were converted. The following spring he joined the New York Conference. His appointments were Huntington, West Hampton, Cutchogue and Southold, Guilford, New Britain, Bloomfield, King Street (now Port Chester), Sag Harbor, Red Hook, Rondout, Eddyville, Milton, Hyde Park, Pleasant Valley and Hyde Park, Spencertown and Chatham Four Corners, Pawling, Pawling and Reynoldsville, Asbury, New York city, and Hartsdale. Among his Conference associates in the ministry he was highly respected and greatly loved for his fidelity and sweetness of character. Among the people of Arlington the same traits with unfailing sympathy and a graceful modesty endeared him to a wide circle of friends, among whom he was a very welcome visitor, and by whom he will be very sorely missed. He was a very faithful attendant upon the services of his church, and the unfailing friend and sympathetic counselor of its pastor. His pastor writes of him as follows: "He was a frequent and welcome visitor in many homes of my people as well as those of other denominations. The last public service was to assist in administering the communion on September 1, the day before his accident. Then he knelt for the closing prayer, though I had often urged him not to do so, because it was at the cost of great physical pain. But he said to my expostulation that morning, 'I don't want to attract attention to myself by anything peculiar.' Here spoke his modesty and humility. During his sickness he was patient and cheerful. Often as I read to him his psalm for the day he would follow me word by word, breaking out into joyous utterance of portions especially dear to him. He seemed to know them by heart. When I told him a few days before his death that the end was approaching he waited a moment in silence and then said, 'Praise the Lord.' The day before his death he followed me with gasping utterance through one song of heaven which he loved, and at a later time when he could not speak beat time feebly with his fingers to the familiar strain." His end came peacefully and painlessly on Saturday morning, September 14. Thus passed from us our dear brother to his "Father's house" to join the many brought through his ministry to Christ. He was a noble Christian minister, and after the trials of an itinerant life he rests with his Saviour in the "better land."

Thomas B. Smith was born in Durham, N. Y., November 15, 1823, and died in New York city October 2, 1895. His father, the Rev. Bela Smith, an intimate friend and for some time traveling companion of Bishop Asbury, was an honored member of New York Conference. Thomas, one of several children, worked on the farm and attended the district school in the winter. It is not remarkable that in such a home from his earliest recollection he was impressed with the truth and importance of personal religion. He was, however, seventeen years old before he consciously entered upon the Christian life. The change then wrought in him was radical. His conversion quickened his desire for knowledge, and although loyalty to the family interests required his daily labor on the farm, by studying evenings and often until the early morning hours he soon fitted himself for teaching school. Meanwhile he became an active member of the church, and as Sunday school teacher, class leader, exhorter, and local preacher won the confidence of his brethren. In 1848 he was married to Martha M. Buck. Two years later he joined New York Conference, and from the beginning to the close of his public ministry in every charge was useful and successful. He was well read in Wesleyan theology. The saving doctrines of the Bible, the problems of sin and salvation, life and death, reward and retribution in the future, were the burden of his thoughts, and his sermons and addresses in consequence were earnest appeals to the hearts and consciences of his hearers. His religious experience was bright and cheerful, his voice sympathetic, and manner persuasive. He was an exceptionally faithful and successful pastor, and particularly helpful to the afflicted and sorrowful The charm of the man was in his upright, honorable, unselfish life. It was apparently a delight to him to make sacrifices for the comfort and advantage of others. Those who knew him best and longest trusted, loved, and honored him most. He lived in Harlem continuously twenty years on account of the extreme delicacy of his wife's health, which made removal from place to place perilous. His death was sudden and unexpected, for, although he was over threescore and ten, the infirmities of age had scarcely touched him. His loss is keenly felt. But we "sorrow not, even as others which have no hope. For if we believe that Jesus died and rose again, even so them also which sleep in Jesus will God bring with him."

Robert Hunt was born near Pleasant Valley, N. Y., December 18, 1833, and died November 20, 1895. By working on the farm and securing such other employment as he was able to find, he earned enough money to pay his tuition at Wyoming Seminary. On leaving this institution he taught school for a while and then commenced the study of law. About this time he was led to attend a Methodist camp meeting, where he was converted. From that moment the plans of his life began to undergo a change, and laying aside his legal studies he entered the New York Conference in 1857. His appointments were: Bloomingburg, Equinunk, Grahamville, Sandburg, Phillipsport, Falls Village and Lime Rock, Millerton, Sharon and Amenia Union, West Taghkanic and Glencoe Mills, North Canaan and Ashley Falls, Sheffield, Pawling and Reynoldsville, Fishkill-on-Hudson, Lee, Pawling, Pawling and Reynoldsville, and Sharon. In 1894 he superannuated and retired to his home at Pawling, N. Y., where, after two years among his friends and former parishioners, he departed this life. The last year of his ministry in Pawling (1892) he seemed to feel the burden of souls to such a degree that he redoubled his energies along all lines of revival work. In 1893, at Sharon, Conn., the shock occurred which caused him to lie for weeks in the dim borderland between this and the better life. Recovering somewhat, in the spring of 1894 he was brought to Pawling. Many were the prayers offered for his welfare and his recovery by those whom he had led from darkness into spiritual light. To the joy of his friends his familiar figure was seen once more on the streets, and on Sunday mornings he would attend divine service in the same church from the pulpit of which for years he had delivered the Gospel message. During a series of revival meetings held last autumn he scarcely missed a service, but was present with words of sympathy and encouragement for the pastor and with prayer and messages for the unconverted. On Tuesday morning, November 12, came the beginning of the end. Another paralytic shock completely deprived him of the use of his left side, and rendered his speech thick and difficult of utterance. His last hour drew near and found him awaiting its crisis with the courage of a Christian hero. Calmly trusting in his Saviour he passed where "beyond these voices there is peace." He married Eunice Babcock, of Bridgewater, Pa. Of the five children born to them three reside in Pawling, one in Minneola, Fla., and one is not, for God hath taken her. In his pulpit he proclaimed a full and free salvation. Bigotry and intolerance of the views and opinions of others knew no place in his theology. He preached a Gospel full of universal human brotherhood and fraught with the richest consolations afforded by a consciousness of the divine Fatherhood. To him all men were brothers, because all were children of the same heavenly Father. He looked across the earth with eyes of love, whose vision knew no horizon save the heavens. He believed that the day will come, though long delayed, when the blood of Jesus Christ, shed for every sinner, shall over all prevail. His ministry was very full of comfort; the children of sorrow and those whose lives were darkened by misfortune or error hung upon his words until the floodgates of their souls were opened and they received the light whose lives hitherto had known no light. It is impossible to prevent such a man from being loved. In the pulpit Brother Hunt was a man of peculiar power. Always interesting and thorough in his work, at times he rose to heights of marvelous power and inspiration. During the last year of his ministry with great patience he went over all the questions of his faith and examined anew the arguments on which each was founded. He belonged to the mysterious brotherhood ordained of God from remote ages to be high priest of human sorrow. He possessed the subtle sympathy, the nice discernment, which enabled him to comprehend the unexplained, possibly the concealed, cause of pain in others, and then with a warm and helpful nature, his every word, his very presence, was a panacea of relief. He was essentially a peacemaker. He deprecated above all things feuds, divisions, and strife in the church; his work was always a labor of love, and in the spirit of love did he pursue it. In peaceful Pawling, the town he loved so well, and in one of the loveliest of country cemeteries, they have made his grave. Here in sweet and dreamless slumber he calmly rests, waiting the resurrection of the just.

John Miley was born Christmas Day, 1813, and "passed into the heavens" December 13, 1895. He began life in humble circumstances on a farm near Hamilton, O. Here he was content to remain, spending his evenings by the hearth in the light of the wood fire, reading and studying beyond the short hours of the little school, that he might some day go to Augusta College, Kentucky. In due time his aspirations were realized, and he was graduated from this institution in 1838, and soon after was received into the Ohio Conference. On June 9, 1840, he married Olive Chichester Paterson, of Batavia, O. Their union was blessed with four children, three of whom survive—a son and two daughters. While in Ohio he served successively the following appointments: Batavia; Western Charge, Cincinnati; Hamilton, Chillicothe, Columbus, Zanesville; Wesley Chapel, Cincinnati; Wesley Female College; Morris Chapel, Cincinnati. In 1852 he was transferred to the New York East Conference, and was stationed at Pacific Street, Brooklyn; South Second Street, Brooklyn; Sands Street, Brooklyn; Danbury; Forsyth Street, New York; Bridgeport, and New Rochelle. In 1866 he was transferred to the New York Conference and stationed at Trinity Church, Newburg; Sing Sing; and St. Paul's, Peekskill. In 1873 he was appointed to the chair of Systematic Theology in Drew Theological Seminary, which he filled with conspicuous ability from that time till the day of his death. He was a member of the General Conferences of 1872, 1876, 1888, and 1892. In the proceedings of all these he was an important factor. He was also fraternal delegate to the Southern General Conference at Richmond, and a member of the Centennial Conference held in Baltimore. But it was in the capacity of teacher and theologian that Dr. Miley rendered his most important service to the Church. He had great qualities of mind and heart which fitted him preeminently for the work to which the Church called him. He possessed intellectual honesty. No man is fit to teach who has not this quality of mind. Early prejudices, lifelong environment, personal tastes and inclinations often give bias to the judgments of men. He was remarkably free from these influences. In the balancing of truth his mind was like a pair of delicate scales. He rose above all personal considerations and rendered his verdict in the clear atmosphere of pure reason. While working out these results he treated his own intellectual processes with great consideration. Nothing could induce him to evade a conclusion to which they led him by force of logic, and nothing could compel him to go farther than they warranted. The quest of truth was his business. But if he was honest with himself he was equally so with his students. Candor was the dictum of his class room. He never attempted, from his high eminence of superior knowledge, to coerce the minds of the students. Objections and criticisms were cordially invited. They were frequently offered, and, even though crude, were treated with genuine respect. Another characteristic was his perspicuity of thought. His intellect discerned truth in a marvelous manner. Was some great problem or theory to be scrutinized in order that its true relation to his system might appear, he cleared away the rubbish with a single stroke, and went to the heart of the matter as directly as the arrow finds its goal. Under the magic touch of his fine analytic power great and intricate problems seemed to dissolve into natural and orderly parts. A third characteristic of his intellectual processes was his confidence in the results attained. From the intellectual standpoint this confidence came naturally from his honesty and his perspicuity. But another element enters into the ground of his certainty which we must not overlook. In questions capable of proof by experience he felt his way by submitting his views to the test of his own soul's life. His long career in the active ministry gave him correct views of life, and he submitted to this tribunal such doctrines as were in their nature capable of judgment by it. "His brain took counsel of his heart," and when the voice of brain and heart were in agreement they led to the solid rock of certainty. He was no blind leader of the blind. He spoke the things which he had seen and heard. It has been frequently remarked that he was a conservative. He did not hesitate on some points, however, to part company with the early teachers of our Church. But his conservatism was healthful and intelligent, and secured as its important results the rooting and grounding of his students in the Christian faith. There is another point in which he was a teacher in the truest and best sense of the word. It has been said: "Power in teaching is bound up with character in the teacher. Truth from a real teacher is not like water running through a marble channel which imparts no character to it. It is rather like water in a medicated cup which communicates its flavor to the liquid. Formulas of truth quicken as the teacher's life pervades them." In this respect he measured up to a lofty ideal. He informed the young manhood of the Church committed to him with the strength and life of his own great personality. He was in himself a sort of an epitome of the Christian faith. "He adorned the doctrine of God." Behind his utterances, whether by voice or pen, every man felt the throbbings of a great and loving soul. His interest in his students was touching. Their success was the reward of his patience and the joy of his old age. Being unable for some weeks to walk to and from his class room, he was tenderly lifted into his carriage by the students who loved him so well. This occurred the very day upon which he finished his earthly labors. In the conduct of the lessons of that day he seemed to have a peculiar illumination of thought and expression. The instruction to the class in the morning seemed prophetic. The subject was "The Good Angels," into whose society he was so soon to be ushered. In the afternoon he discussed the doctrine of "The Sympathy of Christ." At the close he spoke a few tender words of parting, and then, contrary to his custom, raised his hands and pronounced the apostolic benediction. Thus went up in benediction the life which had been lived in blessing and helpfulness. How complete in its duration and its results is the picture of his life! Up to the age of sixty he was a man of action. Then at the call of the Church he turned his mind inward and upward. He became contemplative, reveled by day and by night in the great things of God, and bequeathed to the Church he loved so well the priceless heritage of his matured thought. The fitting emblem of most earthly lives is that of a broken column, but we find the emblem of this life a completed circle. He combined the simplicity of the child, the tenderness of the woman, and the strength of the lion. Let us devoutly thank God for what he was and ever revere his memory.

Evarts H. W. Barden was born in Hunter, N. Y., November 30, 1837, and died February 26, 1896, at Croton-on-Hudson. He was converted when quite young, and early gave evidence of his inclination to preach the Gospel. He had a beaten path into the woods, and his sister, observing his frequent retirement into the solitude of the forest, followed him there and found him preaching as if to a large congregation. His student life was passed chiefly in Ithaca. On May 14, 1862, he married Alice J. Holmes. Their union was blessed with six children, three of whom are now living. In 1863 he entered the New York Conference and was stationed at Howard. His subsequent appointments were as follows: Rockland, Monticello, Liberty, Rochester, Shandaken, Dutchess, Golden's Bridge and Cross River, North Canaan, Delhi and Elk Creek, Croton Lake, Bedford and Middle Patent, Ardsley, Shrub Oak, and Croton-on-Hudson. His ministry was marked with exemplary devotion and unfaltering fidelity. Somewhat frail in body, he had the heart of a lion in the presence of the foe. More than once in pushing the temperance reform he was brought into situations that would test the stoutest heart, but his courage never quailed. His was a ministry of faith—faith in God, faith in himself, and faith in the successful completion of any work that ought to be done. He simply set his hand to the task, confident that God would mature the achievement. His untiring devotion to the work was the more remarkable in the latter years of his life because he was the victim of great bodily suffering. His unfailing fidelity found illustration in the evangelistic services held a few weeks before his death. The visiting evangelist had come and gone, and the weeks of service had apparently yielded no result, but he would not be discouraged. He toiled right on, week after week, despite failing strength, until the community was at last aroused and penitents thronged the altar. Finally, one evening, the last of active service, with the first chill of pneumonia upon him, he resisted the counsel of friends who urged him to quit the service and stayed to plead with a neighbor whom he led to the altar, and then, kneeling by his side, poured forth his desires in a prayer which seemed almost inspired. From this service he went to his home and to his bed, and never arose again. In a few days he had gone to his reward. As he realized the approach of death he expressed no regret save that of leaving the wife and children whom he loved with unfailing tenderness and devotion. He gave assurance that he was in perfect readiness for his departure and longed for the rest and peace of heaven.

James Birch was born February 1, 1815, in Birch Isle, Ireland. His parents emigrated to America when James was fifteen years of age, and settled in Pleasant Valley, N. Y. He learned the trade of a carpenter and worked diligently thereat. After the death of his father he faithfully cared for his mother and the younger members of the family. About the year 1841 he was soundly converted, and at once felt called to preach the Gospel. Prior to this his educational advantages had been limited, but he attended for a time the Amenia Seminary and thus further improved his mind. On February 26, 1842, he was licensed as a local preacher. He joined the New York Conference on probation in the spring of 1843. On September 17, 1845, he was joined in marriage to Miss Jane M. Quinlin. His successive appointments were as follows: Sullivan, Rossville, Saugerties, Bushwick, Ellenville, Catskill, Catskill and Coxsackie, Prattsville, Greenville, Coeymans Hollow, Catskill and High Hill, Coxsackie, Amenia, Johnsville, South Dover, Ancram, Wing Station, Germantown and Tivoli, Stockport, Germantown and Madalin, and North Germantown and Madalin. In the year 1884 his condition of health was such that he asked and received a supernumerary relation. The infirmities of age continued to grow upon him, and in 1885 he was superannuated and became a resident of Poughkeepsie, N. Y. He was afflicted with a complication of diseases, which resulted in the gradual failure of his mental faculties. For some time he was incapable of ministering to his own physical necessities. Nevertheless, a reference to religious experience, or to his home in heaven, would so arrest his attention as to cause a smile to light up his face and compel a partial return of his memory. During the last week of his life he failed rapidly, and passed quietly away on Easter Sunday evening, April 5, 1896, aged eighty-one years. He was a man of great energy and of extraordinary and fiery zeal. He was in labors most abundant, and the fruits of his ministry were many. His ready wit often made him a most welcome member of any assembly, and evidenced that his mind, naturally, was of more than a common order. He was especially zealous in the temperance cause, and always identified himself with the most radical opposition to the traffic in intoxicating beverages. He was laid to rest in the family plot in the beautiful cemetery near the city of Poughkeepsie.

Northern New York Conference.

Sardius F. Kenyon was born in Mexico, N. Y., May 6, 1819, and died at Oneida, N. Y., May 22, 1895. He obtained his education at the Mexico Academy. He was converted at the early age of fifteen, and ever after strove to follow the teachings of his Lord. He was exceedingly conscientious and very susceptible to the movings of the Spirit, and felt that it was his duty to enter the ministry. He was licensed to preach when about twenty-one years old, near which time he was also married to Miss Ann Eliza Davis. He was a clear reasoner, his sermons were generally arranged in an orderly manner; his preaching was earnest and practical, and no doubt many will rejoice in the "great day" on account of the noble work performed by this man of God. He joined Conference on trial in 1852, was admitted into full membership in the Black River Conference in 1854, and was ordained elder in 1856. His appointments were as follows: Phœnix, Heuvelton, Buck's Bridge, Madrid, Oneida Lake, Seneca River, North Bay, Holmesville, Orwell, South Canton and Pierrepont, Hermon, Chateaugay, St. Lawrence, Sacketts Harbor, Hammond, Philadelphia, Edwards and Fine, Colton, Amboy, Vienna, Natural Bridge, and Russell. He was in the active relation for thirty-two years. His pastor in referring to his religious life states that his testimonies in the class meetings were always bright, positive, and up to date. He came down to the valley full of hope, ready for the crossing. In his last illness, when his pastor called and prayed with him, he was asked if the Gospel was to him what he had preached it to others. His face lighted up as he said, "Yes, and a great deal more." Truly death did not find him unprepared.

L. L. Palmer, George Plank. [Obituaries not received.]

East Maine Conference.

Samuel T. Page was born at Bucksport, Me., August 18, 1856. Before his call to the ministry he followed the occupation of a farmer. He married, June 28, 1863, Miss Ruby King, of South Orrington, who died August 23, 1890. Impressed that his life-work was the ministry, after a preliminary theological course at the Bangor Seminary he joined the East Maine Conference in 1883, and was appointed to Caribou. His subsequent appointments were: Carmel, Bradford and Lagrange, Forest City, and Brownville. Growing infirmity compelled his superannuation in 1894. He continued his residence at Brownville until June 19, 1895, when his death occurred. He was steadfast in his religious life and his devotion to the Master and the Church of his choice. He had the confidence and good-will of his brethren and the charges over which he was pastor. After the conflict of life he has won the victory.

Elisha Skinner was born in Brewer, Me., October 12, 1820, and died in Hartland, Me., January 15, 1896. In early life he was engaged in trade. On May 30, 1847, he married Roxanna S. Hartwell, of Stetson, Me. Having been converted in later years he soon felt the burden of souls, and in 1867 began to serve charges under his presiding elder. He was ordained local deacon by Bishop Ames in 1871, and was received as a probationer in the East Maine Conference in 1872. He preached at Harmony in 1872 and 1873. His subsequent appointments were: Exeter, Patten, Fort Fairfield, Guilford, St. Albans Circuit, Windsor, and North Waldoboro. In 1893 he became superannuated. His beloved wife died July 7, 1884. During his comparatively brief superannuation he resided with his children in Hartland, Me. Wherever stationed he was respected as a faithful pastor, teacher, and friend. The Gospel was in his heart and found a ready and effective utterance. He was spared a lingering illness, being favored with a quick remove from the toils of earth to the rest of heaven.

Maine Conference.

Ernest A. Porter was born in Pembroke, Me., January 24, 1866, and fell asleep September 26, 1895. Until about twenty-one years of age he remained at home, engaging mainly in agricultural pursuits and improving the opportunities offered for study. He first planned taking a business course, but the voice of God called to a higher work. In the fall of 1888 he was licensed at Kent's Hill. In June, 1890, he was employed as a supply at Hollis, where he was instrumental in the conversion of about fifty souls. In 1891 he joined the East Maine Conference on trial and was appointed to Eliot. Though frail in health he did valuable service, became much attached to the people, and was beloved by them. He loved to preach and study and serve, that he might win souls. In March, 1891, he married Harriet Fernald, of Portland. During his second year at Eliot, in 1895, his health failed, and in September he started for the home of his father, arriving five days before his death. He is early crowned, but his life is an inspiration.

Alvah Cook was born in Shapleigh, Me., October 16, 1819, and died in Sanford, Me., November 10, 1895. Early in life he moved from his native place to Boston, where he was converted in his eighteenth year. He was licensed to preach in Saco early in the sixties, and for several years served as a local preacher at Oak Ridge, South Standish, Maryland Ridge, and Kittery. He joined the Maine Conference in 1874 and served the following charges: Scarboro, South Eliot, East Poland, Bowery Beach, Chebeague, Cape Porpoise, and Maryland Ridge. In 1888 he took a superannuated relation, and after that time resided at Cape Porpoise and Sanford. He was twice married. As a preacher, he was scriptural and earnest, serving the Lord with reverence and the Church of his choice with fidelity and increasing attachment. He approached the end with the joy of triumph. His dying testimony in answer to the inquiry, "Is it well?" was, "It is well clear through."

Jesse Stone was born in Plainfield, Vt., April 16, 1802. At the age of fifteen he was enabled to repent and believe in the Lord Jesus Christ. He was baptized and joined the Baptist church, and remained a member of that denomination for six years. But his mind was not at rest, and in 1824 he joined the Methodist Episcopal church, and in June of that year was received on trial in the New England Conference and stationed in Hallowell, Me. As the Maine Conference was formed that year he became a member of it and was for many years, at the last, the only member of the original Maine Conference. His appointments were as follows: Hallowell, Windhaven, St. Croix, Dennyville, Thomaston, Penobscot, Bartlett, N. H.; Paris, Rumford, Georgetown, Windsor, Hollis, York, Cape Elizabeth, Acton, Casco Bay Islands, South Biddeford, West Newfield, Porter, Berwick, Kennebunk, Port Center, Gray, West Cumberland, Falmouth, Shapleigh, Kennebunk again, Port Center again, Maryland Ridge, Hollis again, and Shapleigh again. In 1833 he was married to Fannie McAllister, and, after her death, to Miss Sarah Rogers. He was a good preacher, a faithful and painstaking pastor, and God blessed his labors in the building up of the Church and the conversion of souls. He was attacked suddenly with paralysis on the morning of March 28, 1896, at his home in Wells, Me., and died at noon of the same day.

New England Southern Conf.

John Burrall Husted died in Watertown, Mass., January 8, 1896. He was born in Alford, Mass., December 25, 1804. In his tenth year, during a revival in his native town, he was converted, but his reception to church membership was postponed until five years later. He then began to exercise his gifts in public address, and when twenty years old was licensed as an exhorter. In 1826 he received a local preacher's license, and the same year was admitted to probation in the New York Conference, in a class of twenty, of whom he was the last survivor. His first appointment was to Leyden Circuit, embracing, he says, ten towns in Massachusetts, and ten in Vermont—a four weeks' circuit with twenty preaching places. At the end of two years in this circuit, in response to a call for volunteers to enter service in Maine, where the laborers were few, he accepted transfer to that State in 1828, having been made a deacon at the New York Conference, where Bishop George was that year the presiding Bishop. He was stationed at Bath during two years, and in 1830 was ordained elder at Portland by Bishop Hedding. After this his pastoral charges in Maine were at Augusta, Bangor, Portland, Hallowell, Gardiner, and, in 1837–40, he was Presiding Elder of Bangor District. By transfer he became, in 1841, a member of the New England Conference, and was pastor at Bromfield Street, Boston, and South Street, Lynn, two years respectively; after which he was transferred to the New England Southern Conference, where, with rare intervals occasioned by impaired health, he served important parishes until he finally retired from active service in 1872. He represented his Conference in the historic General Conference of 1836, and he was the last member of that memorable assembly to pass from earth, as he must have been one of its youngest in its day. He was presiding elder of a district embracing an important section of New England which was just reclaiming a large portion of its territory from the primeval forest and opening it to immigration and settlement. It extended north and south one hundred and fifty miles, from the Atlantic coast to far-away Aroostook. Roads, in its greater part, there were almost none. Public conveyances were nearly as rare. With his horse and saddlebags the journeys were chiefly made, as, threading the wilderness paths and often impassable country tracks, the preacher sought the scattered hamlets or solitary cabins of the pioneers, or the lumberman's camp. His zeal and devotion were rewarded with fruitful harvests in the places of his toil, and with assignments to parishes among the most important and responsible in all the Conferences within which his labors were bestowed. He was always given to reading and study. He was well versed in public matters, and was to the end of life interested in the movements of society at home and abroad. He believed in the Church with all his heart, and was a most loyal churchman; yet he recognized the necessity of modifications wherever he saw prospects of improvement. For the eradication of the vices of society he was a constant and determined advocate. His heart and life were so pure that many prevalent usages were repellent to him beyond endurance. He labored and prayed and joined in whatever movements, to his mind, gave promise of a reformation in the tone and character of public life and morals. While pastor at Augusta he was married to Mrs. Harriet E. (McLellan) Kidder, who died in June, 1891, after a happy union of sixty years. Of her he said in his ninetieth birthday sermon, "She left a home of ease, wealth, luxury, and refinement, to share the privations, sacrifices, exposures, and labors of a poor itinerant Methodist preacher. She was a helpful helpmate and did all that she could to advance the cause of Christ." To them were born six children, of whom three survive, and whose affectionate attentions were of the most helpful kind in his latest years. Retiring from regular pastoral work in 1876, he made a home in Watertown, where he became a prominent citizen. His tall, erect, and lithe figure, and his rapid and elastic step made him noticeable, and he soon came to be known and respected by all the people. Taking a lively interest in all that tended to the moral and religious welfare of the community, he moved among them as a beneficent presence to be neither spurned nor disregarded. His ninetieth anniversary was publicly observed by the people of Watertown, irrespective of creed or party, and he preached on the occasion an able and notable sermon. Even after passing that epoch he occasionally gave public addresses; and a few weeks before his death was present at the service of dedication of the new church edifice, where the Epworth League bears his name. Sunday, January 5, he was at church, but took a chill from which he did not rally, and on Wednesday he peacefully passed away.

Elisha Benjamin Bradford was born in Salem, Conn., September 11, 1811. He was of Pilgrim ancestry, being a direct descendant of Governor William Bradford, of the seventh generation. At sixteen he was soundly converted, and at once began to work for others, and soon saw his young companions giving their hearts to Christ. He was made a class leader at a very early age, and he soon began to feel that his lifework was already revealed—that of saving souls through the ministry. Then came a struggle, and a severe one. He had gone into the manufacturing business with excellent prospects. He was ambitious to become a rich man. He was sincere in his consecration to God; but could he not serve him as acceptably in the laity as in the ministry? At last the question came full and strong, "Are you willing to become poor for Jesus's sake?" After much earnest prayer he was finally able to make a complete surrender, and said, "Yes, Lord, anything for Christ. I here and now make a full and complete surrender of all I have and am into thy hand." From that hour he never wavered, and he never suffered for the want of any good thing. He went to Wilbraham Academy and fitted for college. But in those early days of Methodism the laborers were few, and older ministers told him that he could not be spared from the field for a college course, and urged him to enter upon the active ministry at once. This in after life he regretted, as he felt he was not really ready for the work. However, he became a hard student all his life, and so was able to make amends somewhat for the loss of these earlier scholastic advantages. His first assignment in 1834, was Mansfield Circuit, Connecticut. That year was a test of his capability as a workman, and he met it so well that, in 1835, he was enrolled as a probationer in the New England Conference and assigned to Franklin Circuit, Connecticut. For two years he was a "circuit rider" of the old-fashioned type, when long horseback rides were taken, streams forded, forests penetrated, and the Gospel daily dispensed. From this time forward he received appointments either in the New England or the New England Southern Conference. He was identified with the latter Conference from the beginning of its history. The following is the list of the appointments he served: Mansfield Circuit, Franklin Circuit, East Abingdon, West Duxbury, Marshfield, Taunton, Sandwich, Wareham, Newport, Power Street, Providence; Nantucket, Provincetown Center, Quincy, Sandwich again, First Church, Fall River; Pleasant Street, New Bedford; Woonsocket, Broadway, Providence; Norwich, Willimantic, Hazardville, South Manchester, Uncasville, Colchester, Portland, and Versailles. He was elected a delegate to the General Conference in 1856. In all his active ministry of forty-two years he had revivals in nearly every charge, and notable ones in Sandwich, Provincetown, First Church, Fall River; Pleasant Street, New Bedford, and Broadway, Providence. The church property always improved during his pastorate and debts were paid. His ability and fitness for the ministry is recognized in the class of appointments he received, and his evangelistic spirit in the fact that many were turned to righteousness in the churches which he served, who for the past years have called him their spiritual father. His last public work was at the "Old People's Service," in October, 1894, at the Methodist church in Willimantic, Conn. Since he had been a former pastor of that church it was arranged that he should address the elderly people gathered at that service. He was present with his wife, and appeared unusually well and strong throughout the day, and very happy withal. In the evening he made a delightful address to the children. He attended Sunday school and church the second Sunday in August for the last time, and from that date failed rapidly. He was confined to his bed but one week. During the summer he spoke freely of his departure, and always with an unwavering trust. He was always very happy; everything was just right. One day he remarked to an attendant, "Some day I shall shut my eyes and be at home." During his last hours, in partial delirium, he talked and preached and prayed, thinking he was laboring with the unconverted, and seeming anxious to do his whole duty, that none should be lost through his neglect. By expressions that fell from his lips he was evidently dwelling on revival scenes of more than sixty years ago. Finally, he passed into a comatose state, and without a struggle breathed his last October 8, 1895, aged 84 years and 16 days. In 1838, May 30, he was united in marriage with Miss Thankful T. Faunce, of Plymouth, Mass., a descendant of Elder Faunce, of Plymouth memory. They celebrated their golden wedding in 1888.

New York East Conference.

Frederick Augustus Gascoigne was born in Brooklyn, N. Y., July 8, 1861, and died in the same city January 26, 1896. He was well born, for he was the child of Christian parents and was nurtured in a Christian home. He was received on probation in the Nostrand Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church of Brooklyn June 17, 1874, and into full membership April 2, 1876. From his sixteenth to his twenty-second year he was a clerk in two large business houses in New York, where his conduct won for him the esteem of all who knew him, and out from which he went to Wilbraham to prepare for the Christian ministry. In 1886 he entered Wesleyan University, and was graduated in 1890. His first charge was in Hummelstown, Pa., where he filled an appointment as a local preacher and remained till the spring of 1891, when he joined the New York East Conference. His ministry was brief but very beautiful. Only two appointments stand against his name on our Conference records: West Suffield, and First Church, New Rochelle, N. Y. In the morning and beauty of his early manhood he passed away. It is not easy for our hearts to be contented now that he is gone, or for our faith to receive the message that his work on earth was done. It is not that he was a great man, but we loved him. He was not famous by the standards of this world, but, tested by those forces of holiness and life whereby his Master is lifting the world, he was a genuine disciple of Jesus Christ. His people loved him, and saw in him a messenger from God. As a preacher, his word was that of a herald. He spoke for another, and in each of his two charges he built up the Church and brought many to the knowledge of God. A story is current in one of his parishes of the young minister on a load of hay, as it was carted from the meadows through the village streets, while he crowded the Gospel upon a reluctant farmer whom he was not elsewhere able to reach. His death was caused by a subtle disease that had afflicted him for years, against which he had contended with fortitude and patience. At last he determined to submit to an operation. He was not hopeful of the outcome. Very touching was his last interview with his widowed mother, whom he loved with a strange tenderness. In the hospital ward he kissed her, and each committed the other to God. The ordeal of the knife was too much for his feeble body, and in the early Sabbath morning of January 26 his spirit escaped from the dissolving tabernacle, and he passed away to be with Christ, which is far better.

William H. Boole was born in Shelburne, Nova Scotia, April 24, 1827, and died in West New Brighton, Staten Island, February 24, 1896. He was brought to New York before he was six years of age. He went to the common school, but was early put to work. He studied for a while in a law office, but was sent from thence to Newburyport, Mass., to learn the trade of shipbuilding. In the powerful oratory by which he has thrilled large audiences in his most effective days his most forcible illustrations were drawn from the ship and the sea. Having joined himself to a volunteer fire company, and given free reins to his pleasure-loving nature, he became precocious in the common immoralities of his surroundings, although he recently remarked concerning this period of his life, "I was not as bad as you all thought." In the meantime the shipyard had been removed to Boston, where he was married at the age of nineteen. He soon commenced to attend the Methodist Episcopal church in East Boston, where he was converted. Returning to New York, he became immersed in politics, and drifted somewhat away from God. His religious convictions were at times powerful, and suddenly, while a clerk in the County Court, he made known that he was called to preach the Gospel. He joined the New York East Conference in 1854. His Conference record is: Clinton, Saybrook, Milford, New Britain, Mount Vernon, York Street, Brooklyn; Thirty-seventh Street, New York; South Second Street, Brooklyn; Beekman Hill, New York; Seventeenth Streeth, New York; Meriden, South Norwalk; President of the New York East Conference Temperance Society, South Second Street, Brooklyn, again, and Willett Street, New York. At his New Britain Appointment he commenced a system of voice culture, abating no pains or sacrifice, exercising by the hour on the hills and in the woods, until he became master of effective delivery, with a tone, compass, and clearness of voice sufficient to be easily heard at the extremes of the largest assemblies. He has spoken for nearly two consecutive hours without strain or fatigue. He was in the army as a chaplain till just before the battle of Yorktown, when he broke his arm by a fall from his horse. While pastor in Brooklyn he opened a "home for fallen women" in Water Street, New York, which was supported by a company of consecrated men and women, and many were redeemed and restored by these faithful workers. Here he did some of the best work of his life. He had gifts, grace, and usefulness, but these could be accurately measured in him only from the standpoint of a reformer. He believed strongly, and had faith in his faith. He wasted no time in generalizations. He brought to bear every force and faculty within him to defend and advance the doctrines of Christian perfection and legal prohibition. He was one of the early members of the National Camp Meeting Association for the Promotion of Holiness. In the interest of these subjects he brooked no conservatism. That his radically and pressed convictions should arouse prejudice and sometimes create open hostilities was natural. Yet he brought many to God, and left scarcely an appointment without a goodly enrollment of converts on its records. He believed that the heroic treatment was the only possible cure in many cases, hence the instances in the religious awakenings in his churches which are not only exceptional in methods but in results. Brother Boole's supernumerary years have been crowded with vigorous activities for righteousness. His field has been the world, and has been better adapted to his radical nature than the conservative limitations of a single parish. His lectures have been campaign documents hurled with fiery eloquence through States and Territories. One needed to know him well to understand the strange makeup of his character. He was a man of fire and conflict, but he had winsome phases of the passive virtues. He was as affectionate as a child. He boiled over with humor. He was powerful in prayer, and as fearless of counter opinions as John Knox or Martin Luther. He, with five or six others, carried the war into the Mormon camp. The evening he preached was a thrilling occasion. Brigham Young and all his elders were present. The sermon was a terrible arraignment of the Mormon system. The Mormons were aroused to fury. As he hurled his arguments and denunciations there were evidences that the little band were about to be attacked, but the Gentiles were out in force, and, with revolvers in hand, surrounded the little party, with Brother Boole in the center, under the folds of the Stars and Stripes, and the Mormons concluded to be quiet. From that day the Gentiles had a freedom of speech in expression of opinion such as they had not known previously in Salt Lake. Another bit of history gives us a glance at another phase of his character. John G. Woolley, the brilliant temperance orator, pays him this affectionate tribute: "I say there was no softer touch than his to deal with weakness in the world. . . . He came across my life when it was darkest and I was beggared but proud and bitter and silent, and hailed me in such cheery, brotherly fashion that I loved him instantly. And when the light came and I left to start my little ministry he pressed into my hands all the money that he had—not a few bills, but hundreds of dollars—to make it easier for me in the difficult first months. I do not pretend to undervalue my own life, but whatever gain it makes or may make for right in this great struggle must be entered largely in the everlasting record to the credit of William H. Boole." His last work was holding evangelistic meetings at Flemington, N. J., where he closed up his work about February 7 with two large temperance meetings. He returned home greatly fatigued, but after a few days of rest seemed much better. The doctor thought he was able to fill some engagements the following week, but the weary man said, "I have a sort of presentiment I ought not to go;" so his wife went in his stead. She left home on Saturday night for Camden. On Sunday he was unusually well all day, and retired as usual. About one o'clock he called for water, drank it, and in less than ten minutes, without a groan or a manifest pain, he glided through the gate into the city. The weary warrior sleeps. The son of thunder and consolation rests.

Wyoming Conference.

DAVID R. CARRIER was born in Columbus, N. Y., November 28, 1823, and died from cerebral hemorrhage at Binghamton, N. Y., August 29, 1895. He graduated from Cazenovia Seminary at eighteen, and from Union College at twenty. He was one of the pioneer school-teachers in the Territory of Wisconsin, having charge of the first high school there. Soon after this he was made Professor of Languages at Wyoming Seminary, where he was for some years closely associated with and the prized friend of Dr. Reuben Nelson. After severing his connection with the Wyoming Seminary he became Agent for the Troy University. During all this time of teaching he was a regularly licensed preacher, and in 1857 entered the itinerant ministry in the old Oneida Conference, serving the following charges: Camillus, Newfield, Fleming, Union Springs, Ludlowville, Port Byron, Homer, South New Berlin, Clarksville, and Guilford. While pastor of Guilford, after a severe illness, his mind became unbalanced, but after treatment he recovered and resided at Cazenovia and Norwich. In 1881, from a severe affliction, he became hopelessly deranged, since which time he has been under treatment at the State Hospital at Binghamton till his death. In 1854 he was united in marriage with Miss Catharine McChesney, of Troy, N. Y., who, with their children, J. Wilbur Carrier, of Pittsburg, Pa., and Florence and Russell, of Chicago, Ill., survives him. In the days of his strength he was an intellectual, highly cultured gentleman, an able preacher, a man of commanding presence, highly beloved and respected. His weary body was laid to rest in the Mount Hope Cemetery, Norwich, N. Y. Thus God giveth his beloved sleep.

GEORGE GREENFIELD was born in Philadelphia, Pa., May 10, 1839, and died in the same city December 1, 1895. By trade he was a blacksmith, and at seventeen he was converted in his shop. Within a year the Church gave him authority as an exhorter and a local preacher. For seven years he made sketches of sermons on his anvil, wrote them out in the evenings, and preached them on the Sabbaths. In 1863 he was employed at Tobyhanna by the presiding elder, and in 1866 joined the Wyoming Conference. He served with conscientious devotion the following charges: Lehman, Northmoreland, Auburn, Orwell Hill, Skinner's Eddy, Meshoppen, Parsons, Forty Fort, and Wanamie. In 1887 he took a supernumerary relation and removed to his native city. This relation he held at his death. Yet he was restless and not content to be idle, and was given the care of Mount Olivet Mission, and after that the mission at New Providence. He could put but little physical energy into this service, yet the people admired and loved him; the church grew and was unified; he was a genial friend, a wise counselor, a social power, and a spiritual comfort. He was married in 1863 to Miss Mary A. Heller, of Philadelphia, Pa., who still survives him, as does also a son who is preparing for the ministry in the Iliff School of Theology, at Denver, Colo. He was very ill for many months, but amid it all he was peaceful and patient, hopeful and happy. The day but one before he went away he wrote to the writer predicting for himself speedy return to health and strength. However, early on that morning, the first day of the month, and, indeed, the first day of the week, as the bells began to welcome the worshipers to service, suddenly that poor tired heart could no longer do its labor, and, halting in its work, our brother "fell on sleep."

HENRY HALSTEAD was born in Bedford, N. Y., in 1800, and died in New Berlin, N. Y., February 21, 1896. When fourteen years of age he was apprenticed to a blacksmith at Mayfield, N. Y., and was probably converted about that time. In a brief sketch of his early life, written by himself, he says: "The witness was clear, and I identified myself with the Methodist Episcopal church and took an active part in the prayer and class meeting." At twenty years of age he commenced teaching school, and continued in that vocation about four years, when his health failed. This affliction seems to have been regarded by him as an indication of divine displeasure on account of his having failed to yield to the impression that he was called of God to preach the Gospel. He says, "I closed my school and then decided that there was only one chance for me, and that was to respond to the first opportunity I had. If I died doing what I thought was my duty God would have mercy and save me." The opportunity soon came. A preacher appointed to the Sharon Circuit, Genesee Conference, was unable to proceed to his appointment, and he consented to act as supply for two months. He says of this: "I obtained a horse, saddle and bridle, and the resemblance of saddlebags, and started for the Sharon Circuit, about a hundred miles away. I was cordially received and soon regained my health." In 1826 he was received on trial in the Genesee Conference, and appointed as second preacher to Vienna Circuit. During his pastorate at Earlville, N. Y., in the year 1827, a great revival occurred. Of the seventy converts three became traveling preachers, one of whom was Jesse Truesdell Peck. About this time it became necessary to station preachers in the larger villages. According to Brother Halstead's account these stations did not afford a very liberal support, for he wrote: "When I got quite lean I would ask for a circuit to recruit, and in this way I did not suffer starvation." In 1829, while at Vernon Center, he married. From 1826 to 1858, inclusive, he received nineteen different appointments in the Genesee and Wyoming Conferences, preaching every year but one during that period. He superannuated in the year 1858. With sight and hearing failing, he attended church services as long as it was possible for him to do so. In the later years, when other things had largely faded from his memory, he quoted Scripture frequently and with astonishing accuracy. At the advanced age of ninety-six earth's ties were easily severed, and, with the work of his long life on record, he is at rest.

JOHN F. WILLIAMS was born in Carbondale, Pa., September 27, 1844, and died in the hospital at Wilkesbarre, Pa., whither he had gone for a surgical operation, February 18, 1896. At seventeen he enlisted in the Fifty-eighth Regiment of Illinois Volunteers, and by subsequent reenlistment continued in the service four years and four months. His record embraced thousands of miles of marching and participation in many engagements and expeditions. The hardship and exposure of the service brought on a disease against which he fought for more than thirty years, but to which he finally succumbed. After leaving the army he took a commercial course in the Eastman Business College. Our best information is that while in Poughkeepsie, under the ministry of Rev. John E. Cookman, he was converted and united with the Methodist Episcopal church. Feeling called to the ministry he entered the Wyoming Seminary in the autumn of 1869 to prepare for his lifework. He remained in the institution for three years, a painstaking and thorough student. His education was enlarged by his methodical habits of reading and study. In the winter of 1871-72 he was appointed to fill a vacancy in Dunmore, Pa. God was with him, and a gracious revival occurred. In 1872 he united with the Wyoming Conference and was appointed to Spencer. His subsequent appointments were: Windham, Sterling, Jermyn, Hawley, Afton, Schenevus, Smyrna, Plains, Dallas, and Luzerne. His work on these several fields was done faithfully and well. He was an excellent pastor. His genial disposition and fine social qualities made him always a welcome guest in the homes of his people. He had tact to reach the hearts of those he sought to benefit, and the sunshine in his own soul was carried into many another. As a preacher, he ranked high. His sermons were always scriptural, logical, and helpful. He aimed at immediate results. He had a deep faith in God, and his discourses were a reflection of his own heart experience. It is not strange, therefore, that his charges were blessed with extensive revivals, in which many souls were brought to a knowledge of sins forgiven. When we recall the great physical suffering through which he passed, the latter years of his life stand out as a marvel of courage and fortitude. His last hours were filled with great peace. At his request Sister Williams read, with other portions of the word, the twenty-first chapter of Revelation, "And with his heart full of the visions of the New Jerusalem his soul went up the steeps of light to be forever with the Lord."

James O. Woodruff was born February 27, 1838, at Connecticut Farms, N. J. He secured the rudiments of an education at the old academy at Westfield, N. J., and afterward in the pauses of the farm work he used to take his Hebrew or Latin grammar and study each as he lay at length under the trees. He was sixteen years old, when, under the influence of an old-fashioned Methodist revival, held at Springfield, he was convinced of sin. He used to tell how that night, when the consciousness of forgiveness came, the very stars glittered more brilliantly as he walked homeward. As he described it his words would flow with a freedom of great joy and his face would shine with the glow of heavenly light. At twenty-two, after a hard struggle to fit himself, he entered the ministry, and his service in the work was never interrupted until the final illness came. He was successively appointed to Blakely, Sterling, Salem, Carbondale, Honesdale, Pittston, Norwich, First Church, Kingston; Wilkesbarre, Waverly, Plymouth, and Binghamton District. His outward record has been new churches, new parsonages, improved church property, and an increase in strength of the church organizations. The deeper and better tests of usefulness are graven on the hearts of the people with whom he came in contact, and whose tribute to his memory is most eloquent and most touching. A characteristic trait of the late Dr. Woodruff, as shown in his last illness, was his wonderful patience under affliction. He was not only patient, but hopeful, even when those about him were in despair. If he knew that the end was near he did not say so, for fear of wounding those whom he loved. So he suffered on alone in his grief, or at least he thought he alone was bearing it. His only solicitude was that those whom he loved should linger as near him as they might. The priceless legacy of precept and example that he left his children has often been referred to. One of them used to say, "My father is my sunbeam." Any pleasure or progress that came to the children was doubly dear to them because they knew how much he would rejoice with them. If any of them were in real or fancied trouble he was the one confidant, and he never failed them. As a minister of God, and as a shepherd of the flock, he had the large-hearted sympathy that belongs only to those of the most generous endowments, and he long years ago included his people in his larger family. His years were fifty-eight, counting them by the calendar, but as a celebrated writer has said, this is no way to estimate a man's age. He was fifty-eight years young. His youthful spirit was always as delightful as a May morning. As would naturally be expected from a man of this sort, he was of broad catholicity. He hated narrowness and bigotry. He believed in the brotherhood of man, and though firmly attached to the Church of his choice, yet he had a wide sympathy with his fellow-workers in the other denominations. Some of his most intimate friendships were among the clergymen of other connections. His superior talents as a sermonizer were generally recognized. He had about all the traits that go to make a successful speaker—strong personal magnetism; a peculiarly sweet and clear intonation; a fine flow of words, and an aptness in framing his mother tongue into sentences that enlisted the admiration of those best qualified to judge. His gift in prayer was generally recognized as wonderful. His pastoral work was full of that rich sympathy that smooths the rugged pathway of life and makes the way plain for those in trouble. In the consciousness of helping others was his greatest delight. The sublime joy of his ministry has often been remarked. He thought that religion should be framed about with the odor of flowers, with the inspiration of music, and with all the beauty that art could give. The way was always to him a path of light and joy. It is not strange that his face glowed with the radiance of the heart and that his hand-clasp thrilled one with a sense of tenderness and sympathy. He would never have grown old, for his heart was always as young as when the leaves waved over him in his boyhood studies. He was always a great reader, and he kept himself abreast of the times, in secular as well as in religious matters. He had something in common with most men. He could intelligently discuss the latest methods of farming with the agriculturist; mechanics with the engineer; theories of government with the politician; equity with the jurist. Here was his broad humanity. This trait won men who could not be reached by other means. He had no college training, and yet his scholarship was broad. He was always a student. From the Conference and from outside its bounds have come expressions of regret at this sad and mysterious dispensation of Providence. A great man in Israel has fallen, and one of the noblest and truest hearts that ever beat in unison to humanity's touch is forever stilled. But he who is dead yet speaketh. The influence of a pure life, of a noble example, of a consecrated holiness, is alive to-day, and will be felt as long as those who have known him are spared to linger this side of the shores of eternity.

New Hampshire Conference.

James Pike was born November 10, 1818, in Salisbury, Mass., and died of heart failure in Newfields, N. H., July 27, 1895. While attending the Newmarket Academy he was led to consecrate his life to God and to take upon himself a public profession of religion. After some experience as a teacher he entered the ministry as a local preacher in 1840, and was admitted into full connection in 1845. He served with marked success at Hooksett, Pembroke, Nashua, Newmarket, Lawrence, High Street, Great Falls; and Haverhill. In all these charges his labors were very fruitful, and this was especially the case at Great Falls (now Somersworth), where he had a wonderful work of revival, the fruits of which remain to this day. In 1853 he was appointed Presiding Elder of Dover District, and served till 1855. A most important change here took place in his relations to the public. He accepted the nomination for the Thirty-fourth Congress in 1855, and was reelected to the Thirty-fifth Congress in 1857.

He was the third Methodist minister who served the State in the lower house of the national legislature, the first being his father-in-law, Rev. John Brodhead, and the second, Rev. Jared Perkins. He returned to the Conference in 1859, and was employed as pastor and presiding elder till 1862, when he enlisted in the war of the rebellion and served as Colonel of the Sixteenth Regiment, New Hampshire Volunteers. At the expiration of nine months the regiment was mustered out, and he received an honorable dischage. He carried his religion with him into the army and was a missionary to his men, to whom he ministered in their sickness and suffering. After his return home he was successively pastor of a church, financial agent of the seminary at Tilton, and presiding elder. He was appointed delegate from the New Hampshire Conference to the Ecumenical Council at Cincinnati in 1876, and to the Centennial Celebration of Methodism in America at Baltimore in 1884, and was also elected to the General Conference in 1860, 1864, 1868, and 1872. Some ten years ago his strong frame began to fail, and in 1889 he took a superannuated relation, retiring to South New Market (now Newfields), where he lived many years. Here he died in peace after a brief period of suffering. Nature and grace combined to make him one of the noblest of God's noblemen. He was a man of great charity, yet loyally attached to his own Church. He was a patriot after the Christian pattern, and served his country as he served his God, for conscience' sake. He has fought a good fight, and is gone to inherit the crown of righteousness.

Daniel Lee was born in Stanstead, Canada, July 1, 1806, and died in Hennessey, Ok. Ter., July 22, 1895. He was converted in his native town June 25, 1825, and the same year he was licensed to exhort. That he might be the better prepared for the work of the ministry he became a student in Wilbraham Academy, where he remained for several years. He was received on probation in the New Hampshire Conference in 1831; ordained deacon in Oregon in 1833, and elder in Alexandria, Va., in 1834. A plain, practical preacher, he did not use extravagant language, nor indulge in fierce denunciations, but his words were tender and earnest. After a brief service in New Hampshire, he was sent as a missionary among the Indians of Oregon, where he was permitted the joy of witnessing the conversion of a large number of these sons of the forest. During the period in which he occupied this mission he was married to Miss Maria T. Ware, of Gilsum, N. H. He returned from Oregon to the New Hampshire Conference in 1844, and was stationed at East Haverhill, West Plymouth, Alexandria and Hebron, Unity, Deering and Hillsboro, Grantham and Newport, Grantham, East Unity, Goshen, and Wendell. In February, 1895, he met with a painful accident while alighting from a slowly moving railway train. He suffered much from the shock. During the summer he rallied somewhat, but the man of almost ninety years had not the vitality needed for complete restoration, and on July 22, 1895, he was not, for the Master said unto him, "It is enough, come up higher." His last words, written to the Conference stewards, were: "Good is the will of the Lord. The Lord careth for us. How great are the triumphs of his grace."

Orlando Hines Jasper, D.D., was born in Minot, Me., February 24, 1820, and died in Tilton, N. H., April 25, 1895. Feeling that God had called him to the ministry, he was licensed as a local preacher May 11, 1839, was admitted to the Maine Conference in 1840, and received elders' orders in 1848. While in the Maine Conference he served at East Machias, Orrington, South Standish, Springvale, and Yarmouth. He was readmitted to the New Hampshire Conference in 1849, after pursuing a course of study at the seminary at Newbury, Vt., and a theological course at the old Biblical Institute at Concord, N. H. He sustained himself while attending school by teaching and preaching as a supply as he had opportunity. His appointments were as follows: Hanover, Hill, New Ipswich, Suncook, Hinsdale, Claremont, Concord, Plymouth, Sanbornton Bridge (now Tilton), Dover, High Street, Great Falls; Lebanon, Presiding Elder of Claremont District, for four years, Portsmouth. In 1852, on account of feeble health, he was superannuated, but after three years he resumed effective work. April 18, 1849, he was married to Miss Mary L. Willis, of Winchester, N. H. He received the title of Doctor of Divinity from the Wesleyan University in 1873. Few men ever needed this honor less or deserved it more. He was elected to the General Conference of 1860, and to that of 1868. For several months previous to his death his health became seriously affected and he was an almost constant sufferer. He failed rapidly, and died in great peace in the early morning of April 25. He was a man of great intellectual force, a deep thinker, a diligent student, and a thorough scholar. As a preacher, he was both strong and clear, and his pulpit ministrations were instructive and edifying. He had a warm heart as well as a great brain, combining in a rare degree the wisdom of common sense and the genial wit of a ready mind. His counsels in the Church and among his ministerial brethren were always wise and safe, and will be greatly missed.

James Mores Bean was born in Sandwich, N. H., August 27, 1827, and died in Lanark, Ill., April 20, 1895. He commenced his preparatory studies at the Northfield Seminary in 1851, where he was licensed to preach. His studies were interrupted by a severe sickness followed by feeble health, but, being restored, he entered the Biblical Institute at Concord, N. H., in 1853, graduating in 1861. He was ordained deacon in 1858, and elder in 1865. While pursuing his studies at the theological school he had a charge, supplying the churches at Bow and at Rumney. He united with the New Hampshire Conference in 1861, was appointed to Rumney, Landaff, Haverhill, Loudon, and Littleton. At Littleton his health failed to such an extent that he was obliged to cease work, and he went West as the only hope of prolonging life. After a year and a half of rest he supplied the church at Savannah, Ill., for two years, and another church for three years, preaching alternate Sabbaths. Locating at Lanark, Ill., he continued to reside there until his decease. In his retirement Brother Bean was still useful as an officiary in the church, serving as trustee, Sunday school superintendent, and Sunday school teacher. For eleven years he was elected President of the Carroll County Sunday School Association, and a friend writes: "He made a faithful officer and was always found at his post of duty." Though in feeble health for many years his last sickness was short. Perfectly conscious to the last moment, an hour before his death he expressed the confidence that he should soon be with loved ones in heaven. He joined audibly in the Lord's Prayer until near the close when his voice faltered; a gentle pressure of his hand, a sweet smile, and he was not, for God had taken him.

OBITUARIES.

Genesee Conference.

Sandford Hunt was born in Eden Valley, N. Y., April 1, 1825. He was nurtured in a Christian home and spent his early life on a farm. His grandmother's house, on his mother's side, was a preaching place of Bishop Asbury. Converted at fifteen, he entered Allegany College at twenty, working his way, without pecuniary help, excepting the modest amount of forty dollars from his father, and graduating with special honor in 1847. He received the degree of D.D. from his alma mater in 1871. He early felt called into the ministry, and in August, 1847, he joined the Genesee Conference as a probationer. At Ellicottville, his second charge, he led his small society in erecting a new church, himself going into the woods and assisting in cutting and scoring timber for the building. At Rushford he also succeeded in building a commodious church. His appointments were: Machias, Ellicottville, Niagara Falls, Royalton, Rushford, Pekin, Grace Church, Buffalo; Saint Mark's, Buffalo; Perry, Albion, Niagara District; Lockport, Batavia, Delaware Avenue, Buffalo (the beautiful chapel of that church was built under his pastorate); Niagara District again, and Buffalo District. On March 3, 1879, he was elected by the Book Committee to take the place of Dr. Nelson, deceased, as associate Agent of the Book Concern with Mr. Phillips. He continued to hold the position of Agent, by the suffrage of the General Conference, until his death. He had been making an official visit to some of the Conferences in the Southern States, and on his return North had reached Cincinnati. While entering the Grand Hotel at about 7:30 on the evening of February 10, 1896, an attack of angina pectoris seized him. He uttered a few hurried words, asking the support of his brethren, and fell into their arms to die. He had had for some months preceding slight premonitory symptoms of danger, but had scarcely turned aside from his ordinary course of duty for an hour. His aim and his prayer were to be always ready. His most important work was accomplished as Agent of the Book Concern and as Treasurer of the Missionary Society. In paying off the debt of the Book Concern, and in the erection of the magnificent building now occupied, he was a chief counselor and supervisor. He was twice a reserve delegate to the General Conference; was six times a member of that body; and was at his death a member-elect of the General Conference of 1896, having been three times elected at the head of his delegation. His sagacity, clearness of statement, and transparent candor, together with his heartiness and his unselfish interest in the prosperity of the Church, made him an influential leader in legislation, as well as in the management of the business of the Church. He felt the debt upon the Missionary treasury as a personal burden, and his most intense thought was given to methods of relief. His financial skill and devices for carrying on this great interest were a surprise to those associated with him. It is not impossible that his anxiety aided in bringing on the crisis which ended his days. The interest of Dr. Hunt in questions of Church legislation and polity led him to the publication of brief works on these subjects, which have been of great use to the preachers in their administration. His familiarity with Methodism in the Genesee Conference led to his writing a volume on Methodism in Buffalo from its Origin until the Close of 1892. In his early ministry he married the daughter of Rev. Hiram May, one of the pioneers of the Genesee Conference. His wife and three daughters survive. He was a man of balanced judgment, well informed on all subjects germane to his great work, and especially well posted in the history and polity of his Church. He was calm and dispassionate in his deliberations and utterances. True to discovered truth, his conscience was open toward God and man. Brotherly instincts bound him to every member of his Conference. He possessed great intellectual and moral strength. Industrious and careful in husbanding opportunity, his duties were attended to on time, and, although he was suddenly called, he was found ready. He was a patriot as well as a Christian, rendering efficient service as Secretary for the United States Christian Commission for Western New York for two years during the war. From Cincinnati his remains were removed to Brooklyn, N. Y., where funeral services were attended by a large number of his associates in the Book Concern. Thence he was taken to Buffalo, where appropriate services were observed in the Delaware Avenue Church in the presence of many members of his Conference, after which his body was laid to rest in the beautiful Forest Lawn Cemetery.

Daniel Leisenring was born at Varick, N. Y., May 28, 1821. He was "born again" at the age of twenty. Forty-seven years of his life were given to the ministry. His appointments were: Wellsburg, 1849; Springfield, 1850; Burlington, Pa., 1851; Southport, 1853–54; Millport, 1855–56; Milo Center, 1857; Sodus, 1858–59; Branchport, 1860; Clifton Springs, 1861; Benton Center, 1862–63; Naples, 1864–65; Rochester, North Avenue, 1866–68; Watkins, 1869–70; Dansville, 1871-72; Warsaw, 1873; Wellsville, 1874-75; Livonia, 1876–78; Honeoye Falls, 1879–81; Nunda, 1882–83. In 1885, owing to failing health, he took a supernumerary relation. In 1886 he resumed his work, and was stationed at Webster for two years. His impaired eyesight then compelled him to become supernumerary, and in 1894 he was superannuated. Many powerful revivals of religion attended his ministry, notably at North Avenue, Rochester, N. Y. The Glenwood Church, of Rochester, N. Y., owes much to him. He stood by the Sunday school and prayer meeting, out of which the church had its origin, when others less hopeful dropped out. He circulated the first subscription paper for the new chapel, inspired others with his enthusiasm, and soon saw a goodly number supporting him in his effort to erect a suitable building. In the absence of his pastor he was left in charge of the Sunday worship. While on his way to the evening service he was prostrated by apoplexy. He lingered a few days without bodily pain, and died March 14, 1896. He was a good preacher, helpful, scriptural, and orthodox. He did not believe in shams; everything he did was transparent. The beautiful grace of humility made his life lovely. It beamed forth in his face, expressed itself in his language, and sparkled with the radiance of a diamond in the acts of his Christly life. He was a model superannuated preacher, always saying and doing the right things. He was twice married. His second wife survives him. In the departure of this good man the Church militant has lost a noble standard bearer; the Church triumphant will be richer because of his presence.

JESSE T. HUMPHREYS began his earthly life at Lower Penn's Neck, N. J., June 23, 1832. He entered upon the heavenly life from Hemlock Lake, July 19, 1896. His parents were sturdy Methodists of the olden type, fervent, enthusiastic, and loyal. The subject of this sketch was clearly and happily converted at the age of nine at a Methodist altar. His education was obtained in a Quaker boarding school. At twenty-four he married Miriam Mattson, who survives him with six children. Soon after his marriage he began to teach school, and was for a time engaged in business. When the call came he left all to enter the ministry, having for a number of years exercised his gifts as an exhorter and local preacher. He joined the Genesee Conference in 1873, and served as follows: Henrietta, Niagara Falls, Wilson, Somerset, Royalton, Spencerport, Steward of Genesee Wesleyan Seminary, Springwater, Penfield, Rush. On his last charge two revivals were held, and the result to the charge was marvelous. At Wilson and Spencerport there was a large ingathering, and at Somerset a beautiful new church was built and paid for during his pastorate. He was symmetrical in character, devout in spirit, and genial in all his social relations. He was an excellent preacher, a good pastor, and a faithful friend. Two weeks before his death he preached in his pulpit. Feeling the need of rest he went to Hemlock Lake for a short vacation. But his work was done, "and he was not; for God took him."

NATHAN N. BEERS was born in Mendon, N. Y., October 13, 1815. Converted at twelve, in Oxford, Conn., he was early called to preach, beginning his work at Allentown, Conn., in 1835. Removing temporarily to the South, he preached to the poor bondmen near Savannah, Ga., until his ministrations provoked the slaveholders so that they drove him away. In 1844 he joined the Genesee Conference, and organized the Mount Hor class, which later formed the nucleus of the old Alexander Street, now Monroe Avenue, Rochester, N. Y. His succeeding appointments were: Chemung, Townsendville, Mecklenberg, Catharine, Chemung again, Bath, Lawrenceville, Rushville, Ovid, Dundee, Canisteo, Cohocton, Avoca, Prattsburg, Pultney, Benton, Dresden, North Hector, Wayne, Kanona, Nestor, Allegany, Holland, Lawrenceville again, Towlesville, Bristol Center, Allen's Hill. In 1886 he was superannuated and removed to Naples, where he died. Intellectuality predominated in him. Deprived of a liberal schooling he was always seeking an education. Mathematics, history, medicine, and theology were lines of study sometimes pursued, but his specialty was language. He was the Elihu Burritt of his Conference. His daily recreation till a short time before his death consisted in grappling with some linguistic problem, or dwelling on some peculiar shade of meaning in Scripture brought out by a language not his own. He read to some extent German, French, Spanish, Dutch, Portuguese, Italian, Arabic, Syriac, Greek, and Hebrew, having Bibles in all these tongues. The Hebrew, especially, possessed to him a fascination almost divine. Its very characters seemed sacred. It was common for his pastor to find him sitting at his desk with the big Hebrew Bible before him, writing out in elegantly executed characters some phrase or sentence therefrom. He was a thoughtful preacher, and during his long service received many members into the Church. Through all the physical decay of his last years his mind remained clear as noonday almost until the last. His last message was, "Tell my brethren in the Conference it is all right with me. God reigns and cares for me in my 'age and feebleness extreme.' He supports me in the trying hour. I glory in his name."

ANDREW PURDY was born in Jasper, N. Y., October 26, 1842. He spent his early days on the farm and in attending school. At fifteen he was converted and united with the Presbyterian Church. At sixteen he entered Alfred University, where he spent five years, graduating with high honors. Later he entered the Medical Department of the University of Michigan, and afterward the University of New York, where he spent two years, receiving the degree of M.D. He also spent one year in Bellevue Hospital, New York city. During the winter of 1876-77 in a revival he was wonderfully quickened, and felt constrained to enter the ministry. In 1877 he was appointed to the Erwin and Lindley Charge. With his wealth of knowledge, his flood of spiritual life, his unconquerable enthusiasm, he launched himself upon his work. The whole community was immediately awakened. Week after week the people were converted until the saved numbered over three hundred. His next appointment was Cohocton. His third appointment was to the Lawrenceville Charge, where he was successful in parsonage building, and especially in saving men. His fourth appointment was Victor, and his fifth Tonawanda. Asbury Church, Buffalo, was his sixth appointment. Here he reached the summit of effort, and succeeded in saving many souls. On October 6, 1896, he left home to attend Conference at Corning, N. Y. On the 8th, about noon, the zenith of the day, and at the zenith of his increasingly useful life, he received from the great Bishop of the Church his seventh appointment; he fell on Market Street, Corning, became unconscious, and soon expired. He was a tender-hearted, large-souled man. He was broad and catholic. His heart went out toward all the ministry and the Church of Jesus Christ. He leaves behind him a widow and five sons. He rests from his labors, and his works do follow him.

JACOB HAGAR was born September 1, 1809, at Middleburg, N. Y. He was converted at a prayer meeting March 1, 1826, and four days later at a quarterly meeting, held in a barn, united with the Church. On January 29, 1833, he was granted an exhorter's license, and was licensed to preach July 30, 1836. In the fall of 1840 he was recommended to the Genesee Conference for admission on trial, and he was received. This closed a long and severe struggle in which he had tried to silence God's call, and had barely escaped death by accident while working on the Genesee Valley Canal. He was one of a class of seventeen, nearly all of whom have laid down "the sword for a harp, the cross for a crown." He was ordained deacon by Bishop Hedding in September, 1842, and elder by Bishop Hamline in September, 1844. On July 25, 1843, he married Laurana A. Bard, one daughter now surviving. On January 19, 1890, his wife, who had shared all the years of his active ministry, fell on sleep. He superannuated in October, 1881, and retired to Kenyonville, N. Y. His last sickness was not extended. His death was a Christian's triumph. To the question, "Does the Gospel do for you now what you said it would in your sermons?" he said, "Yes! yes! more too! more too!" His successive charges were: Parmas, Smithport, Cuba and North Hudson, Franklinville, Otto, Gainesville, Hamburg, Bethany, Wales, Darien, Alabama, Carlton, Chili, Elba, Otto, Sardinia and Arcade, Covington and Fowlerville, Moscow and Fowlerville, Asbury and Wesley, Java, Carlton, Stafford, Wales, Millville, and Hartland.

JOSEPH LATHAM was a descendant of the Latham family, who trace their ancestors to Mary Chilton, whose family first set foot on Plymouth Rock from the Mayflower. His family were volunteers in the war of 1812, and also in the rebellion of 1861. Called to preach, he prepared himself by diligent study for the ministry, and joined the Genesee Conference in 1848. Two years later he married Miss Lyda R. Nelson. Five children survive, who are laboring in different professions. He was a thoughtful student, a kind pastor, and a clear preacher. On several charges where he labored gracious revivals of religion occurred, resulting in large accessions to the Church. On other charges he paid old debts, built parsonages and churches. He served on the following charges: Centerville, Royalton, Newfane, Millville, Middleport, Porter and Sweden, Wales, Java, Machias, Springville, Friendship, Wethersfield, Franklinville, Bolivar, Hinsdale, Ellicottville, and superannuated in 1871. After his superannuation he organized a church in Franklinville, N. Y., where he resided, which has grown to be a flourishing society. He never missed a Conference. Nothing ever interfered with his attendance upon the means of grace. The appointed hour always found him at church and prayer meeting. He enjoyed a deep religious experience. No sweeter Christian ever lived. His illness was brief, his rest peace.

John B. Lancton was born November 2, 1805, in Springfield, Mass., and died July 24, 1896, at Bancroft, Mich. When twenty years of age he found salvation. In 1828 he joined the Genesee Conference, and during his connection with it every name on the roll at that date had disappeared. The fields of his ministerial toil were as follows: Lewiston and Lockport, Aurora, Clarence and Alden, Lewiston, Lewiston and Grand Island, Lyndonville and Carlton, Ridgeway, Medina, Kempville, Scottsville and Caledonia, Sweden, Carlton and Lyndonville, Lyndonville, Parma and Clarkson, Ogden, Kendall, Elba, Churchville and Bergen, Hulberton and West Barre, Elba, North Chili, Pavilion and Fowlerville, Castile, Pike, Friendship, Cuba and Hudson, Sardinia, Clarence. He was superannuated in 1870. The repeated calls for his return to former charges showed that he was a man of more than ordinary ability and usefulness. Bancroft was his home for some years, where he was held in high esteem. In November, 1869, he married as his third wife Miss Phœbe Newman, who survives him. In a letter received recently from her she says: "For a few of his last years his religious enjoyments were very satisfactory. He died a most triumphant death," The Conference eane made from the remains of the first church built in the State of Michigan was held as a badge of patriarchal honor a dozen years by him, and was sent East with his remains to be forwarded to the next senior member.

Harris Peck was born in Bridgeport, Conn., in 1824, and died in Bradford, Pa., in February, 1896. In early manhood he removed to Elmira, N. Y., where he engaged in business and, in 1848, married. In 1855 he was soundly converted and united with the church, becoming immediately active in various lines of labor. As early as 1864 he was thrust out into revival work, in which he was remarkably successful. From 1865 to 1869 he was employed by the American Bethel Society, and by the American Seamen's Friend Society, acting first as missionary upon the canals and inland lakes of New York, and later for three years as chaplain of the port of Buffalo. In 1869 he entered the Genesee Conference, and thenceforward, for twenty-six years, did hard and successful work. At the Conference of 1895 he took a superannuated relation, but it was against his nature to cease to labor, and almost every week he preached several times on Sunday or on week day evenings, and for several weeks labored with marked success in evangelistic meetings with several pastors of the Conference. His death was almost without warning. It was upon the Lord's Day, and it had been expected that he would take part in the public services. While engaged in some slight activity he was suddenly seized with angina pectoris, and after a brief suffering ceased to live. He was survived by only one of near blood kinship, his widowed daughter. During the few months preceding he had buried his only surviving son and his beloved wife, the companion of forty-seven years.

Zenas Hurd was born at Sweden, N. Y., October 27, 1820, and died at Lima, N. Y., April 11, 1896. He began teaching at sixteen, aiding in the support of a widowed mother with six children. He prepared for college at Lima, working through vacations to procure means, and graduated from Wesleyan University in 1846. The same year he joined the Genesee Conference, and served in the itinerant ranks until 1855, when he was chosen Principal of the Conference Seminary at Pike, N. Y. In 1859 he taught mathematics in the Genesee Wesleyan Seminary at Lima, to the principalship of which he was elected in 1860. He served in the United States Christian Commission for a time during 1864, and reentered the pastorate, in which he continued until his superannuation in 1887. He then retired to Lima, N. Y., where he had prepared for college and met her who later became his wife, the daughter of the pioneer preacher, Micah Seager. Here he spent several years in educational work, and served as a trustee of the seminary for many more. Always a student, and always interested in the young, he taught Latin and Greek as assistant professor for a number of years. In schoolhouses of the surrounding country he also held services and brought many sheaves into the Lord's garner. He was one of those who bring forth fruit in old age. In an eminent degree he had the quality of "other-worldliness." He was a citizen of the kingdom of God, and in such accord with its principles that to many he appeared extreme and his standards impracticable for this world. His sense of God in the world made him an optimist of a high type. He served his Lord with an unfaltering fidelity to life's end, and went about like a living benediction.

Harvey Lamkin was born in the State of New York December, 1812, and died February, 1896. Converted at the age of eighteen, he immediately began to tell what a dear Saviour he had found. He worked at his trade and preached in surrounding schoolhouses. He was preeminently a soul-winner from the beginning. He joined the East Genesee Conference in 1852. He was ordained deacon in 1854 and elder in 1856. He fell into the Central New York Conference, by change of boundaries, in 1872. In the same manner he became a member of the Genesee Conference in 1876. His appointments were: Canton, Catharine, Chemung, Smithfield, Burlington, Springfield, Mansfield, Chemung, Blossburg, Tioga, Mainsburg, Tioga. From 1881 till his death he was superannuated. His education was very limited, so far as schools are concerned, but he knew God and men. In his later life he acquired an extensive knowledge of books. Well-educated people were often found in his congregation, and many of them were brought to Christ through his teaching. His communion with his heavenly Father was almost constant. His voice could be heard at a great distance when he was wrestling with God in prayer. At the altar, in a revival service, heaven and earth seemed to meet as he prayed for the penitent. Fearless in the proclamation of the truth, he was as tender as a child in his dealings with convicted sinners. In the pulpit he was a modern Boanerges. He preached for eternity. The destiny of souls was in his hands. He felt this in the depths of his soul. During a ministry of fifty-three years he preached 13,780 sermons. He was elected Associate Judge of Tioga County, Pa., in his retirement as a superannuate. He filled that office with honor. He had friends everywhere.

East Ohio Conference.

Parker W. Sherwood was born in Tompkins County, N. Y., April 30, 1814, and died at Ray's Corners, O., September 5, 1896. In 1816 his parents moved to Erie County, Pa., where he was brought up amid hardships of the severest kind. At twenty he attended a protracted meeting in Cambridge, Pa., traveling sixteen miles to it, and was joyfully converted June 10, 1834. Returning home, he asked and was granted the privilege of erecting the family altar. After the day's work was over his custom was to retire to a grove to read, pray, and meditate. "It was in one of these hours," he says, "that God called me to the ministry." In 1849 he was admitted to the Erie Conference, where he was eminently successful in winning souls to Christ. His scholarship was limited, but his study of the word of God was so thorough that he was able to preach the truth clearly and sometimes with great power. He was a deeply pious man, "full of faith and the Holy Ghost." When the division of his Conference took place he became a member of the East Ohio Conference, in 1876. In 1878 he took a superannuated relation, and retired to his home at Ray's Corners, where he died, loved by all who knew him.

Francis A. Archibald was born in Troy, N. Y., in 1841, and died at his home in Oakland, Cal., January 23, 1896. He was converted in early life and united with the church. He was educated in Allegheny College, Meadville, Pa. Feeling called to the ministry he entered the Erie Conference in 1865. He was a preacher of more than usual ability, filling pulpits in Cleveland and Cincinnati, and remained in the effective ranks for over twenty years. A throat trouble compelled him to give up active pulpit service, and for about ten years he was connected with the Book Concern at Cincinnati. During this time he wrote considerably for the press and put forth a volume entitled Methodism and Literature. Nine years ago he went to Los Angeles to engage in business; two years later he removed to San Francisco. He was in failing health for several months, though his final illness was brief. He suffered greatly, but bore it all in faith and hope. His kindness of heart added a charm to all he touched. There was nothing revengeful, acrimonious, or critical in his temper; all was serenity, repose, and sunshine. He was a man of a high character refined by grace. He died as he lived, trusting in the merits of an almighty Saviour. He leaves a wife and a grown-up son and daughter.

Marion W. Dallas was born in Belmont County, O., May 25, 1827, and died September 4, 1896, in Cuyahoga Falls. He was born of a good Methodist family, and was happily converted in his boyhood. He united with the church at Hendrysburg about the same time. He was admitted into the Pittsburg Conference in 1850, and was appointed to Norwich, O. After this he served such appointments in the old Pittsburg Conference as Indiana, Kittanning, Wesley Chapel, and Ames Church, Pittsburg, from which he was transferred to the East Ohio Conference and stationed at Scio. During his pastorate there he received from Scio College the degree of D.D. He afterward served in the East Ohio Conference Jefferson, Ashtabula, Cuyahoga Falls, and Tallmadge, which latter was his last appointment. During his second year his health gave way and he was obliged to relinquish the charge. For four years he sustained the relation of a superannuated member of the Conference. He was a vigorous thinker and a preacher of more than ordinary ability. He was instrumental in bringing many people to Christ. In Cuyahoga Falls, which he served for four years, and which may really be regarded as his last full appointment, an important improvement was made in the Sunday school room. It is now a thing of beauty, and is a material monument to his memory. He was often a great sufferer. With joy he heard the Master's call and is forever at rest. He leaves a widow and two daughters, who feel deeply the loss they have sustained.

William H. Haskell was born in Perry, O., December 27, 1844, and died in Ontario, Cal., April 19, 1896. He married Frances E. Nash October 8, 1873. He was converted early in life, and from that event looked toward the ministry as his lifework. He graduated from Allegheny College with first honors in the class of 1869; was principal of the public schools of Sherman, N. Y., one year, and of the schools of Pottsville, Pa., one year. After attending the School of Theology at Boston University one year he joined Erie Conference in 1873. The degree of Doctor of Divinity was conferred upon him by Mount Union College in 1891. The following charges were served by him with success: Thompson and Concord, Garrettsville, Tallmadge and Brimfield, Geneva, Chardon, Saint Clairsville, South Park, Cleveland; Presiding Elder of Cleveland District, Hamline, Steubenville; Salem. At the Conference of 1895, his health failing, he received a nominal appointment to Epworth Memorial Church. In February, 1896, he determined to try the climate of southern California, but in April began to decline rapidly, and after a few days of suffering triumphantly passed away. The last words understood by his wife were those of a prayer, wherein he called for the presence of the Holy Spirit. He was a man of great simplicity of character and of deep religious experience. He had the instincts of a student, and preached always from a full mind and a prepared heart. He was scrupulous in the performance of all the duties of a minister, and whether in the pulpit, amid the social life of the people, or at the bedside of the sick he was the faithful minister of Christ. During his sickness he was full of faith and cheer, saying he never knew the depths of Christ's power to save as during the months of his sickness.

John Williams died in New Philadelphia, O., July 30, 1896. He was born in the County of Durham, England, August 10, 1820. He was converted at Gateshead, England, March 9, 1843, and at once united with the Wesleyan Society, and on the third day after his conversion preached his first sermon, in the open air. For ten years as a local preacher he served in the Wesleyan Methodist Connection, and in 1853, with his wife, Ellen Tonson, and their son, Edward, he came to America, locating in Pittsburg. There his credentials as a local preacher were recognized, and during the year he served the Church in the same capacity. He was received on probation in the Pittsburg Conference in 1854, and was appointed in charge of Mount Morris Circuit. At each of twenty-three subsequent Conferences he was appointed to important churches, among them Uniontown, Johnstown, South Common, Steubenville, and East Liverpool. At twelve Conferences he was appointed as presiding elder, his districts being Allegheny, Steubenville, and Cambridge. Until 1876 his appointments were in the Pittsburg Conference, but by the division of that Conference in 1876 his lot fell in the East Ohio Conference, in which his appointments were made until 1888, when, having suffered from a partial paralysis, he asked and received a superannuated relation. He was elected in 1872 a delegate to the General Conference in Brooklyn, was for the subsequent four years a member of the Book Committee, was honored with the degree of Doctor of Divinity, was trustee of Scio College, and had been greatly instrumental in relieving churches of oppressive indebtedness. He was an able minister of the Gospel, having been instrumental in adding many to the Church. Serenely, when his work was done, in the presence of his devoted wife and daughter, the gallant soldier of the cross, beloved of thousands, fell asleep. The wife and son whom he had brought with him from the fatherland lie among the dead in the cemetery at Pittsburg. In that same city in after years he married Miss Mary R. Kay, who, with a daughter and a son, is left to mourn her loss. Of six brothers, all ministers but one, the Rev. Edward Williams, of the Pittsburg Conference, survives, and in the effective ranks maintains the faith and devotion characteristic of those of his family who have gone on before.

Rock River Conference.

Robert Beatty was born July 21, 1816, at Leighlin Bridge, County Carlow, Ireland. He was converted at fifteen and soon afterward was licensed as a local preacher. He was married at nineteen to Miss Harriet Pleuman. On April 12, 1842, he sailed for America, and settled at Kenosha, Wis. He was admitted into the Rock River Conference in 1844. In 1846, while stationed in Freeport, his wife and three children died. On February 26, 1848, he married Miss Harriet Smith, who, with five children, mourns his departure. At the Conference of 1859 he was granted a location. Up to this date he had served the following appointments: Sylvania, as a supply, Root River Mission, Rock Island Circuit, Freeport, Wheeling Circuit, Waukegan, Belvidere, and Naperville. In 1854 he took a superannuate relation for one year, and afterward served Mount Carroll and Plainfield. In 1869 he was readmitted and appointed Agent of the American and Foreign Christian Union. His appointments afterward were: North Prairie, Benton, Barrington, Libertyville, Saint Charles, Poplar Grove, Alden and Big Foot, Chemung, Elizabeth and Foreston. In 1886 he was granted a superannuated relation, and moved to Rockford, where he died. His last illness was short. His heart was worn-out. While sitting in his chair he said, "I am going," and was not; for God had taken him. His death occurred March 24, 1896. He was highly esteemed as a Christian gentleman and a Gospel preacher. In his early ministry he was a noted revivalist, and hundreds were converted under his faithful efforts. His works follow him.

Lorenzo Whipple was born in Herkimer County, N. Y., February 10, 1810. While an infant his family moved to Chautauqua County, N. Y. He was converted in 1827, and licensed to preach in 1835. He soon commenced the work of an itinerant minister in the Pittsburg Conference, where he labored two years. For the two following years he labored in the Erie Conference. In 1839 he was located at his own request. On August 17, 1839, he married Miss Nancy Gaston, in Brookville, Pa. Soon after they came West and settled near Elgin, Ill., where he remained as a local preacher three years. In 1842 he was admitted in the Rock River Conference. In 1861 he was superannuated, which relation he sustained to the end. In no sufferer was the grace of patience ever more beautifully exhibited. He confidently awaited the coming of the Lord. He died October 12, 1895, in Stevensville, Mich.

Harry A. Peters was born in Terre Haute, Ind., March 3, 1851. His mother died when he was thirteen months old. When he was eight his father went to California, and he did not see him again for more than thirty years. He was converted and united with the church at nine; he was class leader, steward, and Sunday school superintendent at eighteen; he received his license at twenty-one, and two years after became junior preacher on the Nocomis Circuit, Illinois Conference. In 1877 he supplied the Canton Circuit. In October of that year he joined the Illinois Conference, and in 1878 was ordained deacon. On September 11, 1878, he married Miss Emma Rohrer. One daughter, with her mother, mourns his departure. From Canton Circuit he went to Smithville Circuit, traveling that year as junior preacher more than five thousand miles on horseback, carrying his clothes and books on saddleback, and holding meetings six months of the year with great success. His appointments thereafter in the Central Illinois Conference were Cuba, Trivoli, Morton, and Hennepin. He was received into the Rock River Conference on his certificate of location in 1888, and served the following appointments: 1888–89, Sheridan; 1890–91, South Englewood; 1892–93, Frankfort; 1894–95, Plattville. He persisted in his work in spite of broken health, pursuing it with an energy that caused few to think of him as a sick man. He was an earnest seeker after the deep things of God. He preached three times on Sunday, March 15, 1896. The next day he was too ill to attend to his work, and from that time rapidly declined until death came, March 24, 1896. His faith and courage were triumphant. With a supreme trust in his Redeemer he passed through unconsciousness to death.

Joseph Odgers was born on May 28, 1828, in Cornwall, England. His parents were earnest Christians and members of the Wesleyan Methodist Church. At ten he united with the church as a seeker, and in 1849 during a revival he was soundly converted and immediately became an active worker. In 1863 he received an exhorter's license, and on July 4 of the same year he left England, arriving in the United States August 27. He settled in Jo Davies County, Ill., and at once connected himself with the Council Hill Circuit by certificate. On January 1, 1855, he married Angeline Clark, of Galena, Ill. One of their sons is a member of the Rock River Conference. In August, 1856, he joined the West Wisconsin Conference. In 1858 he was ordained deacon, and in 1860 elder. His appointments in the West Wisconsin Conference were: Plainfield Circuit, Jamestown Mission, Spring Grove, Elk Grove, State Line. In 1862–63 he supplied Apple River, and united with the Rock River Conference in the fall of 1863. After joining this Conference he served the following charges: Apple River, Warren, Mount Carroll, First Church, Rockford; First Church, Belvidere; Warren, Harlem, Lena, Rockford Circuit, Ninth Street, Rockford; Dakota, Halstead Street, Chicago; Fulton Street, Chicago; Asbury. For two years he was manager and financial secretary of Wesley Hospital. His last appointment was Mount Carroll, which he was serving the second time when he died. His last illness was of three months' duration. On the morning of May 4, 1896, at the home of his daughter, he died. From his conversion he sought with untiring industry the equipment of a Methodist preacher. His life was that of a whole-hearted, untiring, faithful, minister. His preaching was like his personality, sturdy and full of force.

J. D. Keefe. [Obituary not received].

Ohio Conference.

Samuel Ashton Keen was born in Harrison, O., May 12, 1842, and died in Delaware, O., November 11, 1895. The environments of his boyhood days, as he gratefully acknowledged in Praise Papers, were "a Christian home, the family altar, and godly parents." At thirteen he was converted, and became a member of the church. On January 10, 1869, while pastor of Main Street Church, Chillicothe, the blessing of perfect love came into his soul. He was licensed as an exhorter in January, 1860, and as a local preacher in May of the same year. August 12, 1862, he enlisted in Company D., Eighty-third Regiment, Ohio Volunteer Infantry; was promoted to first lieutenant in April, 1864, and served till September, 1865, when he was honorably mustered out. He entered the Ohio Wesleyan University immediately upon his release from military service, graduating in June, 1868. In October of that year he was admitted into the Ohio Conference and appointed to Main Street Church, Chillicothe, which important charge he served for two years. His subsequent appointments were: Washington Court House, Wesley Chapel, Columbus; St. Paul's, Delaware; Third Avenue, Columbus. In 1881 he was made Presiding Elder of Lancaster District, and for four years his work on that district was that of a mighty evangelist. In 1885 he was appointed to Second Street, Zanesville, where he remained two years. In 1887 he was transferred to the Southeast Indiana Conference, and stationed at Roberts Park Church, Indianapolis. At the close of a pastorate there of two years he was transferred to the Cincinnati Conference, serving most acceptably for two years Walnut Hills Church. In 1891, feeling called of God to devote the remainder of his life to evangelistic work, he was granted a supernumerary relation, and retransferred to the Ohio Conference. In 1888 he published Faith Papers, a little book, of which fifty thousand copies had been sold at the time of his death. In 1894 Praise Papers, A Spiritual Autobiography, was written "as a souvenir," the sainted author explains in the brief preface, "in commemoration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of his entrance into the experience of full salvation by the baptism of the Holy Ghost." His third book, Pentecostal Papers, came from the press in 1895. Salvation Papers, his fourth and last book, was ready for the printer at the time of his translation. These devotional papers came from his heart burdened with the message of full salvation and fragrant with that personal holiness which he commended no less by his works than by his words. Not as a writer, however, nor as a pastor, but as an evangelist, were his greatest victories achieved. For more than four years, and until within a few weeks of his death, he was unceasingly engaged in evangelistic work. In that comparatively short period he traveled eighty thousand miles, held Pentecostal services at seventy Annual Conferences, and conducted in his inimitable way one hundred and thirty-five series of revival meetings. Everywhere he went the presence and power of the Holy Spirit were manifest in the conversion of sinners, the reclamation of the backslidden, and the sanctification of believers. As an evangelist he was always eminently scriptural, thoughtful, and reverent. There was nothing sensational, in the offensive sense of the word, in his preaching or his methods; yet no man could draw and hold greater crowds than he. On October 6, 1868, he married Miss Mary J. Palmer, who, with two sons and two daughters, survives. The closing chapter of Praise Papers is entitled "A Pentecostal Translation, the Story of Dr. Keen's Closing Hours, Told by his Wife." He died in his chair with his beloved about him, sharing with him the glory of his triumph through Jesus Christ. His last words, uttered with his expiring breath, were, "How unspeakably precious Jesus has been." The funeral services were held in the chapel of Ohio Wesleyan University, in the presence of a vast multitude. He was buried in Oak Grove Cemetery, Delaware, where his precious dust, mingling with that of Bishop Thomson, and many others whom he knew and loved, shall rest until the dead are raised incorruptible and immortal.

Wellington Taylor Harvey was born in Perry County, O., December 12, 1829. No man ever had more honorable or devout parents. At an early age he entered Dennison University, Granville, O., and well-nigh completed the classical course. Afterward, while teaching and doing other literary work he more than finished its curriculum. In 1854 he married Miss Catherine Sigler. They were the parents of two sons and one daughter, who, with their mother, survive him. In 1859 he entered the Ohio Conference, and served the following charges and districts: Fairview, Marietta, Newark, Logan, Walnut Street, Chillicothe; Circleville, Lancaster District, Athens, Jackson; Zanesville District, Chillicothe District, Groveport, Good Hope, Roseville and White Cottage. Failing health in 1891 caused him to ask for a superannuated relation. Thereafter his home was in Zanesville, O. Throughout his Christian life, which began before he was twenty, he was lost to self. He was eminently a man of prayer, and from this exercise went forth, with a shining face, to be a light in the world. He was the personification of modesty and humility. There was about him an atmosphere of love and gentleness which made one think of the beloved disciple John. As a presiding elder good judgment and true manliness were ever manifest. In scholarship he was quite well abreast with his age. He was fairly familiar with the best writers in English literature, and, indeed, with the best authors on all subjects; but the Bible was to him the book of books in a strong sense. In his preaching he was clear, sound, and eminently biblical. All the interests of the Church, left to his watchful care, were well attended to. His coronation came Saturday night, February 29, 1896.

Charles Albert Naylor was born in Jefferson County, O., April 17, 1853. He had deep religious impressions from early childhood, and at eight united with the Church. At twelve he was happily converted at Bethel Church, in Harrison County. He entered Scio College in 1870, remaining there until 1873. On October 2, 1873, he married Miss Rebecca Frances Endsley, of Harrison County, two children now surviving with her. His life seemed marked for the ministry from early childhood. In his early manhood he was licensed to preach, and joined the Ohio Conference in 1873. His appointments were: Hebron, Malta, Uniontown, Clarksburg, West Jefferson, Westerville, Harrisburg, Milford Center, Williamsport, Kingston, Carroll, Thornville, Jeffersonville. As a preacher he had a commanding presence, a clear mind, and a warm heart, and multitudes were brought to Christ. Perhaps his greatest revival was at Williamsport, but his ministry was crowned with revivals everywhere. Two years ago he was compelled to retire on account of throat trouble. Last year he served a vacant charge for about eight months. Earnestly he desired to be once more with his brethren in the active work, but he has gone, at God's call, to join his many brethren who have crossed over to the Church triumphant. His last affliction was of a few days' duration, and gave his friends much anxiety, though his death came as a surprise. In the evening of December 11, 1895, in the prime of life, he passed to his reward. All the day long he had chided his anxious family that they were doleful. The brightness that lit his face in his deepest sufferings must have been the reflection of the glory upon which he was entering. The chariot came suddenly, and this man of God, who had lived to make the world better, entered with delight upon the glory of heaven.

A. M. Alexander and J. S. Marriott. [Obituaries not received.]

Foo-Chow Conference.

Daing Gieng Ing was a native of Ing Ang, and during the Tai-ping rebellion moved with his brother to Iong-bing to engage in business. He was kind, gentle, and diligent. His brother first accepted Christ, and then exhorted him to become a Christian. Daing Gieng Dong was pastor at Iong-bing and baptized him. Not long after he was given exhorter's license, and was sent to Sa-Gaing to assist Ding Kie Hiu. After preaching a while he entered the theological school and finished the course. After graduation he was appointed to Iu-ka. He also served Ciong-hu-buang and Sung Chiong. Six years ago he was appointed Presiding Elder of Iong-bing District. This is a very mountainous district and difficult to travel, but he cheerfully did his duty. After a short illness, he died on the 22d of the seventh moon, and went to his eternal reward.

Hing-hua Mission Conference.

Ding Teng-boi (Ding Tieng-buoi in the Foo-Chow Minutes) was the son of our venerable teacher, Ding Meong-su. As a son he was intelligent and dutiful, as a worker in the Church he was earnest and devoted. Although very young as a preacher, he had the qualities of one in maturer years. When he left school in Foo-Chow he was appointed preacher in charge of the Ka-bok Circuit. He labored faithfully, and the church prospered during the two years he was at Ka-bok. The church considering him a man of much promise, he was received on trial in the Annual Conference. We hoped he would live to be a pillar of the faith in China. On his way back from Foo-Chow, after Conference, in 1895, he took cold and suddenly became very ill. No remedies seemed to be of any avail. The Lord took him, alas, O, how so soon! The day he died he wept and prayed much, telling the Lord that his work was not done and that there was no one to take charge of the circuit to which the bishop had appointed him. Aside from this he was resigned to the will of God and said, "In my heart I have deep peace." He lost no words in speaking of material things, and quietly commended his aged parents, his wife and children to the merciful keeping of the Lord. In his anxiety for the Church he forgot his own affairs. We shall not soon forget his virtues.

Ha Ming Seng (Ling Wing Ciong in the Foo-Chow Minutes), late Presiding Elder of the Sieng-iu District, from earliest childhood shared the lot of the Methodist itinerant, being with his father, the sainted Ha Ciong-ding, while the latter had charge of several districts successively. He early became familiar with the Bible and with our hymns. He was also well known among our Church members, who regarded him as a true disciple of Christ while he was a mere boy. He was but a youth when his father died, and yet the Church soon after appointed him as a preacher of the Gospel. He greatly felt his lack of experience in the management of Church affairs. His mother took great pains in teaching him how to preach and to expound the Scriptures, and impressed upon him the sacredness of his calling. She urged him to be regular in his family devotions and to adopt rigid rules of conduct. To all this he replied, "Very well, mother, very well," and went to his appointment. He never forgot these godly admonitions, and worked diligently, never shrinking back from danger or hardship. He continued his labors for many years without cessation. During the fifth, sixth, and seventh months of 1896 the weather was excessively hot. But having several years since been called of God to the Sieng-iu District, he continued his travels until he was taken ill with fever on the fourth day of the seventh month. On the twenty-sixth day of the same month he saw in a dream twelve angels clothed in white, who had come to receive him. When he awoke he took leave of his family, half joyfully, half sorrowfully. His aged mother and his little child wept together at his bedside. At 7 P. M. he entered the heavenly mansions. Missionaries and preachers wept bitterly as they heard of his death.

Detroit Conference.

Alexander Gee was born in Ann Arbor, Mich., May 10, 1828, and died in Pontiac, Mich., March 13, 1896. His early educational privileges, consisting of the district schools, the Ypsilanti High School, and a few months at Albion College, were well improved. He taught several terms in Michigan and about a year in Tennessee previous to entering the ministry. Like his Master, he wrought at carpentry when not engaged in teaching, and this was later serviceable to him in building and improving church property. Reared in a Methodist home, he was converted at the age of seven, but did not publicly profess religion until fourteen. While attending a camp meeting he made a complete surrender to the Saviour, and united with the Church. About twenty-one he was licensed to exhort, and afterward received a local preacher's license. Returning from Tennessee in the fall of 1854 he was employed by the Presiding Elder of the Ann Arbor District on Hartland Mission. It was a year of many conversions and accessions to the Church. In the fall of 1856 he was received by the Detroit Conference on trial and was appointed to Oakville Charge. His subsequent appointments were: Lakeport, Port Sanilac, Dryden, Stony Creek, Washington, North Branch, Hunter's Creek, Portsmouth and Wenona (West Bay City), Forest, Oak Grove, supernumerary, Southfield, Flat Rock. He was ordained deacon by Bishop Baker in 1858, and elder by Bishop Morris in 1860. While at Flat Rock his health gave way, and in 1877 he took a superannuated relation. He engaged in business in Carleton until October, 1894, when he removed to Pontiac, where he purchased the home from which he was translated. In his secular affairs he was scrupulously honest, winning the esteem of all, and maintaining his integrity as a Christian citizen in business, political, and social life. On his twenty-seventh birthday, May 10, 1855, he married Miss Ann Artley, of Canton, Mich., who survives with three children. His pastor writes concerning his closing days: "About two years ago he removed to Pontiac, and as long as strength permitted he was constant in his attendance upon all the services of the church. His presence was always a benediction. . . . He contemplated the approach of death with the joy of faith, and shortly before he died, in response to an inquiry as to his condition, replied, 'I am getting pretty near the goal.' He died triumphantly and almost literally with the songs of Zion on his lips; for just before he finished his course he sang in a clear voice three stanzas of the hymn, 'Alas! and did my Saviour bleed?' and, with his family about him, he passed beyond the veil."

Joseph Bradley Varnum was born in Berlin, Ontario, May 19, 1830, and died in Gale, S. Dak., May 26, 1896. His parents, though living in Canada at his birth, were citizens of the United States. His grandfather was Colonel Prescott Varnum, of Massachusetts, and his great-grandfather was Commander of the Rhode Island Volunteers during the Revolution. His mother was granddaughter of Colonel Brooks, who was killed by the Indians during the war. In 1843 his parents moved to Metamora, Mich. Here he attended school in a log schoolhouse. Afterward he spent one term at school at Rome. He then taught two terms, and in 1851 went to Albion, where he spent three years in the seminary. In 1850, when teaching school, he felt constrained to give himself to the service of the Lord and secure for himself a definite religious experience. Trained by a pious mother, he understood the theory of the Christian life, thoughtfully and deliberately made a complete surrender to the will of the divine Master, and at once came into the knowledge that he was a child of God. Almost immediately after his conversion he was made Sunday school superintendent. He was baptized and received into the church at Oxford in July 1850. In 1854, in response to the urgent appeal of the Presiding Elder of Port Huron District, he accepted a local preacher's license, and soon after was appointed to the Forestville Circuit, which extended from Lexington to Bay City, around the shore of Lake Huron. This great circuit he traveled on foot, enduring almost incredible hardships. During the year eighty-four were received into the church, and classes were formed at Port Sanilac, Cherry Creek, Forestville, Sand Beach, Willow Creek, and Port Austin. That year he walked more than two thousand five hundred miles, held revival meetings, sought out the poor and neglected, and was most emphatically a missionary evangelist. In 1855, in the city of Flint, he was received as a probationer into the Michigan Conference. That year the Conference was divided, and he fell into the Detroit Conference. In 1857, at Port Huron, he was received into full connection and ordained deacon by Bishop Waugh. His Conference appointments were: Brockway Mission, Memphis, Rome, Franklin. In 1860 he located and went to Missouri to take work in that Conference, but, the civil war breaking out, he returned to Michigan and was readmitted to the Detroit Conference in 1861 and appointed to Clarkston. He then served Goodrich, Lainsburg. Here he enlisted as a private in the Second Regiment, Michigan Volunteers. On March 21, 1864, he was wounded in the knee and shot through the hip. In August, 1865, he was mustered out and returned to pastoral labors, serving as follows: North Branch, Rochester, Williamston. At the latter place the country was comparatively new, the people mostly poor, and the membership small. Taking counsel with the brethren, he nerved himself to the task of building a church without money. He went into the woods, helped hew the timbers and get them on the ground, did the planning and worked with his own hands until the building was so far completed that service could be held in it. No minister who has served that church is held in higher esteem than he. In 1871 he went to Southfield; in 1872, to Unadilla. In 1873, on account of failing health, he went West and settled in Iowa, where he lived eleven years. In 1884 he moved to Gale, S. Dak. He was highly respected where he lived, served a number of years as justice of the peace, was a member of the Legislature, and exerted a large influence in shaping the legislation of the State. He married Miss Maroe E. Vibbert, of Clyde, who, with four children, survives him. He was a good man, consecrated to his work. His preaching was practical rather than speculative. He grasped the sublime doctrines of our faith and so poured them out upon the people that souls were converted. He did a good work for the Master. His life was pure, his heart right toward God and man, and he died with the assurance of a glorious immortality.

William H. Poole became a member of the Detroit Conference in 1880, having served Simpson Church, Detroit, the greater part of the preceding year. For thirty years he had been an honored and successful minister of the Wesleyan Church of Canada. He was converted through the influence of a sister in 1839, at nineteen. The following year he was licensed as a local preacher and at once entered the work which engaged his energies through a long life. The degree of LL.D. was conferred upon him by Syracuse University in recognition of his attainments and unusual mental force. He was, above all, an earnest student of the Scriptures, and his expositions of the word were rich and helpful. He lived a pure life and preached the sufficiency of divine grace to sanctify the heart. He had a strong personality, and all his powers were consecrated to the winning of souls. He was instrumental, under God, in the conversion of thousands. Three hundred in one year were saved through his ministry, and no year passed without the Gospel being in his hands the power of God unto salvation. While he was first and always a preacher, yet his thought often crystallized in forms more permanent than sermons. The Fruits of the Spirit; or, Ripe Grapes; Anger: Its Causes and Effects; The Baptism of the Holy Spirit; History, the True Key to Prophecy, and numerous printed addresses and sermons still continue his ministry His most important literary work was Anglo-Israel, in which he maintains with much eloquence and research that the English-speaking race are the descendants of the ten lost tribes. After his service at Simpson Church he became pastor at Port Huron. Here he was stricken with paralysis. Though never fully recovering he was able to do effective work till a second stroke, two years later, gradually deprived him of the power of speech and reduced his strength to feebleness. He was very patient and trustful under his affliction. His heart never ceased to thrill at the thought of preaching the Gospel. A few days before his death, having power to make himself understood, he said that if he could but preach once more his text would be, "Jesus, the same yesterday, to-day, and forever." He held his pastor's hand with great earnestness the last time they were together, indicating his desire to communicate a parting message. When asked if he wanted to say, "Be faithful in preaching the Gospel," he indicated his satisfaction. His death occurred in Detroit, August 7, 1896. The words of the Michigan Advocate of August 15, 1896, are appropriate and just: "Dr. Poole was a stalwart Methodist of the old type, and an ardent believer in the old Methodist usages and doctrines. He was a preacher of much force and power, a vigorous thinker and writer."

Eli Westlake was born in Bloomington, N. Y., in 1819. At eighteen he was clearly converted and immediately joined the church. At nineteen he was made class leader and exhorter, and at twenty he traveled his first circuit under the presiding elder. In 1841 he was admitted on trial in the New York Conference, where he labored till 1844, when he was transferred by Bishop Hedding to the Michigan Conference. The Lyons Circuit was his first appointment there. When the Michigan Conference was divided in 1856 his appointment was within the bounds of the new Detroit Conference. He served Milford Charge, Fentonville, and in 1859 was transferred back to the Michigan Conference, where he remained doing faithful work until 1872, when he was retransferred to the Detroit Conference and stationed as follows: Grand Blanc, Byron, New Haven, and in 1876 he became superannuated. In 1846 he married Miss Mary E. Waterman, of Fentonville, a union that was broken by her death in 1880. After his superannuation he lived in Fentonville, Mich., till 1880, when he removed to Iowa to live with his daughter. No true element seemed lacking in him to mar the symmetry of a complete character. He was unassuming, never seeking the applause of men, yet always ambitious for the glory of God. As a preacher, he was earnest, practical, persuasive. No doubts as to the authority of the Scriptures or the eternal verity of its doctrines ever troubled him or weakened his appeals to sinners. The clear evidence he had of his own salvation and his deep experience in the things of God gave his preaching an unction for which no human eloquence or learning can ever be a substitute. As a pastor, he was cheerful and social, yet always maintained the dignity of his calling. During his last illness, which was somewhat protracted, he was comforted by the Gospel he had preached. His end came February 3, 1896. He was one of the purest and most Christlike spirits of the Detroit Conference. He died well.

Colorado Conference.

Edgar White was born, in perhaps the year 1861, in Kent, England, not far from the spot where Augustin first set up the cross in Britain. Of his early life and surroundings little is known. It is understood that he was early persuaded of a Saviour's dying love for him, and that he entered upon lay work in the Wesleyan body. In his zeal to more fully fit himself for his calling he entered upon courses of ministerial training, at one time attending the lectures in Spurgeon's Pastors' College. His health failing, he took a sea voyage to South Africa, and returned somewhat improved. But a recurrence of the symptoms and a clear understanding of their nature led him to seek health in our salubrious climate. While living in North Denver he was invited to supply the work at Fruita, where he remained for two years. Having joined the Conference he was stationed the next two years at Delta. In these pastorates he was a keen, methodical student, bringing only beaten oil into the sanctuary; a systematic, tireless pastor; a patriotic citizen; a holy man. During this time he wedded an esteemed member of his church. His quenchless thirst for a fuller knowledge of the Bible led him to enter the Iliff School of Theology at Denver. In two successive years his eager, accurate soul was introduced to the word of God in its two original tongues. A page of any work presented by him was the mark of the man, accurate, beautiful, spotless. Perfect love was so incarnate in him that one need not ask if he professed it. None knew him but to love him. Student life not being restorative of his health, and his property having been lost in the panic, he deemed it best to take an appointment, and in June, 1895, he was sent to Erie, whither he took his child and faithful wife in high expectation. With too much zeal for his strength he at once entered upon his sacredly morning systematic study and afternoon visiting, with many and exhausting services upon the Lord's Day. Before three weeks had fled, while making a pastoral call, a hemorrhage came upon him, and in almost a moment his earthly life ebbed away. His work was brief but beautiful and true. His example and memory are precious and inspiring.

North Germany Conference.

EMIL ZIMMER was born December 23, 1842, at Neu Salsa, in Saxony, and died March 3, 1896, on his way to preach at Weissendorf. He entered the ministry in 1871, and served the following charges: Zwickau, Bietigheim, Aurich, Accumersiel, Knittlingen, Nagold, Budinzen, Bulach, Ansbach, Leonberg, Saalfeld, and Langenweitzendorf. He was a man of great piety and conscientiousness, who served the Lord and the Church faithfully to the end. He lived in an exceedingly happy union with his wife, Christine, nee Oswald, from Bietigheim, and leaves two sons and three daughters. The memory of this just servant of God is blessed.

Wisconsin Conference.

WILLIAM PAGE STOWE was born in Haverhill, N. H., September 1, 1831, and died in Chicago, January 4, 1896, after an illness of more than two months. In 1843 his parents removed to Wisconsin, where they settled upon a farm near Fond du Lac. At seventeen he found redemption in the blood of Christ in his father's chapel. Impressed with a sense that he must preach, and relying upon his own efforts he entered Lawrence University in the spring of 1853, graduating as a member of the second class of the institution in June, 1858. For a time he was class leader of one of the college classes, and often united with other young men in visiting the outlying communities and in preaching in the schoolhouses. In May, 1858, he united with the Wisconsin Conference; and was stationed at Sheboygan, and the two years following at Port Washington; but his health failed, and, at the close of the year, he took a location, accepting the chaplaincy of the Twenty-seventh Regiment of Wisconsin Volunteer Infantry. In 1863, with restored health, he was readmitted into the Conference, and was stationed at Sharon. His subsequent fields of labor were Beloit, Racine, Oshkosh, and Summerfield, Milwaukee. In 1872 he was appointed Presiding Elder of the Milwaukee District, and in 1876 of the Janesville District. At the General Conference of 1880 he was elected one of the Agents of the Western Book Concern. For twelve years he gave himself untiringly to this work. During the years he was in office the Western Publishing House made unparalleled advance in profits and success. In 1892 he took a supernumerary relation, and in 1893 assumed the agency of the Methodist Insurance Association. In 1894 he was appointed Presiding Elder of the Oshkosh District. At the close of the session of 1895 his health gave way. The immediate cause of his death was apoplexy. After the first stroke he remained most of the time unconscious, and on the first Saturday afternoon of January, 1896, he passed to his eternal rest. Physically he had a commanding presence. His mental aptitudes were peculiar to himself. Endued with large perceptions, he was able to read men and circumstances easily. Truth stood before him in logical relations, rather than in poetical verities. He was frank yet considerate; he was familiar without rudeness; he was often playful without condescending to improper levity. He was a vigorous and logical thinker. His voice was peculiar to himself. At times it would rise from the plaintive to the battle cry of conquest. His nature possessed an undercurrent of pathos, which on occasion would kindle his soul into a flame of enthusiasm. In extemporaneous address he possessed rare power. When some vital question would arise with his quick perception he would grasp the situation and in a brief address electrify his hearers. Above all he was a revival preacher, as seen in the extensive revivals in connection with some of his pastorates—Beloit, Racine, and Oshkosh. Every interest of the Wisconsin Conference was dear to him. He was one of its most useful trustees. The college engaged his heartiest support, not because it was his alma mater or because it conferred upon him in 1871 the degree of Doctor of Divinity, but because he regarded it as the hope of future Methodism in Wisconsin. In 1870 he was chosen visitor to the university, and in 1871 was elected one of its trustees, which relation he held up to his death. With the exception of one year he attended every college Commencement. He was a reserve delegate to the General Conference in 1872, and was until his death a member of that body at every session, leading his delegation four times. In 1859 he married Miss Grace H. Bond. Three children, with their mother, survive to mourn the loss of husband and father. From the character of his disease audible expressions of victory were not what they otherwise might have been. Yet at times conscious and lucid moments returned, in which he gave striking evidence of the power of religion to conquer the fear of death and cause the soul to triumph in the near approach of immortality.

WILLIAM WILLARD was born in Stockbridge, Mass., August 24, 1813, and died at Gibbon, Neb., December 2, 1895. In his infancy his parents removed to Volney, N. Y. Subsequently he lived with his grandfather at Victoria, N. Y., where at twenty he was converted. A few years later he felt a persistent call to the ministry. He married Miss Huldah A. Benedict in 1836. Nine years later he removed to Wisconsin. Here, soon after, he was appointed class leader. In 1847 he joined the Rock River Conference. His first appointment was Aztalan Circuit, and his subsequent charges were Walker's Point, Oconomowoc, Watertown, Omro, Liberty Prairie, Oneida Indian Mission, Depere and Wausau. For one year he was missionary of the Western Freemen's Friend Society in Green Bay. In 1869 he took a superannuate relation. He was a good man, a worthy preacher and pastor. He believed in full sanctification and the constant baptism of the Holy Ghost, and preached the same in word and life. This made him a great benediction to the charges he served. He gathered hundreds of precious souls into the Church. He was fully ripened for immortality

ROBERT SAMUEL HAYWARD was of New England parentage, but was born in Port Hope, Ont., April 2, 1820. He lived with his parents in Port Hope until about twelve years old, when the family removed to Rochester, N. Y., where he lived about five years; he then went to a brother in Huron, O., and thence to Green Bay, Wis. His early educational advantages were the common school and one year's study in Lewiston Academy, N. Y. He was converted in Green Bay in a prayer meeting in January, 1841, at once united with the church, and was received into full membership in July, 1841. He married Miss Clarinda S. Wright in 1842. One son, so well known to the members of the Wisconsin Conference, Rev. Eugene Hayward, died a few months before his father. He received license to exhort before his probation closed, and was licensed to preach in 1843. He went to labor on the Lowell Charge in 1848 under the presiding elder, joined the Conference in 1849, was ordained deacon by Bishop Ames in 1852, and elder by Bishop Baker in 1859. He served the following charges: Green Lake, Plover, Waupaca, Dartford, Metomen, Berlin, Waupaca again, Wausau, Sheboygan. He then served the Stevens Point District for four years. He then became pastor successively of Omro, Brandon, Clemensville, Menasha, Utica, Eureka and Waukann. He was supernumerary from 1882 to 1888, but preached three years of this time at Winneconne. He was made effective in 1889 and was appointed to the Wautoma Charge. In 1891 he was appointed to the Waupaca Circuit, where he remained four years. In 1895 he was granted a superannuated relation and removed to Waupaca. Few men so undervalued themselves and their labors as did he, yet he was a man of strong convictions and pointed in the defense of the right. His earnestness for the salvation of souls was clearly marked in all his labors. He was consecrated to the great work of trying to save others. As his fatal disease became more severe he frequently said to his pastor: "My work, I think, is done." A few days before the end came a fearful darkness came upon him, and the conflict was severe. When the cloud broke such rapture as is seldom known came to him. "O," said he, "I did not think it was so glorious to die. To think that a sinner saved by grace should come to such a glory as this. Satan thought he was going to gain the victory, but he failed to count of Jesus; he did not count on the great Captain." He passed away August 7, 1896.

Walter McFarlane was born in Glasgow, Scotland, May 2, 1819, and died at Evansville, Wis., February 9, 1896. His parents were upright people, belonging to the Presbyterian Church, and he was carefully trained by them in the Christian faith. He was religiously inclined from infancy, and when very young determined to be a minister. He grew to manhood and married in Scotland. Finally he came to America and settled in Wisconsin. He entered the Wisconsin Conference in 1856, and served the following charges from one to three years each: Cascade, Oconto, Vinland, Two Rivers, Empire, Horicon and Juneau, Byron, Winneconne, Bristol, Sylvania, Granville, and Neosha. He spent twenty-one years in the effective ministry, and for one year his work was interrupted by ill health. He superannuated in 1876. He was hospitable and philanthropic. He was especially faithful to the benevolent collections of the Church regardless of his salary, and often contributed from one fifth to one fourth the whole amount. In his last years, with income sadly lessened by the fault of another, flowers and fruits were freely sent from his garden to the sick, the poor, and personal friends. In his last sickness he seemed to have a premonition that the end was near. Frequently he said, "I am better." "I am near the journey's end." He made all preparations and then calmly awaited for his summons. These words among others well characterized his spiritual state: "The blood of Jesus Christ his Son cleanseth me from all sin." His final departure was as peaceful as a weary child sinking into sleep. Christ remembered his oft-expressed wish and let him depart on the Sabbath, at just the hour when his weary servants have ended their messages and ask for rest. "So he giveth his beloved sleep."

Russell P. Lawton was born in New York city in 1809, and died at Lincoln, Neb., September 20, 1895. He came to the Territory of Wisconsin in 1844. As a deacon he joined the Wisconsin Conference at its first session in 1848, and was stationed at Delavan. In 1850 he was ordained elder and appointed to Waukesha, and then to Reed Street, Milwaukee. He successfully served eighteen charges in the Wisconsin Conference before his health failed and he was honorably superannuated. The meek and quiet spirit of his wife ascended from East Troy, Wis., July 31, 1861. The Holy Ghost found in his heart and will a quick and genial soil. He was a Christly man, of St. Paul's type, who let the mind of Christ richly dwell in him. He was a good and faithful servant, whose pound gained five pounds and his Master's approbation. The fatherly side of God, the brotherly side of Christ, and the motherly side of the blessed Holy Comforter were the three never-to-be-forgotten points of his theology. By the Holy Ghost his sermons were so clothed that sinners and saints were charmed into the heavenly life. His presence and preaching were a benediction.

Erie Conference.

James H. Herron was born in New Richmond, O., May 13, 1829. He received his early education at his father's seminary in Cincinnati, and graduated from the Ohio Wesleyan University in 1853. He was Professor of Ancient Languages in Herron's Seminary from 1853 to 1854. In 1854 he married Miss S. Josephine Fuller, of Delaware, O. The same year he entered Cincinnati Conference. He was president of Springfield College from 1862 to 1867, and of Willoughby College from 1867 to 1870. In 1870 he entered the Erie Conference. In 1871 he received the degree of Doctor of Divinity from Springfield Collegiate Institute. In 1891 he became a superannuate. His pastorates were: Girard, Pa.; Westfield, N. Y.; North East, South Oil City, Tenth Street, Erie; Silver Creek, N. Y.; State Street, Meadville; and Girard, Pa. There were united in him many elements of strength. He was of scholarly habits and a lover of truth. Genuineness was the primal element in his character. His convictions of duty were strong, and he never flinched in the performance of it. As a preacher his sermons were thoughtful, clearly expressed, and eminently calculated to build up Christian character. His everyday walk was a sermon. His estimable wife took her departure to the better land in May, 1895. Four children survive. He died September 23, 1895.

Levi O. McElhattin was born near Mount Joy, Pa., October 10, 1857. He was converted and joined the church in 1874, immediately entering into the activities of church work. On October 6, 1877, he married Mary M. Hahn. In 1884 he was licensed to exhort. His consistent piety and effective exhortations soon attracted the attention of the church; and that his field of usefulness might be extended in 1890 he was licensed to preach, and the same year was admitted to the Erie Conference. He was ordained a deacon by Bishop Newman, and an elder by Bishop Goodsell. His first appointment was Putneyville Charge, which he served for five years. At the session of 1895 he was appointed to Glen Hazel. Though with impaired health, he took hold of the work with a masterly hand and won the esteem of his people. In the midst of his labor his overtaxed frame gave way, and on May 25, 1896, the spirit of the good man found rest. He was a true minister of Jesus Christ, a good preacher, and a faithful pastor. He enjoyed the unshaken confidence of all the people among whom he lived. The loved ones who survive him are rich in the heritage of a name made honorable in efficient service to God and mankind.

Des Moines Conference.

ELIJAH KENDALL was born near Cincinnati February 27, 1828, and died near Rushville, Neb., February 23, 1896. He was converted at seven, received license to preach in 1851, was admitted on trial in the Upper Iowa Conference in 1860, and was ordained an elder by Bishop Scott in 1864. He devoted twenty-one years to the itinerant ministry, and traveled a few years as a local preacher under the elder. His work was mostly in the Des Moines Conference. In 1885, his health failing, he took a superannuated relation, settling on a homestead in Nebraska. He married, February 2, 1848, in Coles County, Ill., Miss Lucretia Thornbrue. Six children, with their mother, remain, three of whom are in the itinerant ranks. He was a useful preacher of the word. His charges always bore the impress of his cementing touch. His life on earth closed peacefully and was upborne with faith.

DAVID PECHIN was born in Desandans, a village in the Department of Doubs, France, March 23, 1809, and died near Pleasantville, O., December 16, 1895. He was converted in 1832 near Canton, O. He was ordained a deacon in 1841 by Bishop Roberts. He became a member of the Allegheny Conference of the Wesleyan Methodist Connection October 1, 1843, and for about twenty-five years was a traveling preacher in that body, laboring for the most part on the Western Reserve in Ohio and in western Pennsylvania. In 1859 he removed to Iowa, where in 1869 he was admitted as an elder to the Des Moines Conference, and served a brief time as assistant pastor on the Corydon Circuit, but owing to failing health was compelled to retire. His name appeared on the supernumerary list until 1875, when he became superannuated. He was twice married, both wives preceding him to the better world. Three of his sons were in the civil war, and he was a loyal American citizen. His life was that of a worthy Christian, and his death at the ripe age of eighty-seven was a triumph of grace.

CYRUS SMITH was born in Wayne County, O., December 27, 1839, and died at Woodbine, Ia., January 26, 1896. He was raised on a farm, and his educational opportunities were limited. In 1861 he enlisted in the Sixteenth Ohio Infantry, serving three years. He was converted at Morganza Bend, La., in the summer of 1864. He married at Canaan Center, O., August 23, 1863, Miss Amanda C. Bessey. Of three children born to them all are living. He filled various official positions in the Church before entering the ministry. He united with the Des Moines Conference in 1875, and served with success the following appointments: Fontanelle, Dallas Center, Dow City, Missouri Valley, Emerson, Carroll. Owing to failing health while at Carroll he was given a supernumerary relation in 1889, and the following year was superannuated. After his superannuation he was able to do some evangelistic work, assisting where he was needed. In 1892 he removed to Woodbine, at which place "he fell on sleep," and "was not; for God took him."

DUGALD THOMPSON, one of the charter members of the Des Moines Conference, was born in Glasgow, Scotland, of Presbyterian parentage, June 23, 1828, and died in Des Moines, Ia., May 18, 1896. At twelve he, with his parents, immigrated to this country. They settled at Ithaca, N. Y. He was converted at twenty, while a student at Dickinson College. He was received into the church and baptized by Dr. B. H. Nadal, in 1849. He was licensed to preach in 1851, while in attendance at the Concord Theological School. He was admitted on trial in the Ohio Conference in 1855, ordained a deacon by Bishop Morris, and assigned to New Albany. Removing to Iowa, he took work on the Muscatine Circuit. He joined the Iowa Conference in 1857, and was admitted to full connection in 1859. He was ordained elder by Bishop Morris in 1860, at the organization of the Western Iowa Conference. He spent thirty years on circuits and stations and a term as presiding elder. He was a painstaking, conscientious worker for the Master. Important trusts were committed to him, and he never betrayed the confidence reposed in him. In 1863 he married Miss E. A. Doty, of Adel, Ia., who with three children remains to cherish the memory of the precious dead. He was a lifelong student, pursuing his studies with unwearied fidelity throughout his ministry. He recorded for permanent preservation with his Conference historian this fact: "The best act of my life was when I gave my heart to God and my life to the Methodist Episcopal Church. I prize my Church relations above every earthly consideration, and intend by divine help to remain faithful to the end." His last days were peaceful. Death came in an instant. It found him ready. He heard his Master's approbation.

North Carolina Conference.

WILLIAM H. SMITH was born about the year 1839. He was converted when twenty years old, and entered the North Carolina Conference in 1877, in which body he continued and ended his work. He served the following appointments: High Point, Laurinburg, High Point again, Oberlin, Raleigh, Laurinburg again, Advance, Charlotte, and had received his third appointment to High Point. Soon after the last Conference he found his health fast declining, on account of consumption, and retired to his home in the month of January, cherishing the hope of soon recovering. But his labors were ended, and he grew gradually worse until, on May 20, 1896, he passed away.

WILLIAM H. HAIRSTON was born in the year 1851, was converted when about twenty, entered Conference in the year 1885, and died September 14, 1896. He was a successful pastor, always leading his congregation and particularly caring for the children. He served the following charges: Summerfield, Guilford, Reidsville, Maxton, Wilmington, Raleigh, and Goldsboro. Thus he closed up his earthly career and entered the presence of the Master. His death was exultingly triumphant. He spoke of shining ones about his deathbed, awaiting his translation.

Central German Conference.

HENRY BUDDENBAUM was born on October 28, 1836, in Holzhausen, Prussia. He came to America in 1861, and was soon after converted and joined the church at Cincinnati. Feeling called to the ministry, he spent three years preparing himself in German Wallace College. In 1865 he was sent as assistant on the Lansing Mission, Michigan District. The following year he was sent as supply to Bay City. The same year he was received by the Central German Conference, serving successively the following charges: Raper Chapel, Cincinnati; Pittsburg, Cleveland, Grand Rapids, Roseville, Goshen, Kendallville, Lawrenceburg, Ann Arbor, Delaware, Berea, and Newark. In 1891 he was compelled to ask for a superannuated station, being broken in health. He removed with his family to Bay City, Mich., where, after five years of bodily suffering, he died in great peace and entered into the rest of the people of God.

AUGUST GERLACH was born August 6, 1831, in Hainrode, Prussia, and was a member of the Evangelist Church of Germany. Very early in life he came to this country, in 1851, locating in Louisville, Ky. In 1855, in New Albany, he was converted and united with the church. In 1857 he entered the ministry. His first work was Milan, where eighty were converted and united with the church. In 1860 he was married. He continued in the active work until 1891. His last years were spent in Chicago, where he died July 27, 1896, in great peace. His appointments were: Palestine, Milan, Kendallsville, Greencastle, Madison, Lawrenceburg, Mount Vernon, Huntingburg, Cincinnati, Pomeroy, Columbus, Bucyrus, Marine City, Kendallville, Delhi, and Montague.

Northern German Conference.

CHRISTIAN GEBHARD was born April 29, 1829, at Pferdsfeld, Rheinpreussen, Germany. In 1854 he came to this country, and was converted and united with our Church. In 1858 he returned to Germany, and was the means of a great awakening in his native town. In 1860 he returned to this country and settled in Chicago. Here he married Catherine Schuh. After ten years she died, and in 1871 he married Wilhelmina Klitzke. He was full of ardor for his Master, and was soon honored with the offices of class leader, exhorter, and local preacher. In 1873 he entered the itinerancy and served the following charges: Benton and Glencoe Mission, one year; Nora Springs Mission, three years; Beaver Falls Mission, three years; Danville Mission, three years, and Beaver Falls Mission again, three years. On account of ill health he was compelled to retire, and settled at Rennville, Minn., where he lived till his death. He was clear and scriptural in his experience. He was a good preacher, and always had a message from God to dying men. He died January 13, 1896, in Christian faith, full of hope for the future.

East Tennessee Conference.

GEORGE W. BRANNER was born August 6, 1853, and died, after a short illness, at Glade Springs, Va., June 30, 1896. But little is known of his early history other than that while a mere child he was sold as a slave and carried South. In early manhood, after the close of the war, he came to Tennessee. At the opening of the Morristown School he and his wife entered as students. In 1888 he united with our Church, and in the fall of the same year joined the East Tennessee Conference. From that time till his death he served effectively various charges. While a student he was earnest and studious. He was a man without stain. Faithful in preaching the word he won many souls for Christ.

Indiana Conference.

JOHN WALLS was born in Breckinridge County, Ky., July 16, 1818, and died in Bedford, Ind., January 7, 1896. When quite young his parents moved to Orange County, Ind., where, in 1837, he married Mary Ann Morin, who lived but a short time after marriage. On December 18, 1845, he married Amanda Lee Purcell in Spencer County, Ind., who died January 29, 1876. Seven children are left to mourn their loss. His early life was spent on a farm. Later he was engaged in flat-boating from Troy, Ind., to New Orleans. He was a born leader of men, not self-chosen, but chosen of others because of his commanding presence and his manliness of character. Early in life he was chosen, because of his sterling worth, by an admiring constituency to represent his county in the State Legislature, where he served two terms. He was converted and united with the church in his boyhood, and at once became an aggressive leader in Christian work. Feeling a call to the ministry, he served as a local preacher for a number of years. In 1854 he entered the Indiana Conference, and acted the part of a faithful itinerant for more than forty years. He served the following charges: Gentryville, Leesville, French Lick, Bruceville, Carlisle, Putnamville, Prairieton, Washington, Bedford, Mount Vernon, Evansville; Ingle Street, Harrodsburg, and Heltonville. He served three terms as presiding elder on the Greencastle, Mitchell, and Rockport Districts, and proved himself eminently qualified for the position. He was distinguished for executive ability, was shrewd and tactful in his management of men, and was great as an organizer. More than in any other way his superiority was illustrated by his goodness of soul. His life of integrity was a living epistle known and read of all men. He never indulged in bitterness of soul toward any human being. He was as gentle as a woman and as loving as a child. He was fearless in his denunciation of sin, but at the same time ardent in his love for the sinner; and so the wickedest of the wicked respected him. He was free from false sanctity, was jovial in his spirit, warm-hearted in his friendships, and at the same time dignified in his ministerial bearing. Such a life is worth the living. It is like "precious ointment poured forth," a blessed heavenly benediction. Truly we may say, "A prince and a great man hath this day fallen in Israel."

JOSEPH A. CULLEN was born in Mount Union, Pa., October 8, 1848. In early life he gave himself to Christ, being baptized in his thirteenth year; but it was not until he was twenty-one that he experienced the joy of conscious salvation. He joined the Northwest Indiana Conference in 1876. He was pastor of the following charges: Chauncy Mission, Colfax, Camden, Zionville, Boswell, Williamsport. He then spent three yesrs in Minnesota in the active work. Returning to Indiana he entered DePauw University as a student of divinity, graduating from the Theological School after three years' study. He immediately took work in the Indiana Conference, being stationed in West Indianapolis. Under his ministry there the church prospered, souls were converted, and the beautiful building from which he was buried was erected. He afterward, though in failing health, served Kingsley Church, in Evansville. Unable longer to prosecute his work he took a supernumerary relation. He had a passion for preaching the Gospel. His rich experience of divine mercy led him to believe that all men might be saved, and to proclaim God's message to the lost was the joy of his heart. Naturally sensitive and combative, he became, under grace, gentle, patient, forgiving, charitable. His long afflictions and the disabilities incident thereto were borne with unwearied patience. He was, especially in his later years, a preacher of more than ordinary power, apt in illustration and full of unction. In March, 1880, he married Miss Minnie Atkinson. On Sunday, September 29, 1895, he died in full view of the promised inheritance. A good man, full of faith, rich in grace, upborne by the hope of eternal joy, has entered upon the wider ministry of the skies.

MILES WOODS was born December 15, 1836, at New Albany, Ind. At eighteen he attended a revival meeting in McKendree Church, New Albany, where he became convicted, being converted ten days later. When he joined the church a deep impression was made on the young men of the community, and several of his associates were led to consider their religious condition. Two years later he was renewed in religious experience. He married Miss Martha Patterson October 25, 1869, who, with four children, survives him. He entered the Indiana Conference in 1859, his first charge being Chestnut Hill. After laboring in the army as chaplain he returned and served many charges, being appointed to McKendree at the Conference of 1895, where he had been converted and entered the church, and from which he was translated to the Church triumphant August 18, 1896. He was a man of pure character. He professed and taught heart purity as a present, definite experience. He trusted in the Lord implicitly, and preached with a fervency that carried conviction to his hearers. He was instrumental in leading hundreds to Christ. In the thirty-seven years of his ministry the good done by this faithful preacher cannot be estimated by human arithmetic. He did not seek distinction, but took up the work assigned him as from the Lord, and went forth in his name to win souls for his kingdom. We expect to meet him in heaven with a joyful throng who but for him had not been there.

Lealdes Forbes was born in Ohio, near the site of the Miami University, December 17, 1812, and died at Leroy, Ill., May 23, 1896. He joined the church in 1824, was licensed to preach in September, 1838, at Greencastle, Ind., and entered the Indiana Conference October 26, 1839. He was ordained deacon by Bishop Roberts in 1841, and elder in 1843. His first circuit was Spencer, with twenty-eight appointments, which he managed to fill in twenty-seven days. He is now buried within the bounds of this circuit, from whence he will be awakened in the morning of the resurrection. Nearly all the charges in his early ministry were circuits. The station work arose within the period of his ministry, and some of his charges were: Brown Mission, Winnamack Mission, Springville, Orleans, New Lebanon, Cynthiana, Palestine Mission, Putnamville, Moorefield, Hanover, New Philadelphia, Point Commerce, and Clark's Prairie. He was an exceedingly genial man, of deep piety, tender hearted, and wholly devoted to his work. He specially studied the doctrines of the Church, and knew full well how to set them forth and defend them. He was intimately acquainted with both Strange and Armstrong, who will forever stand at the head of Indiana Methodism. He knew Bishop Roberts well, and gathered inspiration from his life and ministry. And Ruter, Wiley, Ames, Simpson, Berry, Havens, Eddy, Dailey, Terrell, Tarkington, Wood, Gillett, Amasa Johnson, Good, Kiger, and Lynch, fallen and crowned before him, were some who were in the same army in Indiana during his ministry. His Methodist lineage ran back to the beginning of the denomination's history in this country. It was his pride that his grandfather made the deed to the lot on which the old John Street Church was first built. He was married three times; his last wife is still living. It was his boast that he never missed a roll-call. He will respond here no more.

Alexander Kennedy was born in Ireland, County Londonderry, January 15, 1815, and died in Petersville, Ind., March 25, 1896. He came to America in 1847, and at once declared his intentions of becoming a citizen of the United States. He was twice married, the last time to Mrs. Margaret Morrison, who lives to mourn his departure. Feeling that he was called to preach, he left a lucrative employment to enter the ministry. He was converted in Ireland at fifteen in a class meeting, and became a member of the Wesleyan Methodist Church. Of his conversion he often spoke with great joy. Very soon after that event he began to take part in meetings, and while still young was licensed to preach in 1835. For several years he also served the church as a steward. To this office he brought his business knowledge and a strong spiritual life. He was admitted to the Southeast Indiana Conference October 3, 1859. He had traveled the year previous under the presiding elder on what is now the Hope Circuit. He was pastor at Mount Auburn, Greenwood, Seymour, Wooster, again at Mount Auburn, and Taylorsville. In 1869, broken in health, he took a superannuate relation. He was ardently religious. In later years he repeatedly referred to his coming dissolution of nature, and called upon his neighbors to come and see him die. As the end neared they did come, and heard his blessed words of warning and comfort, and witnessed his triumph over death. To one of his ministerial brethren, who knew him through all of his Conference life, he said, on the Friday before his death, "I have been preaching over forty years; I have nothing to take back, no apologies to make for what I've preached." He then spoke of his brethren in the kindest manner, and prayed a great blessing upon them.

David Swartz was born in Floyd County, Ind., September 1, 1828, and died in Bone Gap, Ill., September 5, 1896. He married Miss C. A. Johnson, of Monroeville, Ind., in 1854. The wife and two daughters still survive. He united with the church at thirteen, and three years later was happily converted at a camp meeting on Deer Creek Camp Ground. In 1853 he was licensed to preach in New Albany, and at the same place in 1854 he was admitted on trial in the Indiana Conference. He was effective for twenty-eight years. In 1882 his health failed and he was compelled to superannuate. He served the following charges: Brazil, Lockport, Point Comfort, Morgantown, Waverly, New Philadelphia, Hardinsburg, Orangeville, Leesville, Lancaster, Paoli, Harrodsburg again, Morgantown, Plainfield, Patoka, Petersburg, Oakland City, Maysville, Quincy and Linton. A memorandum left by him showed that he had received over thirty-two hundred into the Church. He was a sweet-spirited man, and during the last eighteen months was confined to his room, but was always cheerful, and in anticipation of the future was triumphant. His last pastor says, "I do not think I was ever nearer heaven than a number of times in his room." He said, "Tell my brethren of the Indiana Conference I love them and hope to meet them in heaven." His life was a success, his death was a triumph, and we doubt not his rest is glorious.

D. T. Davis. [Obituary not received.]

Pittsburg Conference.

Amos P. Leonard was born in Fayette County, Pa., July, 1835, and died at McKee's Rocks, Pa., November 29, 1895. He was brought up to work on the farm and in his father's shop. During the winter he attended the schools of the neighborhood. When about nineteen he was soundly converted, and, as he believed, divinely called to the ministry. This call, however, he earnestly resisted, and went to Canton, O., where he found employment in the car shops of that city. For nearly five years he worked there, giving but little thought to religious questions. When about twenty-four, in company with a companion he went into an evening prayer meeting. While listening to the prayer of a devout layman the old love was rekindled and the call to the ministry renewed. The struggle was short, sharp, and decisive. He conferred not with flesh and blood, but immediately began to prepare for his lifework. The church very soon recognized his sterling merit, and on the eighth day of May, 1859, he was given license to exhort. His license to preach was dated February 11, 1860, and at the Pittsburg Conference held in March of that year he was admitted on trial. He was ordained deacon by Bishop Janes in 1863, and elder by Bishop Morris in 1865. In April, 1865, he received a commission in the Christian Commission, his work taking him to the following places: Philadelphia, Baltimore, Richmond, Castle Thunder, and Libby Prison. In 1866 he married Miss Clarissa A. Hunter, of Greensburg, Pa. He served the following charges: New Florence and Bolivar, Farmington, Elderton, Burrell and Apollo, Marchand, Saltsburg, Indiana, Butler, Ligonier, Jacob's Creek, Mount Pleasant, Belle Vernon, Verona, Freeport, Janes, Simpson and Hoboken, Jeanette, Morrellville, Homer City, McKee's Rocks. He was much more than an ordinary man. As a preacher he excelled. His sermons were clear, practical, and at times eloquent. He was passionately fond of history. He had accumulated a large and interesting local traditional history. Naturally retiring, only those closest to him could understand him. He trusted his friends implicitly. His nature was intense. His soul was sensitive, capable of profound emotion and intense suffering. He was always manly and honorable, and his word was to him an oath of confirmation. For some time it had been apparent that his health was failing. Disease had preyed upon his once vigorous body and left him prematurely old. Hopeful he went to his work at McKee's Rocks. A kind people greeted him cordially, and he promised himself the best year's work of his life. A slight abrasion on his hand, received while arranging the furniture of the parsonage, resulted in pyemia, and all that could be done proved of no avail; the end had come. When told by his physician a few days prior to the crisis that he was dangerously ill he said, "I do not think so; surely my work is not yet done; . . . how I long to be in my pulpit again, to preach the unsearchable riches of Christ, my Lord!" A few moments before his departure the physician asked him, "What of Christ; what is he to you now?" With a voice that betokened quiet confidence he replied, "I am resting, sweetly resting, on the everlasting arm." A moment later he was not; for the Lord took him.

Harry Stevenson Free was born near Leechburg, Pa., April 14, 1860, and died in Allegheny City January 26, 1896. In 1886 he graduated from Allegheny College, and the same year was admitted on trial in the Pittsburg Conference. His first appointment was Saltsburg Circuit. From 1887 to 1891 he attended the Theological School of Boston University, graduating in 1891, and having in the meantime supplied Greensburg for seven or eight months. Immediately after his graduation he was appointed pastor at New Brighton. He served this large congregation faithfully and with large success. At the Conference of 1891 he was appointed to Riverside Church, Allegheny. He found a badly located church, with a small and discouraged membership. He went from house to house, calling on all families, and when they belonged to no church he invited them to his own, saying, "You must have the Gospel, and your children must be taught in the way of the Lord." In this way he soon filled the little church building. The membership took heart, and a new location on California Avenue was secured. Then commenced his extraordinary and exhausting labor in the erection of the new church. As it neared its completion, in 1895, his health failed. He went to the country, hoping that rural quiet would restore him. But the disease was too deeply rooted, and at the Conference of 1895 he was placed on the superannuated list, and left for Southern California. He came back in January to Allegheny, and after about three weeks breathed his last in glorious assurance of the better life. He was emphatically a man of one work. He devoted all he had to the ministry into which the Lord Jesus had put him. He was a scholar, a student, a faithful preacher, a diligent and faithful pastor, a good husband and father. He has gone to his reward, early crowned. He was lovely in life, sweet in spirit. His wife was the daughter of Dr. S. H. Nesbit.

John Anderson Danks was born of English parents in Venango County, Pa., March 11, 1826, and died in Glenfield, Pa., July 25, 1896. His early life was spent on a farm. In 1840 his parents removed to Pittsburg, where he obtained a fair education, became an iron worker, and also a local preacher. In 1848 he married Miss Anna Reese, who died during their pastorate in Johnstown. At the outbreak of the rebellion he recruited Company E. of the Sixty-third Pennsylvania Volunteers, and with his regiment marched to the front. He was in many battles, was once captured and carried to Libby Prison, was wounded in the battles of Fair Oaks and the Wilderness, and for his bravery was promoted by successive steps from captain to colonel. After his return from the war he engaged in business in the borough of Etna, Pa., and was elected to the Legislature in 1866. Prior to his admission to the Conference he built, and served with success, the Middlesex Church, of the Brownsville Charge. He joined the Pittsburg Conference in 1870, and was appointed to the Brownsville Charge, which he served for two years. His following appointments were: Marchand, Indiana, Connellsville, Second Church, Johnstown; Tarentum, Denny, Pittsburg, Mount Washington, Pittsburg. He was supernumerary four years, he then was made effective and appointed to Glenfield in 1891, where his labors ended with his life. He was a toiler in the vineyard. He gave little heed to the customary clerical diversions, but devoted his time and thought to his church and people. He built the splendid church in Indiana, of which his predecessor, M. J. Sleppy, had laid the foundation. He also built the Denny Church, of Pittsburg, Pa. He had revivals on most, if not all, his charges, and many will rise up to call him blessed. His genial nature made him a popular guest in the homes of his parishioners. He was a good preacher, free from cant and sensationalism. He preached, not mysteries, nor philosophies, but simple Gospel truth, in a plain and practical manner, and his word was with power and in demonstration of the Spirit. He was a model of punctuality. As a singer, possessing a voice of great compass and power and yet marvelously sweet and pathetic, he was much sought after by citizen and soldier gatherings, near and far. He died at his post. His last conversation was upon the subject of eternity, into the mysteries of which he humbly trusted he was prepared to enter. He felt that he was being closely and constantly shadowed by the grim conqueror, and expected that his departure would be, as it proved, without warning. His last words were, "Now, then, I am ready," as with sermon and satchel he was about to start for his distant appointment. His last act was to tender a word of comfort to a neighbor in distress, when he fell to the floor and his spirit went up to God. He was borne to his long home in a terrific electrical storm, strangely suggestive of the stormy scenes of his martial career. But ere the grave was reached the sun shone out again, and all that was mortal of John A. Danks was peacefully laid to rest by his wife and three children, there to await the reveille of the morning.

Holston Conference.

David Shields Hodsden was born February 28, 1848, in Sevier County, Tenn., and received his education at Princeton, N. J. At a meeting held in Sevierville, in 1867, he was converted and united with the church. Not long thereafter he received license to preach, and in 1875 joined the Holston Conference, of which he remained a member until his death, except two years spent in the South Kansas Conference. He served many of the best circuits in the Conference, some of them being the Sevier, the Clinton, the Knox, and the New Salem. A number of years he spent in station work in some smaller towns. As a man he was retiring, broad in spirit, and generous in his affections. As a preacher he was logical and forceful. Few in the Conference were his superiors; none were more faithful in preparation and more fearless in utterance than he. He was eminently successful in evangelical labor, and many of the leading members to-day in the charges which he served were led to the cross under his ministry. At the Conference of 1895 he was appointed to the Fair Garden Circuit. With great feebleness he went to the circuit. The zeal which characterized his ministry glowed brightly, and already he was having promise of a successful year, when he was prostrated. He was taken to the home of his childhood, where, after lingering a few weeks, he died in the faith. He leaves five children, who mourn his loss. Only a few weeks after his death his wife also passed away.

ALBERT G. WATKINS was born in Jefferson County, Tenn., May 5, 1818, and died in Hawkins County, Tenn., November 9, 1895. When quite young he completed a collegiate education and studied law. Soon afterward he was elected to represent his county in the State Legislature, serving two terms. He was then elected to represent his district in the United States Congress, serving four terms with credit. On August 30, 1839, he married Miss Louisa Britrain, of Kentucky, who died in 1885. He married Miss Lucretia Caldwell December, 1886, who still survives him. In 1865, at Panther Springs, Tenn., he was most gloriously converted and immediately began to pray in public. Before the meeting closed he delivered his first exhortation to his neighbors, urging them to turn to the Lord. Soon thereafter he received license to preach, and joined the Holston Conference in 1866. He traveled Mossy Creek, Morristown, Dandridge, Knox, Jacksboro, Fincastle, and Rutledge Circuits with great acceptability. While on the Rutledge Circuit the second year his health failed, and he was compelled to take a superannuated relation. He was a good student, and was well versed in the Bible and other books. He always had something new and interesting to say. He was a man of deep piety, a popular preacher, a good revivalist, and an excellent pastor. For several years he was a great sufferer, but never complained of his lot, rejoicing in the grace that sustained him. His strength gradually failed, and quietly, yet victoriously, he passed to his reward, respected and beloved by all.

S. B. SCOTT was born in western New York November 3, 1829, and died at Oliver Springs, Tenn., January 6, 1896. He was ordained deacon by Bishop Janes September 8, 1867, joined the Holston Conference in October, 1877, and was ordained elder by Bishop Simpson October 2, 1882. He served the following charges: Huntsville, Scarborough, Jamestown, Sunbright, Crossville, Oliver Springs. He was industrious because he was good. He always impressed his people with his profound piety. He was of spotless character. He had a correct view of life, and that was to glorify God and to better the world. He lived for others, and not for himself. He was a model pastor.

DANIEL BRADLEY LAWTON was born in the western part of New York June 5, 1814, and died near Kenka, Fla., May 12, 1896. He was powerfully converted when only twelve years old, and began to preach in his eighteenth year. He commenced his ministry in the old Black River Conference, and for over sixty-four years was a member of the itinerant ranks. He was a man of heroic courage, profoundly versed in the doctrines of the word of God as expounded by Wesley and the early Methodist fathers. As a preacher he was full of the unction and power of the Holy Ghost. His experience was childlike, but deep, and constantly enriched and sweetened by communion with Christ. For many years he was a great sufferer from physical infirmity, and also from the embarrassments of poverty; but he was sweet-spirited and full of joyful expectation of the glory awaiting the faithful followers of the Lord Jesus. He died in great peace.

E. L. FILLMORE was born in Champaign, Ill., June 11, 1864. At fifteen he graduated from the high school, and was preparing for college when his health failed. With his parents he removed to Minnesota in 1882, and settled at Big Lake. Here he married in 1886 Miss Ella B. Parrett, who, with three children, survives him. He was converted in 1887, and joined the church. In 1889 he removed to South Dakota, engaged in farming, and also attended Pierre College. Having felt from his conversion that he was called to the ministry he joined the South Dakota Conference in 1891, and was appointed to Heckla Charge. He remained in this place two years and was then appointed to Langford. His labor on these charges was hard, as he had to preach three times on Sundays and face the terrible blizzards of the winter. His health failed and he moved to Tennessee in the fall of 1894, and was appointed to Hill City Charge, where he was completing his second year when called to his reward. He had also completed two years in the School of Theology of Grant University, and expected to graduate next May. He died at Hill City August 12, 1896. Although he had been in the South only two years he had gained a large place in the hearts of the people, and will be greatly missed.

A. J. GREER was born in Kentucky in December, 1832, and died November 20, 1895. In 1864 he married Miss Elizabeth Holliday, who survives him. His ministerial life was long and useful. In 1856 he was licensed to preach. He joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and was ordained deacon by Bishop Andrew. Soon the civil conflict broke out. Like many other heroic preachers in East Tennessee he bore his share in the sufferings of those who remained loyal to the government. When the clouds of war were lifted he met the brethren who were organizing the Holston Conference at Athens, Tenn., and there on June 1, 1865, he was ordained elder and received into the Holston Conference. For many years he preached with blessed results the Gospel of reconciliation. The people hung upon his ministry, and loved him for his noble qualities and untiring zeal. Many in the last day will rise up and call him blessed. He held various offices of public trust, but never dimmed the luster of his Christian character. As a man of honor, integrity, and sterling worth he lived above suspicion, and preserved the spotless reputation that was freely accorded him as a minister of Jesus Christ. His last days were days of peace. For him death had no terrors. He looked with joy to his everlasting reward in the presence of his Redeemer and Friend.

WILLIAM C. GRAVES was born August 13, 1805, and when fifteen joined the church as a seeker of religion. Two years later he was converted and appointed class leader; the following year he was licensed to exhort; and in 1834 he was admitted to the Holston Conference on trial. When the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, withdrew he, like all the Methodist preachers of that section, went with the new organization; but when the old Church was reorganized he reentered her fold and labored for her success. During the war, and that period worse than war which followed, he was a peacemaker, bending all his energies to promote harmony between his brethren. During his ministerial life he served sixteen years as presiding elder; edited for four years The Religious Intelligencer; and was twice elected to the General Conference. When the East Tennessee Conference was organized he was one of the white members of the Holston Conference who helped to make the new Conference possible. His best work in this connection was doubtless the founding of the Morristown Normal Seminary. He never lost his interest in that work after he returned to his own Conference. The students of the school showed their appreciation of their old friend by walking four miles to attend his funeral in a body. As a preacher he was clear and forceful, his style being conversational. While not a great revivalist, he was nevertheless very successful in winning souls to Christ, and many throughout east Tennessee, western North Carolina, and southwestern Virginia were converted under his ministry. He was a faithful pastor; few men have prayed in more east Tennessee homes than did he. He was a man who passed through great afflictions. Six times he went to the graveyard with his dead—his wife and five children. Within six weeks he buried his wife and two grown children, but his spirit maintained its same trustful mood. An evidence of his self-control was seen at the burial of his son. There was no minister present, and, after prayer by a layman, he himself delivered the funeral address. His long and useful life ended January 29, 1896. He was in failing health for three years. From May, 1895, he grew worse, and finally, through great suffering, came to his death. His patience was a wonder. His disease gave him almost constant pain, but never one word of complaint or impatience escaped his lips. He talked of dying and of heaven as one talks of his worldly plans for the morrow. Some of the ministers at his funeral had been associated with him for more than fifty years. Sixty-four years was he a Christian and sixty-two years a preacher of the Gospel. Splendid record of a noble man! But his life is not ended; it will go on in influence here and yonder.

California Conference.

Justus M. Hinman was born January 12, 1813, in Redfield, N. Y. While yet an infant his parents moved to Westfield, in the same State. Both were stanch Methodists, and the doctrines of the Church were instilled into the mind of their boy from infancy. When fourteen or fifteen he was soundly converted. A few years later he received license to exhort, and still later was made a local preacher. He would have joined the itinerant ranks before he did, but his father's health failed and the straitened circumstances of the family made his help indispensable to their support. In 1836 the family removed to Illinois and settled near Rock River. In 1845 he joined the Rock River Conference and was assigned to Des Plaines Circuit as junior preacher. Then followed Kankakee and Naperville. In 1847 he was received into Conference and ordained elder. On November 25, 1847, he married Miss Betsey Burlingame. Other appointments were filled by him till 1852, when he located. In the following year with his family he crossed the plains to California. After working at his trade until 1857 he took work under the elder in Sonoma County. In September, 1858, he was readmitted to the itinerant ranks by the California Conference and appointed to Russian River Circuit. His subsequent appointments were: Bodega and Bloomfield, Timbuctoo and Penvalley, Michigan Bluff, Yankee Jim, and others. In 1865 he took a supernumerary relation, but in 1868 was again made effective and for two years filled the H Street Station in Sacramento. He continued effective until 1877, when he again took a supernumerary relation, and two years later was superannuated. He loved to preach, and especially in the earlier years of his ministry great power attended the word spoken by him. His last sermon was preached in Honcut April 12, 1896. On May 1 he had a slight paralytic stroke, lasting for a few moments, after which he declined rapidly. Much of the time from May 28 he was unconscious, with occasional lucid intervals when he would repeat texts of Scripture and comment on them as if delivering a sermon. At last he sank into an unconscious state and so remained until Sunday afternoon, June 14, 1896, when he quietly fell asleep in Jesus at the residence of his son, Rev. L. B. Hinman, in Sheridan. One son and three daughters, with their mother, remain to cherish his memory.

West Wisconsin Conference.

Edward Bradford Russell was born at Winsted, Conn., July 24, 1822, and died at Great Falls, Mont., September 7, 1896. In 1849 he removed to the Territory of Wisconsin. In 1851 he was converted while attending a meeting of Methodists, a denomination then looked upon with some disfavor by his people, who were Presbyterians. He felt at once a call to preach, but under the adverse influence fought the conviction as long as he could. He then surrendered unconditionally, and said, "My Father, if my lifework is to preach the Gospel of the Son of God, open the way and I will walk therein." He became a member of the Wisconsin Conference in 1854. His first appointment was Hamilton Grove. In 1859 he was transferred to the Southern Illinois Conference, where he remained one year. He entered the West Wisconsin Conference in 1864. His work was in western and northern Wisconsin, some of his appointments being Broadhead, Albany, Monticello, Providence, Delton, New Lisbon, Hammond, Arkansaw, Galesville, Arcadia, Pepin, Osceola, Mills, Maiden Rock, Louisville, Eau Claire Circuit. In 1892 his health began to fail, and he was obliged to discontinue his active work, from that time residing at Eau Claire, Wis., and Great Falls, Mont. On May 31, 1896, he preached in Great Falls, Mont., a sermon of great feeling and earnestness. About a week afterward he was stricken with paralysis, from which he never fully recovered, and on September 7 he suffered a second stroke, which proved fatal. He possessed many of the natural qualifications of a successful public speaker and preacher of the Gospel. He often seemed inspired of the Spirit, and spoke words that carried conviction. In 1852 he married Mary Woods, who died in 1858. His second wife was Mary E. Coble, of Wiota, Wis., who died at Eau Claire, Wis., in 1891.

Upper Iowa Conference.

James Harris Rhea was born in Lincoln County, Tenn., July 13, 1827. He was converted at a Cumberland Presbyterian camp meeting near Maysville, Ark., August 23, 1851. He joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in May, 1852, at Van Buren, Ark., was licensed to preach in October, 1855, and was ordained deacon by Bishop Paine in 1859. He came north to Burlington, Ia., August 19, 1861, and engaged in teaching in Fairfield, Ia., till June, 1862. He joined the Central Illinois Conference at Galesburg, Ill., in September, 1862, and was ordained elder by Bishop Scott. In 1871 he joined the Upper Iowa Conference and was stationed at Clinton, Ia., where he remained two years. He then spent three years at Dubuque, two years at Cedar Falls, three years at First Church, Davenport, three years at Mount Vernon, three years at Grace Church, Waterloo, one year at Toledo, four years at Marshalltown, and two years at Iowa Falls, when he was returned to Clinton, where his lifework closed. He died May 27, 1896. The Sabbath before his departure he preached in the morning and took part in the evening service. Only the day before he conducted a funeral service, and in the evening took part in a union prayer meeting. He was a man of wonderful energy and an indefatigable worker. He has gone direct from busy toil to render the account of his stewardship and to greet many to whom he pointed out the way of life. He leaves a wife and five children. He was a man of commanding presence, positive convictions, and of clear thought. He exercised an influence that was far-reaching. He was honored with the doctorate of divinity. As a preacher he was instructive and earnest. He was generous, sympathetic, and always hopeful. The measure of his years was full. The gold of evening met the dusk of night and the laborer fell asleep.

Thomas Sylvester Metcalf, son of J. B. Metcalf, of the Upper Iowa Conference, was born near Lisbon, Ia., May 15, 1867. He was converted at the age of thirteen and was baptized and received into the church by his father. In early manhood he engaged in teaching, and became a student in the State Normal School at Cedar Falls. While thus engaged he received the call to preach, and when fully persuaded he yielded obedience. His license to exhort was signed by his father. Realizing the need of more extensive preparation he entered Epworth Seminary, and in June, 1894, graduated with honor. In the fall of the same year he was received on trial in the Upper Iowa Conference. He was appointed to Dubuque Circuit, was reappointed in 1895, and was in charge at his death, which occurred at the home of his parents September 18, 1896. He came home a week previous to his death with premonitions that his end was approaching. In the hours before reason was dethroned he gave testimony to his firm persuasion of he truth of the Gospel and his reliance upon the Saviour. His disease soon attacked his brain, and the summons to depart was not long delayed. During his brief life he gave full proof of his ministry. Souls were converted, the church edified, and all the work of a pastor acceptably performed. He would have finished his term of trial and have received ordination and a cordial welcome to membership in the Conference at its present session.

Sherman W. Joy was born in Benton County, Ia., near Urbana, October 24, 1870. When eight years old he went with his father's family to Kansas, which was their home for ten years. Then one year they lived in Missouri, after which they returned to Urbana. In revival service held at Urbana in November, 1890, he was converted and united with the church. He attended school at the Tilford Academy in Vinton, graduating in 1893, and the same year joined the Upper Iowa Conference. He was appointed to serve Waterloo Circuit, where he remained two years, during the last of which he carried a full course of study in the State Normal School at Cedar Falls while faithfully attending to his pastoral duties. In 1895 he was appointed to the Plainfield Charge, where he labored most faithfully until taken sick, about six weeks before he died. His sickness was not considered dangerous until the day before his death. When called to the ministry he cheerfully and fully consecrated himself to that work. He had a true appreciation of the responsibility of the service. He gloried in work, not for work's sake, but for the work's object. There was such a brotherly cordiality manifested by him that he at once won the friendship of all his associates. Rarely is a pastor more generally beloved by all his community than was he. His was a healthy, vigorous faith. The essentials of Christian doctrine were all too real to him to admit of speculation. There was no reserve in his consecration and no doubt of God's complete acceptance. He died September 25, 1896, and on Sunday, the 27th, the funeral occurred from the church in which he was converted.

Illinois Conference.

Samuel H. Martin was born in Hagerstown, Md., May 5, 1818, and died in Concord, Ill., February 22, 1896. He was brought up in the Roman Catholic faith. When nineteen he was converted and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church in Knox County, O., and six months after was licensed to preach. The first trophy of his ministry was the conversion of his own mother. In 1837 he married Miss Anna Harry, and soon after came to Illinois and supplied Mount Pulaski Circuit. He continued to preach under the presiding elders until 1845, when he settled in Clinton, where his wife died. On September 27, 1848, he married Miss Rebecca Torrea, who survives him. One of his sons is Rev. J. J. Martin, of the Saint Louis Conference. On November 4, 1862, he enlisted in the army, and was commissioned as chaplain of the 107th Illinois Volunteers. He served his country faithfully until failing health compelled him to resign, and December 7, 1863, he was honorably discharged from the service. In 1865 he joined the Illinois Conference, and never failed to answer at roll call. He served acceptably the following charges: San Jose, Heyworth, Chapin, Concord twice, Middletown, Elkhart, Athens, and Beverly. For three years he was Agent for the Illinois Wesleyan University. In 1874 he became supernumerary and practiced medicine. In 1892 he superannuated and settled in Concord. So long as strength would permit he was active in the work of the Master. During his last months he passed through much suffering, yet bore it all with a calm confidence in God. Almost his last words were: "All is clear." "Be faithful and meet me in heaven." In the days of his strength he had great power over his audiences. His message came from a warm heart and was watered with tears. He doubtless realized the promise, "They that sow in tears shall reap in joy."

Marion Rose was born near Knoxville, Ill., February 15, 1847, and died in Virginia, Ill., July 16, 1896. In early life he removed with his parents to Indiana. When he was fifteen his father died, leaving him dependent upon his own resources. Having a great desire for an education, he applied himself vigorously, and in young manhood graduated with honors in the high school, and also in Ascension Seminary at Sullivan, Ind. He afterward attended De Pauw University and spent about ten years in teaching. He was converted near New Lebanon, Ind., in February, 1863, and ever after was a devoted Christian. On December 30, 1880, he married Miss Mary Williamson at Anderson, Ill., who survives with one daughter. He was received on trial in the Indiana Conference in 1878 and was appointed to the Decktown Circuit, and afterward served the following charges: Freelandville, Alfordsville, Farmersburg. In 1884 he was transferred to the Illinois Conference and stationed at Palmyra, where he served two years. His other charges were: Manchester, Havana, Pittsfield, Warrensburg, Homer. Here his health failed, and he was compelled to resign at the end of six months, and became superannuated. He was signally successful on every charge. He was a careful pastor, an able preacher a wise counselor, a refined Christian gentleman. The last two years of his life were a period of great suffering which was endured with perfect resignation. Among his last words were these: "All is bright; praise God."

Alexander Taylor Orr was born in Harrison County, O., January 24, 1831, and died in Buffalo, Ill., April 13, 1896. He was converted in Monroe County, O., January, 1846, and united with the Church. He married Margaret S. Gamble December 27, 1855; she survives him, with two sons and one daughter. He was licensed to preach in July, 1858, and was received on trial by the Illinois Conference in 1863. He filled acceptably the following appointments: Taylorville, Irving, Mount Pleasant, Farmer City, McLean, Marshall, Griggsville District, Delevan, Tuscola, Paris, Clinton, Mattoon, First Church, Shelbyville, Deland. In 1892 he was superannuated. His early education was in the public schools of Ohio. All his life he was a student. He read closely, was a good theologian, and was a well-informed man on different lines of investigation. He was of Scotch-Irish origin. He possessed a massive frame, and was a man of most commanding presence. His mind was finely poised, analytic, and most unerring in its judgments. He was endowed with uncommon common sense. He read men as well as books, and excelled as an administrator, both in the pastorate and the presiding eldership. He commanded the respect of the best men in whatever community he resided. As a preacher he was strong, scriptural, instructive, evangelical. Sinners were awakened and converted under his ministry. He preached Christ. He hid behind the cross. He was a true friend. As a Christian he was humble, faithful, trustful. During his long sickness he gave continual evidence of his unfaltering trust in his Saviour. The religion he had preached to others sustained him. He lives in heaven.

James P. Dimmitt died of paralysis in Jacksonville, Ill., October 29, 1895, in his sixty-eighth year. He was born in Batavia, O. When ten years old he came with his parents to Illinois, who settled near Griggsville. He was converted and joined the church September 20, 1842. He was licensed to preach in August, 1849, and the following September was received on trial in the Illinois Conference. He was assigned to a circuit with twenty-six appointments. His health gave way in the middle of the year, and at the next Conference he was discontinued at his own request, but served as a local preacher for three or four years. In 1854 he was readmitted and early took high rank in the Conference. He served the following charges successively: Fifth Street, Quincy; Barry Circuit, Perry Station, where he had one hundred conversions; Perry Circuit, Second Charge, Griggsville; Pittsfield, Griggsville District; North Street, Danville. Failing in health he superannuated in 1868 and removed to Fort Scott, Kan., where he supplied the First Church, having a revival with sixty-five conversions. Returning to Illinois he served Griggsville Circuit, Detroit, Griggsville District the second time, Quincy District, Jacksonville Circuit, First Church, Clinton; and West Jacksonville Circuit. In 1887 he removed to Texas and supplied Saint Paul's Church, Fort Worth, where he had a revival with two hundred and fifty conversions. In 1888 he was transferred to the Austin Conference, and was appointed to Fort Worth District. In 1889 he organized and built the first church in Iowa Park. In 1890 he was transferred back to the Illinois Conference. He was twice elected delegate to the General Conference. As a preacher he was popular. He had a winning address, a fine voice, and a ready utterance. His sermons were practical, forcible presentations of Gospel truth. He was remarkably successful as a soul-winner. Perhaps in this respect he was unsurpassed in the Illinois Conference. Even thousands were converted under his ministry. One year, part of which was devoted to evangelistic work, he conducted camp meetings in which one thousand converts were reported. In his later ministry he was led into the evangelistic field. Only two years ago, after he was a superannuate, he labored in revivals where there were eight hundred conversions. During one of his campaigns in the Northwest he had a wonderful experience. Letters to his wife breathe a spirit of seraphic ardor not unlike Fletcher's. Like Paul he seemed exalted above measure through the manifestations of divine power. His methods were his own. He did not storm. He did not attempt to drive or terrify by violent appeals. He relied on the gentler methods of persuasion. Another element of strength he possessed was versatility. He seemed equally at home as presiding elder, pastor of a city station, or circuit rider. He was genial in his social intercourse and "given to hospitality." He married, on April 12, 1853, Miss Sarah L. Rush, who survives, with four children. Just before he died he was asked if the Lord was with him. He replied, "O, yes, all the time," and repeated the dying words of Wesley, "The best of all is God is with us."

Joseph Montgomery was born near Shepherdstown, Va., October 10, 1812, and died in Normal, Ill., August 22, 1896. His first recollection of a religious service was of a Methodist class meeting. He was converted in early youth and united with the church near Wheeling, W. Va. His faithfulness and gifts soon furnished a sufficient warranty for granting him license to preach; and after traveling one year under the presiding elder in 1837 he was received on trial in the Pittsburg Conference. He served the following charges successively: Lewis, New Lisbon, Hanover, Hanover and Knoxville, Deersville, Lecsburg, Carrollton, Smithfield, Saint Clairsville, Bridgewater, Salem, and Uniontown. He was ordained deacon by Bishop Morris in 1840, and elder by Bishop Roberts in 1841. In 1852 he was transferred to the Illinois Conference, and served the following charges in the order named: Rushville, Quincy District, East Charge, Bloomington; Decatur, Waverly, Clinton, Lincoln, Mechanicsburg, Decatur Circuit, Fifth Street, Quincy; Payson, Twin Grove and Covel, University Charge, Champaign; Bement, Agent of Preachers' Aid Society, Rantoul, Taylorville, Illiopolis, Monticello, Arcola, Cisco, Mahomet, Warrensburg. In 1882 he became supernumerary, and in 1883 superannuated. He was twice married—first to Miss Nancy Lidd, of Woodfield, O., in the fall of 1838, their son being the Rev. Homer B. Montgomery, of the Illinois Conference. She went to her reward in the fall of 1871. His second marriage was to Miss Rachael Salisbury, of Camargo, Ill., who remains to sustain her sore bereavement. He was a great lover of books and a tireless searcher for the truth. He gloried in preaching the doctrines of the cross of Christ. Just before his departure he said to his wife, "If it was the pleasure of our heavenly Father to give me strength I would love to live one thousand years to preach the Gospel of Christ." As a preacher and pastor he was efficient. As a Christian he was ardent and eminently spiritual. He never failed to answer to his name when the roll was called, save once, in fifty-nine years. His last illness was of short duration, and when the end came, of heart failure, it was a surprise to all. Like Elijah he was suddenly carried up into heaven in the chariot of the Lord.

Cincinnati Conference.

Wesley Webster was born December 24, 1814, in Meigs County, O. After the usual elementary education in private schools he entered the Ohio University in 1838, intending to take the full college course, but was compelled to relinquish this purpose on account of failing health. When about sixteen he attended a camp meeting on the Athens Circuit, at which he was blessedly saved a little after midnight on the morning of May 24, 1830. He united with the church in August of the same year. While attending school in Athens he was appointed a class leader, and in 1840 was licensed to exhort. In 1841 he was licensed to preach, and in 1842 was admitted into the Ohio Conference. His first circuit, Marysville, had twenty-five appointments, to be visited every four weeks, involving about two hundred and twenty-five miles travel. His subsequent appointments were Jamestown, South Charleston, Marysville, Hebron, Thornville, Rushville, New Lexington, Union, New Carlisle, Red Lion and Springboro, Davisson Chapel, Dayton; Concord, King's Creek, North Lewisburg, Fletcher, Centenary, and New Lexington. From 1870 he was in superannuated relation. On June 17, 1845, he married Miss Sarah J. Davisson, of South Charleston, O. About five years ago he wrote the following note, to be read in love feast, under the impression that it might be his last testimony: "I realize that I am nearing the sunset of human life. I have lived in this community eighteen years. In my intercourse with the church and this people I have sought to be actuated by a spirit of love, integrity, and moral honesty. . . I thank God for the gift of life and for what he has promised to those who love him. It will be sixty years next May since I was converted, since which time I have endeavored to be a faithful Christian. I feel, however, that I have come short of measuring up to my ideal of a model Christian. My only hope rests in the fact that Jesus died for me. I expect to be made complete in him. As all rivers tend toward the ocean, so all my desires, purposes, and hopes reach out to gain the better life. I desire a heart of love and tenderness, filled with faith and the Holy Ghost." No one who knew him will doubt the exact truthfulness of every word above quoted. His death, in South Charleston, O., September 25, 1895, was triumphant.

Isaac Clay Page was born near Catawba, O., April 27, 1863, and at Mechanicsburg, O., on January 5, 1896, he entered into everlasting rest. While yet a lad he gave his heart to God and united with the church. Soon after his conversion came the undoubted call to preach. At last he yielded, and entered the Theological School of Wittenberg College, at Springfield, O., where he remained two years. In 1888 he was admitted on trial in the Cincinnati Conference and appointed to South Charleston Circuit, where he remained for two years. Then he spent three years at Mutual, one at Batavia, one at Christiansburg, after which four months of superannuation, and then came the transfer to the Church triumphant. He married Miss Addie Gordon, of Catawba, March 5, 1884. When he was sent to Batavia he was in his usual good health. But in early spring came a very severe attack of la grippe. Then came the struggle for life that was prolonged for twenty months. The impress of purity was on his face. His manners were pleasing, his nature genial. He made friends wherever he went; he bound his friends to him. He loved to preach, and the truths of Christ's Gospel were spoken by him with no uncertain sound. For a long while he could not give up the thought that the Master had much work for him to do and he was to be spared to do that work. But after a long, severe struggle, that ended in victory, came the blessed peace which passeth all understanding, and he said, "I have passed the rapids, and it's all right now—it's just right!"

James Murray was born in Feathered, Ireland, August 25, 1837, and died in Mechanicsburg, O., March 6, 1896. He was of Scotch-Irish descent, his father being a Scotchman and a member of the Presbyterian Church. When he was fourteen the family immigrated to America and settled in Covington, Ky. Here a zealous young friend induced him to attend the Sunday school of the Greenup Street Methodist Episcopal Church, and he soon began to attend the preaching services as well. He was a fine-looking lad, and the pastor observed him, went to him at the close of the service, and urged him to give his heart to God then and there. With beautiful simplicity and obedient readiness he yielded himself to God and at once united with the church. He was at this time sixteen years of age. A few years later he entered the Ohio Wesleyan University. Here he was known for his scholarship and for his manly independence. He graduated in 1865, and the same year joined the Cincinnati Conference, in which he served the following charges: Centenary, Winton Place and Cumminsville, Mount Washington, Lebanon, Christie, Cincinnati; Oxford, Grace, Urbana; Hamilton, Eaton, Hillsboro, and Mechanicsburg. While pastor of the Wilton Place Charge he married Miss Mary Bennett, who, with one son and one daughter, survives him. He commanded in a very marked degree the respect of every community in which he lived. He kept himself "unspotted from the world." He was manly, dignified, independent, courageous. He preached the great doctrines of our religion and its practical duties also, and his soul caught fire as he gave his message. People who heard him felt the power of the truth and went away to lead better lives. His last illness was long and painful. When at last the frail body could no longer respond to the demands of the indomitable spirit he calmly resigned himself to the new experience of suffering God's will. To the end he was patient, submissive, confident in God, and at last calmly fell asleep.

Mighill Dustin was born in Booneville, N. Y., August 18, 1810. He early removed with his parents to Washington County, O., where he passed his youth on a farm. He took a course at a collegiate institute in Marietta which later became Marietta College. A year was passed in Mississippi, where he taught school. In February, 1833, he experienced conversion, and in 1836 entered the ministry. Possessed of a good mind, a strong voice, a strong constitution, and a still stronger resolution to preach Christ, he entered upon his work with singleness of purpose. He traveled the old-time circuits on horseback, with his Bible and hymn book in his saddlebags, with the love of God in his heart, and with perfect contentment in his mind. From circuits he passed to stations; then to stations of larger importance; then to the eldership; and, with advancing years, to work suitable to his age. He was neither buoyant nor despondent, but was a man of settled purpose, deliberate in thought and speech, unyielding in the course he laid down as right. In the days of antislavery agitation he joined the little band that fought for principle against policy. He was an incorporator of Wilberforce University, and one of its most sincere friends during life. The proclamation of emancipation he regarded as one of the great and blessed facts of history. In his semicentennial sermon Dr. Dustin said: "Fifty years ago, when I entered the traveling connection, the fight was on, and waxing hotter and hotter. On the side of the slave power were the two great political parties, the press, the government (both State and national), the Churches, and the general public sentiment. On the other side were truth and righteousness, God and conscience. Looking at the opposing forces from a human standpoint, worldly men and Christians who were weak in faith and cowardly in spirit thought the slave power would continue to be in the ascendant. But not so; for in less than thirty years the right triumphed and the slave power was crushed." In debate he was concise in statement and earnest in delivery. His public utterances were usually carefully prepared. In preaching he began with great deliberation, warming to his subject as he proceeded, and usually closed with an intense and impressive appeal. Thousands were awakened by his preaching. He was elected to the General Conference of 1856 and 1864. By the General Conferences of 1864 he was commissioned to bear fraternal greetings to the Methodist Episcopal Church of Canada. Moores Hill College, Indiana, conferred upon him the degree of Doctor of Divinity. For the last five years his work was nominal, though he bore an active relation to the Conference. His first wife was Miss Mary B. Dana, of Marietta, who died in 1862. One son survives this marriage. In 1869 Dr. Dustin married Miss M. J. Warren, Preceptress of the Xenia Female College, who now mourns her loss. During his last illness he did not speak much of his religious experiences. He would at times say, "It is all right. I have finished the work he gave me to do. Next Sunday I may be in heaven." On Tuesday morning, March 10, 1896, his spirit took its flight.

Simon McChesney was born near Troy, N. Y., August 7, 1838. His conversion at seventeen led him to seek an education for the ministry. Everything in the realms of literature, philosophy, science, and especially theology, that would equip him more fully for his work he eagerly seized and retained. After his conversion he soon began to preach, serving first under the direction of his presiding elder. At twenty he was admitted to the Troy Conference. The following were his appointments, in their order: Troy Conference—North Granville, Hyndsville, Broadway, Albany; Keesville, Saratoga Springs, Ashgrove, Albany. Rock River Conference—Wabash Avenue, Chicago; Trinity Church, Chicago. Minnesota Conference—Centenary, Minneapolis. Rock River Conference—Park Avenue, Chicago. Iowa Conference—First Church, Burlington; 1883, supernumerary. Kansas Conference—First Church, Topeka. Ohio Conference—Broad Street, Columbus. New York East Conference—Trinity, New Haven, Conn. Cincinnati Conference—Walnut Hills, Cincinnati. During his last sickness he bore testimony to the sustaining grace of God. As he showed his people how to live he also showed them how to die. There was no fear, no anxiety—he calmly awaited the summons, and when it came, June 20, 1896, he was ready. His preaching revealed a strong intellectual grasp and a deep spiritual insight into the word. His life is a record of faithfulness to a lofty ideal—a God-given purpose. Throughout a ministry of thirty-eight years he evidenced the spirit of Him "who went about doing good." In 1860, in Albany, N. Y., he married Miss Sarina Jones, who survives, with four children.

William L. Hypes was born in Xenia, O., July 14, 1828. His father was for a full half century a class leader, and was a trustee of the First Methodist Church in Xenia. He was also one of the founders and trustees of McKendree College. Among his grandchildren is Rev. Charles W. Drees, D.D., the superintendent of our missions in South America. William L. Hypes was educated in the schools of his native town and in a private classical school. During a great revival in Xenia in 1840–41 he was soundly converted. After leaving school he took up the study of law. But God had other purposes concerning him, and he entered upon a course of study for the ministry, and was admitted into the Ohio Conference in 1849. His pastoral charges were, successively, Lewisburg, Eaton, Franklin, Concord, Fairfield, South Charleston, Union, Felicity, Park Street, Cincinnati; Oxford, Grace Church, Urbana; Wesley Chapel, Dayton; First Church, Xenia; Walnut Hills, Cincinnati; High Street, Springfield; Grace, Dayton; Avondale and Lebanon. Besides these pastoral charges he was twice presiding elder—on the East Cincinnati District and the West Cincinnati District. In 1892 he reluctantly took a supernumerary relation and settled in Dayton. He was a close and constant student, not merely of systematic theology and current literature, but especially of the Scriptures in the original languages. As a Hebrew scholar he had few equals. The degree of Doctor of Divinity was conferred upon him by McKendree College, Illinois. He served as a member of the General Conference of 1880, and was a member of the Ecumenical Conference in Baltimore in 1891. For many years he was an influential member of the Board of Managers of the Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education Society. He believed in the necessity and possibility of a thorough and conscious salvation. It was his unquestioning faith in God that inspired him to speak with authority. He felt himself to be Christ's man, body and soul, powers, and possessions. Kindness, generosity, good temper, sincerity, were conspicuous traits in his symmetrical character. He might without exaggeration have been called a model pastor. His striking physique, benignant countenance, and his winning manners made him a most welcome visitor among all classes. As a presiding elder he showed great executive ability. Bishop Ninde wrote of him, "I have never met a man of more beautiful and symmetrical character." He was twice married. His second wife was Miss Margaret Brown, of Warren County, O., who survives to mourn her loss. One of their children is Rev. Benjamin D. Hypes, of the Cincinnati Conference. On Sunday, July 26, 1896, "he was not; for God took him."

Elisha Cowgill Smith was born in Mason County, Ky., May 30, 1825, and died near Cleves, O., August 22, 1896. He found the Saviour in early childhood, and united with the Church at the age of sixteen. As a boy he was studious and hard working. Through his own efforts he attended Augusta College, and for twenty-five years taught in the schools of Maysville and Mason County, Ky. He was licensed as a local preacher in 1850, and was ordained deacon in 1861 by Bishop Ames. In 1868 he was ordained an elder by Bishop Clark. In 1870 he was admitted into the Cincinnati Conference, and for eighteen years was pastor successively at Centenary, Butlerville, Moscow, Camp Dennison, Catawba, Mutual, New Jasper, Lewisburg, and North Bend charges. In 1888 he asked a superannuated relation. He was three times married, the last time, in 1880, to Miss Mary H. Durkee, who lives to mourn her loss. He was preeminently conscientious and faithful. He was a plain, earnest, and sincere minister of the Gospel, and hundreds were happily saved. He was often found in schoolhouses by the wayside on week nights, as well as in churches on the Sabbath, preaching Jesus and the resurrection. During his last sickness his suffering was intense, but he never murmured. He spoke of the coming session of his Conference, and said that he wished his brethren and all to know that the Gospel he had proclaimed now met all his requirements. As the end drew near he said, "I have done what I could for the blessed Master."

Northwest Indiana Conference.

Jesse Sparks was born in Belmont County, O., January 11, 1807. When he was about sixteen he came with his parents to Indiana and settled in Dearborn County. Here, in 1827, he married Jemima Thorn. About the year 1839 he moved to Tippecanoe County, Ind. Some time before he left eastern Indiana he was licensed to preach, and rendered his first service in this relation in Adams County. In 1841 he was admitted to the Indiana Conference, and was appointed to Decatur Circuit. Until 1867 he sustained the effective relation. After this, except for two years, he was supernumerary or superannuated. The following is a partial list of the charges he served: Decatur, De Kalb, Angola, Lima, Columbia City, Marion, Wabash, Agency, Fort Wayne College, Rochester Circuit, Fulton and Kewanna. He was a preacher of more than ordinary power. At Decatur a remarkable revival attended his ministry. A sister denomination had a church and a scholarly minister in the town, while he preached in the courthouse and had but one member, and lived a mile and a half in the country. During the meeting, among other results, all the county officers joined the Methodist Episcopal Church. His first wife died October 9, 1872. Two children survive. On August 14, 1873, he married Mrs. Lydia H. Poling, in Fulton County, Ind., who shared with him the evening time of life. For some years his home was in Kewanna. Though his hearing was so dull that he could gather but little that was said he was a faithful attendant upon the means of grace. When so weak that it required all his strength to rise he would take part in the devotional meetings with a fiery zeal that astonished and encouraged all. He was sweet in spirit, and will be long remembered in the community where he spent his last days. He failed rapidly in the last months of life, and just after midnight of January 5, 1896, without apparent consciousness, departed to his rest. He was an apostle of righteousness, an evangel of the good tidings of Christ, a man of God. Many were added to the Church by his ministry who will be bright jewels in his crown of rejoicing.

John Julian Stallard was born in Rush County, Ind., July 1, 1825. He was converted and joined the church at sixteen. On June 6, 1846, he received license to exhort, and later served the Washington and Liberty Circuits. He was admitted on trial in the Indiana Conference in October, 1848, and was appointed junior preacher on the Lanesville Circuit. On June 17, 1849, he was transferred to Asbury Chapel, Louisville, Ky., a charge claimed by the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. In October, 1849, he was appointed to the Petersburg Circuit, and on October 21 married Miss Lucinda Baldwin Green, who died the 20th of the following July, of cholera. In October, 1850, he was appointed to Cannelton, serving that charge two years. On August 26, 1851, he married Caroline Leming, who survives him. After leaving Cannelton he served the following charges: Orleans, Mount Vernon, Owensville Circuit, Roberts Chapel, New Albany, Ellettsville Circuit, Salem, Vincennes, Princeton, Presiding Elder of Rockport District, Simpson Chapel, Greencastle. In May, 1868, the General Conference placed Simpson Chapel in the Northwest Indiana Conference, of which he became a member. In October, 1868, he was appointed to Rockville, and was pastor there for two years. He then served Russellville and Stockwell. He was then superannuated at his own request. In October, 1875, he moved to Russellville and engaged in the practice of medicine, with other business, till his death, June 29, 1896. His grandfather was a local preacher, and traveled several circuits under presiding elders. His father was an exhorter for more than sixty years. His uncle, Jacob M. Stallard, was a member of the Northwest Indiana Conference. The class meeting, under God, was the means of his awakening. When he decided to be a Christian he invited a friend to go forward with him. The meeting was held at a private house. A general revival of religion followed. There was intense persecution of the young converts. The force of it was directed against young Stallard; but in a prayer meeting one night he prayed for the leader of the opposition, who broke down and afterward became a local preacher. His faithfulness to principle is illustrated in the quotation: "I had been offered a good horse, with all necessary habiliments for riding, a good suit of fine clothes, access to a large library, a sufficiency of money to bear my expenses traveling from place to place, if I would leave the Methodist Episcopal Church and advocate Universalism. My response was, 'I cannot advocate what I do not believe.'" While pastor of Asbury Chapel, Louisville, his life was in danger because he was a preacher of the Methodist Episcopal Church. But, though threatened with violence, he refused to leave the State. He was abundant in pastoral labors. On the Petersburg Circuit his faithfulness was tested. Within a radius of three miles four hundred were hurried into eternity by the cholera. While ministering to others he was stricken; and then his wife, the bride of ten months, went to her reward. For several years previous to his superannuation he suffered greatly from throat trouble. In November, 1895, pulmonary trouble obtained a firmer grip on him. During the winter his feeble strength was overtaxed waiting on his aged father, nearly ninety-one, who was daily expected to die. He quietly passed away in the early morning of June 29, 1896, lacking two days of being seventy-one years old. During his last illness he constantly affirmed his faith in God. He left his companion in the itinerancy and his aged father mourning their loss. Eleven days later his father's desire was gratified, for God took him.

JOHN E. NEWHOUSE was born in Holmes County, O., February 7, 1829, and died in Greencastle, Ind., November 18, 1895. When he was quite young his family removed from Ohio to Marshall County, Ind. His parents were devoted Christians, and he had an early religious training. With such advantages as the common schools of the time afforded he prepared himself for a teacher. At about twenty he was converted and united with the church. Not long after his conversion he married Miss Eunice Holstock, who had been one of the pupils in his school. One of their sons is the Rev. Finley D. Newhouse, D.D., of the Minnesota Conference. He served the church for some time and efficiently as a local preacher. He was admitted on trial in the Northwest Indiana Conference in October, 1859, and served in eighteen different charges, the first one being West York, now Walkerton, the last Coatsville. In 1889 his relation, at his own request, was changed to supernumerary, and in 1893 to that of superannuated. He was married a second time, in 1874, to Mrs. Mary Heistand, of Clinton, Ind., who survives him. As a preacher he was earnest and practical. He was a careful student, was familiar with the doctrines and usages of the Church, and adhered closely to the old standards. One of his most prominent traits was loyalty to the Church of his choice, another was firmness of purpose. He had the courage of his convictions, earnestly maintaining what he believed to be right. He was always present at roll-call at Conference and took an active part in the proceedings. In what seemed to others to be almost robust health he was stricken down in a moment. In this condition he lingered for a few days, most of the time unconscious, and then passed away. His work abides. At evening time it was light.
